Neutral Bloc in Balkans May Get Italian Support

Plan Foreshadows Better Relations with France and England

WOULD HALT EXPANSION OF RUSSIAN INFLUENCE

Also Would Prove Blow to Hitler's Plans in Area

BY ROBERT B. PARKER, JR.
Budapest, Oct. 23 (AP)—Reports that Italy was pushing formation of a bloc or southeastern European nations were interpreted by Balkan diplomats tonight as foreshadowing better relations between the Fascist government and Britain and France.

Pointing out that such a bloc, composed of Hungary, Yugoslavia, Greece, Bulgaria, Rumania and Turkey, would resist expansion of Soviet or German influence in the region, diplomats declared it would provide a common ground for a meeting of the Fascists with the Western Allies.

There were widespread reports—without official confirmation—that Premier Mussolini intended to call a meeting of the interested states at Rome or Belgrade, perhaps as early as next week.

Plan Made Easier
Diplomats said that formation of a Balkan neutral bloc would be made easier by the fact that Turkey already was allied to Britain and France while Greece and Rumania had French-British pledges for defense of their independence. Yugoslavia always has been in close sympathy with France and Britain and King Boris of Bulgaria was said to favor close relations with those powers.

It was believed in most southeastern European capitals that Bulgaria's new government, now being formed, would agree to cooperate with its neighbors under Italian leadership, thus postponing territorial demands on Rumania and Greece.

Premier Foreign Minister George Kiossevanoff was instructed by King Boris to form a new cabinet to replace the one which resigned Thursday.

Indications in the Bucharest official press that Rumania favored the neutral bloc came as the inspired Turkish press took pains to assert that Italy would benefit by the new mutual assistance pact between Turkey and France and Britain.

Istanbul and Ankara newspapers declared the ground now was cleared for Turkish-Italian friendship, since both nations wished to keep Russia and Germany from expending into the Balkans.

Southeastern European diplomats said they had learned that Italy had been informed, step by step, of French-British negotiations with Turkey which led to the mutual assistance pacts. They declared that Italy, through the pacts, obtained indirect assurance that Russia's Black Sea fleet would not appear in the Mediterranean to challenge her interests.

Germany's Charge About Athenia Is Mystery to World

Official Reports of London and Washington May Reveal Truth

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
The strange war in Europe took a new twist as the eighth week of hostilities opened.

Overshadowing the actual fighting was a charge by Paul Goebbels, Nazi propaganda minister, that British warships sank the liner Athenia in hope of dragging the United States into the war.

It was an accusation without parallel even among all the World War tales of "atrocities" and neutral observers around the world groped for an explanation as to why it was made at this time.

Even Berlin dispatches pictured the Goebbels' blast as a move primarily to stiffen German public opinion for a long war with all its hardships for the civil population.

May Seek U. S. Influence

There would appear to be another possible motive. Goebbels launched his attack on Winston Churchill, first lord of the British admiralty, who personifies the war-to-the-end spirit in England and France, at a time when a crucial test is approaching in the United States Senate on the question of repealing the arms embargo.

It might represent a desperate hope of inflaming a sufficient element of American public opinion to offset the expected success of the administration in its repeal effort.

Washington observers were inclined to discount the probability that the Goebbels' broadcast would have any such effect.

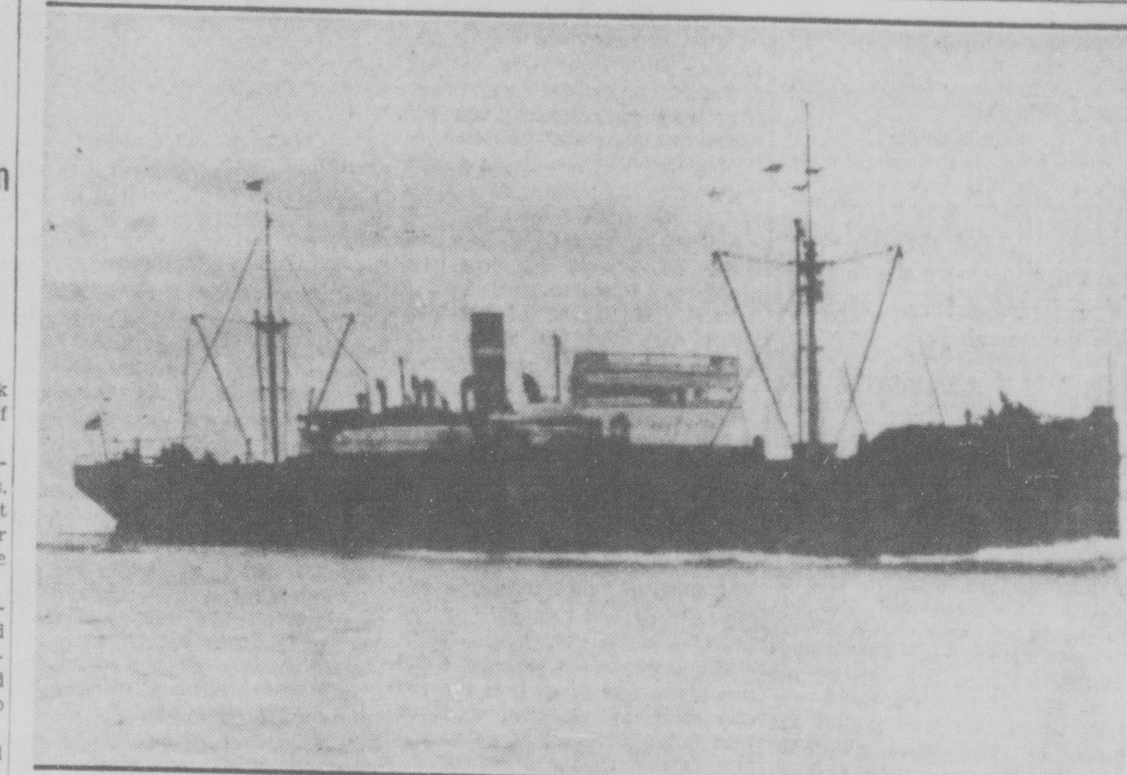

Among the eye-witness accounts of the sinking, the single item which lends any support to the contention is an affidavit of Gustave A. Anderson, an American survivor, made public by the state department. Anderson told of the arrival of British destroyers on the scene and, in response to a question, said he had "learned later" that the Athenia had been sunk by the destroyers as a "floating derelict" the day after the explosion that wrecked her.

Official Reports Requested

Both the London and Washington governments are expected in due course to make public their findings as to what caused the loss of the Athenia. The Goebbels' broadcast tends to compel both to take such

AMERICAN SHIP SEIZED BY GERMAN RAIDER

The American freighter City of Flint, (above) reported captured by a German raider is expected to be the subject of controversy between Russia, Germany and the United States. Question of whether she carried more than 51 per cent contraband will be the deciding factor in respect to her release.

City of Flint, Manned By a Nazi Crew, Sails Under the German Flag

Cargo Said To Have Been Declared Contraband by Raiding Ship; First Taken to Norway, but Is Now Reported in Kola Bay, Russia; May Be Interned until War Ends

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—The freighter City of Flint, owned by the United States Maritime Commission, has been captured somewhere on the Atlantic by a German raider, and, according to reports tonight, has been taken to Kola Bay, near Murmansk, Russia.

The 4,963-ton vessel was en route from New York for Liverpool and Glasgow when taken. Reports to the Maritime Commission, which announced the seizure, did not say on what grounds the ship was taken, but it was assumed the Germans considered that she was carrying contraband to Britain.

News dispatches from Russia described the cargo as tractors, grain, fruit, leather and wax. These dispatches said the ship arrived at Kola Bay under the German flag and manned by a German crew which detained the American crewmen.

MAY BE LEGAL SEIZURE

The United States government immediately started inquiries to learn just what goods were carried by the craft, which is operated under charter of the United States Lines, private organization subsidized by the government. Officials said that if fifty-one per cent or more of the cargo consisted of contraband, international law permitted the Germans to seize the vessel.

The state department announced that it had asked the minister at Oslo and the ambassador at Moscow to make inquiries of the Norwegian and Russian governments concerning the circumstances of the freighter's seizure. It was expected that a similar inquiry would be directed to Berlin tonight or tomorrow.

The maritime commission was informed that the vessel was taken first to Tromsø, Norway, on Saturday, and that same day set sail from that port for an unknown destination. Although the commission received no official information as to where she went after that, the dispatches from Russia said she was at Kola Bay.

There was some question among legal experts as to Germany's right to take the vessel into neutral ports. They said only exceptional circumstances, such as stress of weather, lack of supplies, or need of repairs, could warrant such an action.

NEUTRAL COULD INTERN SHIP

In such exceptional cases, the neutral is supposed to allow the necessary repairs to be made, or if it sees fit, to give the ship the necessary supplies and to tell it to move along. If the ship fails to do so, it must be interned, together with the prize crew.

The American crew aboard the City of Flint must be released in order to be repatriated.

It is presumed here that the case of the City of Flint will be taken under consideration shortly by a German prize court. This prize court must sit in Germany and not in the neutral country to which the City of Flint has been brought.

MAY BELONG TO GERMANY

If the prize court finds that the City of Flint carried a contraband percentage of fifty-one or more it can condemn the ship, whereupon it becomes German property. If, meantime, the ship has been interned owing to the inability of the prize crew to take her into a German port, the interned ship remains the property of the German government, to be released to the account of the German government, at the end of the war. The cargo can be kept in the neutral port.

The skipper of the City of Flint is Captain J. A. Gainard. There were no passengers aboard.

The City of Flint was in British waters at the outbreak of the war and participated in the rescue of survivors of the British liner Athenia, which was sunk Sept. 3.

Over 200 survivors were picked up by the City of Flint and brought to Halifax, N. S. Since the vessel has accommodations for only six passengers, two coast cutters were dispatched to meet her in mid-ocean with supplies.

COMMANDER PRAISED

Her commander was felicitated for the rescue and the Athenia survivors praised captain and crew.

"He didn't sleep a wink," one said in telling of Gainard's efforts to make them comfortable in the ship's limited quarters.

Inquiries will be instituted to ascertain exactly what cargo the City of Flint was carrying when it was seized.

Officials indicated that if contraband formed fifty-one per cent or more of the cargo the German raider was within its rights under international law in taking the ship, provided the City of Flint's operator or captain knew that it was contraband.

In case the United States government finds the contraband was less than the cargo it will demand the release

Medical Ass'n Is Victor in Supreme Court's Decision

High Tribunal Refuses To Review Ruling by Lower Court

But Anti-Trust Law Case Is Likely To Be Submitted Again

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Justice Department suffered another setback in its suit against the American Medical Association when the Supreme court refused today to review a lower court decision which cleared the association of violating the anti-trust law.

However, the issue is expected to be submitted to the high tribunal again, after further litigation.

The case started when the Justice Department obtained indictments charging that the association, two affiliated organizations and a group of doctors conspired to restrain trade by boycotting the Group Health Association, Inc.

The latter organization, a co-operative, was formed to provide medical care to government employees on a periodical pre-payment basis. The government charged that the A. M. A. doctors conspired to prevent group health from obtaining qualified physicians, and also to exclude group health physicians from obtaining qualified physicians from Washington hospitals.

Law Not Involved

The Federal District court here, however, ruled that the practice of medicine was a profession, not a trade, and that the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, forbidding trade restraints was not involved.

Instead of appealing the case to the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, the Justice Department asked an immediate Supreme court review.

2 Americans Held By Swedish Police As Alleged Spies

Stockholm, Oct. 23 (AP)—Two Americans identified by Swedish police as John Gray Faron and George Evered Kidder-Smith—both graduates of Princeton University—were among eleven foreigners under arrest here tonight on suspicion of espionage.

The police alleged the Americans were carrying cameras during a visit to a hilltop childrens home and showed suspicious interest in surrounding military objectives.

Both Americans vigorously denied they had taken any pictures of military value, but pending development of the films in their cameras they were kept in custody.

Swedish authorities acknowledged the possibility that a mistake had been made in the case of the Americans, but insisted on a full investigation.

Police said their attention was first attracted to Faron and Kidder-Smith because they failed to acknowledge a warning sent them by authorities not to take pictures of bridges, harbors and other possible military objectives without permission.

No details were divulged regarding the other foreigners arrested, but they were said to be six Germans and three Russians.

A rigid patrol of the Stockholm and Gothenburg harbor districts has been established to exclude unauthorized persons.

A number of coast artillery batteries were established recently on the islands near Stockholm and all the batteries are manned fully.

Faron and Kidder-Smith described themselves as newspapermen, police said, and they had a foreign office permit to visit a childrens home on the top of a hill.

Salt Lake City, Oct. 23 (AP)—Usually the hunters get the deer, but in this case the animals had their day at Elmer Newren's expense.

While hunting, he spotted a doe and buck. It's illegal to shoot doe in Utah, so he maneuvered for a shot at the male. The gunfire startled a nearby herd he had not seen. The leader knocked him down and the others trampled him in their wild flight up the mountain.

Newren suffered numerous cuts and bruises.

Islanders Get Ready for Winter

Crisfield, Md., Oct. 23 (AP)—Lower Chesapeake Bay islanders began their annual "be prepared" drive today to store up supplies of food and medicine against a possible repetition of the 1935 freeze which isolated them from the mainland.

Smith Island, ten miles off Crisfield, and Tangier Island, Va., farther south, are normally cut off from all communication with the mainland except by a daily mailboat and the boats operated by the watermen.

Four years ago, the ice pack choked the lower bay and cut the islands off entirely. A state trooper was frozen to death during efforts to ferry food and other supplies from Crisfield across the ice to the marooned villagers.

Each year thereafter, Red Cross officials here cooperated with welfare authorities and island residents in helping the latter store up for the winter.

The modernized version of the communications plan calls for establishment of a radio system comparable to ship-to-shore communication.

Fairmont Store Partner Says Girl Cashier Admitted Stealing Money

Fairmont, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—Julius Golden, rotund partner in a Fairmont (Golden Bros.) department store, testified in criminal court here today that Gladys Redford Lipinski, cashier at the store for seven years, had admitted to him she had withheld $60 from a bank deposit and had "lost it playing the numbers."

The comely, dark-haired ex-cashier was indicted on several counts for embezzlement totaling $33,000. The trial, the first in a series, opened today on an indictment charging embezzlement of $60 on July 13, 1939.

Golden said the admission was forthcoming during an all-night investigation he made into the store's books in Mrs. Lipinski's presence. He declared that she was to have deposited $374.58 in a local bank, but had withheld the $60 and then had changed the figures in the bank passbook to show the deposit of the entire amount.

Defense attorney moved to strike out Golden's testimony of Mrs. Lipinski's admission of the embezzlement on the ground the admission was made under restraint, but was overruled by Judge Charles Miller. Golden admitted under cross-examination that during the investigation of the books Mrs. Lipinski had wanted to go home, but that he had refused her permission to do so. He insisted, however, that there was no restraint on his part.

Golden's testimony was the last to be heard today, and Prosecuting Attorney Harrison Conaway indicated he may finish his case tomorrow.

Other witnesses, including an official of the bank and employees of the Golden store, were on the stand today for the prosecution, testifying to amounts of receipts and deposits at various times.

Russia, Finland Again Confer on Use of Islands

BY WITT HANCOCK
Moscow, Oct. 23 (AP)—Russia and Finland began a second series of negotiations tonight which observers believed would result in the concession of Finnish islands to the Soviet.

Diplomatic circles believed Russia would emerge as the unchallenged master of the Gulf of Finland and the Baltic as the result of the conferences, following concessions gained from Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, but would not win consent to Russian garrisons on Finnish soil.

The delegation headed by Dr. Juho Paasikivi, which arrived this morning with instructions from their government on how far Finland was prepared to yield to Soviet demands, was summoned to the Kremlin at 6 P. M. (12 noon, E.S.T.) after waiting most of the day.

Although the Finns were reported resigned to granting some islands for Soviet military bases, it was understood they would resist if the question of placing troops on Finnish soil were raised.

It was understood the Finns, backed up by other Scandinavian states, would vigorously oppose any Russian move to take control of the strategic Aaland Islands in the Gulf of Bothnia.

The Finns were hopeful the conference would end quickly. They pinned this hope on the belief Russia wants to remain neutral in the European war and desires to avoid a fight with her small northern neighbor which might prove to be the start of a general conflict.

Meanwhile, indications of Russia's friendship with Germany was seen in reports from unofficial but re- (Continued on Page Seven) in the bank passbook to show the deposit of the entire amount.

Defense attorney moved to strike out Golden's testimony of Mrs. Lipinski's admission of the embezzlement on the ground the admission was made under restraint, but was overruled by Judge Charles Miller. Golden admitted under cross-examination that during the investigation of the books Mrs. Lipinski had wanted to go home, but that he had refused her permission to do so. He insisted, however, that there was no restraint on his part. Golden's testimony was the last to be heard today, and Prosecuting Attorney Harrison Conaway indicated he may finish his case tomorrow.

Other witnesses, including an official of the bank and employees of the Golden store, were on the stand today for the prosecution, testifying to amounts of receipts and deposits at various times.

Plan To Shorten Embargo Debate Fails in Senate

Reading of Prayer for King of England Criticized by Senators

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—A plan to shorten debate on the administration bill repealing the arms embargo was blocked in the Senate today after opponents assailed the measure anew and criticized the reading of a prayer for the King of England at church services attended by President Roosevelt yesterday.

Both Senator Clark (D-Mo) and Nye (R-Nd) strongly deplored the incident in which the Rev. Frank W. Wilson, pastor of St. James Episcopal church, Hyde Park, prayed that God grant King George VI the strength "to vanquish and overcome all his enemies."

Clark was directly critical of the president.

See Lack of Neutrality

"I cannot refrain," he said "from referring to some of the things that have already gone on tending to show an absolute lack of neutrality on the part of the government, or some of those in high position."

"I refer to the action of the president on yesterday, being present at a service, having his picture taken with the pastor who had been praying for the triumph of the King of Great Britain over all of his antagonists."

The prayer in question was read from a Canadian prayer book of the Church of England. Clark said it would be a good idea to read from an historic prayer book at Williamsburg, Va., in which the passage "God save the King" had been deleted and "God save the president" written in.

"I pray for a real neutrality," Clark said.

When Senator Barkley (D-Ky) asked whether Clark really attached very much importance to the incident, the Missouri senator said he didn't think the president should have gotten up "and walked out of the church," but at the same time he contended that the posing for photographs was unfortunate.

Nye told the Senate that there would have been loud criticism if any German Lutheran minister had arisen in this country to deliver a similar prayer for a German victory.

Debate Limit Blocked

During the day, leaders of both sides in the neutrality law debate had worked out an arrangement to limit debate for the purpose of hastening a vote. However, it was blocked by the objection of Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) who said he wished to call a meeting of those opposed to repealing the embargo before assenting to any restriction on the length of the discussion.

This meeting, he told the Senate, would be held tomorrow morning, and the administration leadership could have its answer at noon. If it would not call the Senate into session earlier than that hour, Senator Barkley assented but a little later he threatened to hold night sessions if necessary to speed a vote.

Under the plan Barkley advocates, each senator would be limited to forty-five minutes' discussion of the neutrality bill itself and forty-five minutes on each amendment.

Today's debate included a blistering denunciation of opposition tactics by Senator Connally (D-Tex) who charged that the foes of repealing the arms embargo had sought to "smear with slime" the record of American participation in the World War.

His statement was made as an interruption in a speech by Senator Nye, who contended that American war trade, and the interests of American bankers and munitions makers, all had contributed to a tendency which ultimately carried this country into the European conflict in 1917.

Other speeches found Senator Clark asserting that American involvement in the present war would result in a loss of traditional American liberties for the duration of the conflict, and Senator Wiley (R-Wis) announcing that he would vote against repeal, but disputing the familiar opposition argument that repeal would ultimately involve the United States as a belligerent.

Not only Connally, but Senator Byrnes (D-Sc) interrupted Nye's argument, the South Carolinian to assert that any contention that the munitions makers and bankers got America into war was a reflection upon the integrity of the members of the Senate who voted for the 1917 war declaration. It was the loss of American lives and ships by German torpedoes that caused America's entrance, he said.

During the day, Senator Tobey, (R-NH) introduced an amendment which would forbid the use of the American flag on the vessels of belligerent nations, to make them appear to be American ships.

Does Michelson Write Speeches for Senators?

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Senate heard a spirited debate today as to whether Charles Michelson, publicity chief for the Democratic national committee, wrote speeches for senators.

Senator Holt (D-WVa) a vigorous administration critic, remarked that "I write my own speeches—I don't have to go to Charley Michelson for them."

"I don't think that Charley would write one for you if you went," rejoined Senator Connally (D-Tex).

Browder Spends Night In New York City Jail

Woman Too Late in Posting Bail for Communist Leader

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Earl Browder, national leader of the Communist party in the United States, who was indicted today for fraudulently obtaining and using a passport, sat glumly in a federal cell tonight despite the efforts of a socially prominent matron to obtain his early release.

After he had spent a few hours in custody, Mrs. Hester G. Huntington, a worker in philanthropy, posted $1,500 bail for him — a $5,000 government bond and $2,500 in cash, most of it in $10 bills.

It was too late, however, to obtain the necessary court order, so Browder had to spend the night in jail.

Mrs. Huntington, who has a home in New Canaan, Conn., and a fashionable Manhattan apartment, and two daughters of sub-debutante age, explained merely:

Never Met Browder

"I never met Mr. Browder personally. I am doing this as a matter of principle."

The amount she posted represented the bail requirement as amended late in the day by Federal Judge William Bondy. He previously had set it at $10,000.

An indictment containing two counts was returned this morning by the federal grand jury investigating a fake passport ring. It charged Browder, in obtaining a passport in September, 1934, and in its renewal in February, 1937, lied when he swore he had never had a passport before.

The maximum penalty on conviction is a five-year prison sentence and $2,000 fine on each count.

Used Two False Names

As a matter of record, the indictment said, Browder had obtained a passport in the name of Nicholas Dozenberg in 1921 and another in the name of George Morris in 1927 — long before the United States recognized Soviet Russia.

The fraud charged by the government was based on Browder's allegedly false statements in connection with the issuance of the passport in his real name, and the use of this passport.

Browder, himself on Sept. 8, had admitted to the Dies committee investigating un-American activities that he had traveled abroad on a passport bearing a fictitious name but had refused to enlighten the committee further, standing on his constitutional grounds that he might incriminate himself.

U. S. Attorney John T. Cahill said today his office had been investigating "for many months all activities with respect to passport frauds," and that further action may be expected.

Held in $10,000 Bail

Browder apparently was taken by surprise by the swift move of the grand jury. Under subpoena to testify, he had gone to the federal building and was waiting in an ante-room when the indictment was returned. He was arrested, arraigned at once before Federal Judge William Bondy, and after pleading guilty was held in $10,000 bail.

After fingerprinting he was handcuffed to a man who had just been sentenced to eighteen months for peddling narcotics. They were taken in a van with other prisoners to the House of Detention.

The mild-mannered former book-keeper, who in 1935 told the communist international in Moscow that the revolutionary movement was progressing in the United States, had nothing to say.

In detailing his background at the federal building, Browder said he was born in Wichita, Kas., on May, 1891, had no apparent occupation, and had never been arrested.

Department of Justice officials said today's action "has no bearing on the merits of the case."

The issue will next be fought out in the Court of Appeals. Government attorneys said the ultimate decision would "affect the conditions of medical practice throughout the United States" and that they considered the case one of the most important of their anti-trust campaign.

Court Rulings Nov. 6

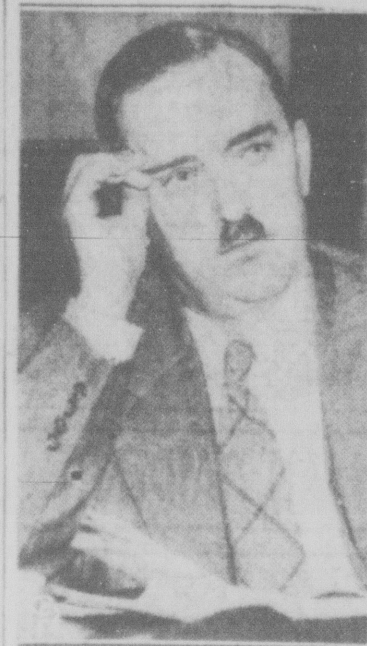

The Supreme court adjourned until November 6 when it will deliver the first opinions of its current winter term. Among the lower court decisions it agreed today to review was one dismissing a government suit against the Bank of New York and Trust Company for $1,080,399. The government contended the Soviets had assigned the money to it in connection with U. S. recognition of Russia in 1933.

The justices declined to review the following:

An injunction restraining Stackpole Sons, Inc., and the Telegraph Press of New York from selling Adolf Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf," copyright of which is claimed by Houghton Mifflin Company of Boston.

A decision denying the British-American Tobacco Company, Ltd., $4,331,509 it sought to recover from the New York Federal Reserve Bank for gold bullion taken over by the government.

Whitman's Salary Raised to $10,000

Board of Public Works Acts upon Suggestion of Gov. O'Connor

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 23 (AP)—The state board of public works today increased from $6,000 to $10,000 annually the salary of Ezra B. Whitman, chairman of the State Roads Commission, making him one of the state's highest paid employees.

The board also gave partial approval to Whitman's plan for changes in the commission, and advised the chairman it expected immediate action to gain the release of $3,000,000 in federal funds earmarked for Maryland roads.

The funds have been held up because of the state's failure to comply with technicalities required by the federal government.

The board which met for four hours in the governor's office, approved the salary increase on Governor O'Connor's recommendation.

Backed by Board

It took the position, the Governor said, that "a man with the tremendous responsibility of chairman of the Roads Commission, and with the high professional standing Whitman holds, should be adequately compensated."

When Whitman took the appointment last June, O'Connor said, he said he could not afford to stay at the $6,000 salary.

Whitman's plan for changes in the commission called for an expenditure of $29,741 in excess of the commission's budget.

The excess was pared to $14,508 by William A. Codd, commission auditor and Walter N. Kirkman, board member, and then approved by the public works board.

The reduction was gained by eliminating salary increases voted twenty-eight positions by the last commission, and by overruling Whitman's recommendations that eleven other jobs be placed on a full-time annual salary basis.

Work on Hourly Basis

Holders of the eleven jobs are paid on an hourly basis now, and the board ruled they should not be changed.

"The board made it plain that it wanted action to gain release of the federal funds," the governor said. "They told Whitman that if it is necessary to over-haul the commission to get results, to go ahead."

Whitman was told that all three divisions of the roads commission — the planning and survey, engineering and legal departments — must be speeded up so the federal money could be released, O'Connor reported. Money for some proposed projects has been held up two years, he added.

The roads chairman said he was working out a "comprehensive plan" which would assure release of the federal funds.

notice and there appears no doubt that the conclusion will be that she was sunk by a torpedo fired from a submarine; but without any definite word to disclose the nationality of the U-boat.

Anderson's own affidavit indicates that the explosion was in the nature of a torpedo blast rather than the result of a mine or internal bomb. He placed the point of impact somewhere in the after part of the ship, which argues against a mine.

While the Goebbels' charge stirred a ferment of speculation, there were reports of brisk fighting on the Northern flank of the Western front. However, further French retirement from advance positions on German soil made it obvious that the allies were settling down for what they expect will be a winter of minor military action.

Germany Awaits Von Ribbentrop's Speech in Danzig

Foreign Minister Scheduled To Deliver "Important" Address

By MELVIN WHITELEATHER
Berlin, Oct. 23 (AP)—Germany's interest centered tonight on a foreign policy speech Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop is to make in Danzig tomorrow before an organization of war veterans.

Officials would give no hint of what the foreign minister would say beyond declaring his speech, scheduled for 8:15 p. m. (2:15 p. m. EST) was important.

Additional evidence that the Nazis attach significance to his words was seen in the announcement that translations would be furnished foreign newsmen.

Political quarters speculated whether Adolf Hitler, with the military and diplomatic war fronts quiet, had commissioned von Ribbentrop to make another peace gesture or shake a defiant fist at Germany's enemies.

No Hitler Proposals

Authorities repeatedly have said Hitler would make no more peace proposals following rejection by Britain and France of his latest terms announced in a Reichstag speech Oct. 6 after the conquest of Poland.

This would not rule out the possibility, however, that some other high Nazi might inform the world that the door for peace is still open.

Another day of quiet on the Western front was reported in a high command communique which said there was no fighting "excepting artillery and reconnoitering activity."

The communique reported a British plane had flown over the railway station at Konzen, about fifteen miles southeast of Aachen, on Oct. 21 and then disappeared over the Belgian frontier.

A campaign to consolidate the "home front" — where many Germans believe the last war was lost — was launched by the Nazi party as part of the political drive which usually occurs in the winter months.

Munitions and other factory workers were being told at a series of meetings that they stand in the first line with field troops. Housewives were being urged to bear hardships with the same determination as soldiers and to save on everything down to the simplest necessities.

A new levy on Jews was imposed by the finance ministry to assure the raising of a billion marks ($400,000,000) "atonement fine" for the slaying of Ernst vom Rath, German embassy secretary in Paris, last year by Herschel Grynszpan, a young Polish Jew.

Originally a twenty per cent capital levy was imposed, but today this was increased by five per cent retroactively.

of the City of Flint. The demand will be addressed to both the German and the Russian governments.

Officials said tractors and leather mentioned as part of the cargo in a dispatch from Moscow were contraband, but that the fruit and grain were not contraband unless it was specifically proved that they were destined for British armed forces.

RUSSIA AGENCY REPORTS SEIZURE

Moscow, Oct. 23 (AP)—Tass, Soviet Russian news agency, reported tonight that a German crew had seized the United States ship City of Flint and brought her into Kola Bay under the Nazi flag as a prize under German contraband regulations.

The Russian port of Murmansk is on Kola Bay.

The news agency said eighteen Nazi crewmen from a German cruiser took charge of the 4,963-ton ship owned by the United States Maritime Commission and arrived in Kola Bay without a Soviet pilot.

Murmansk port authorities for the time being detained the ship and interned the Germans, Tass added.

(The Tass report failed to say what became of the American crew or when or where she was halted.)

To reach Kola Bay, on which Murmansk is located, it would have been necessary for the ship to skirt more than 300 miles off Norway's northern coast from the Atlantic into the Barents Sea.

(Many German vessels, including the Bremen, flagship of the German Transatlantic fleet, have been reported in refuge in the northern Russian port.)

GERMAN ADMIRALTY NOT INFORMED

Berlin, Oct. 24 (Tuesday) (AP)—The German admiralty and the propaganda ministry said early today that they had no knowledge of the American freighter City of Flint being seized by a German raider.

"No report of such action has arrived here thus far," the admiralty spokesman said. However, he suggested that inquiries check the admiralty again later in the day.

Germans Increase Their Activities On Western Front

French Communique Reports Contacts with Enemy along Saar River

By TAYLOR HENRY

Paris, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Germans were reported tonight to be increasing pressure on the French advance line after five days of almost dead calm on the Western front.

As the French strengthened their outposts to meet renewed German activity, reinforced patrols of both sides skirmished briskly along the Northern flank where the Nazis have been cautiously feeling their way with units as small as three and five men.

The French evening communique said there was "marked activity" of contact elements west of the Saar river.

Parliament To Meet

As the western front came to life, Premier Daladier announced he had decided to summon parliament to meet the latter part of November to consider the 1940 budget for another war year.

The semi-dictatorial powers under which Daladier has been ruling France expire November 30. All decrees enacted by his government must be approved by parliament before that date.

A meeting of parliament will be the first since the war began.

A pessimistic note was struck tonight by Retired French General Maurice Duval, writing in the authoritative Journal Des Debats. He summed up the war to date by saying that the French were presented with the problem of cracking the Siegfried line and "simply had to admit our impotence."

The general wrote frankly that "we cannot turn the Siegfried line unless the Germans, taking the initiative, attack through Holland, Belgium or Switzerland and draw us into action there."

General Duval added that unless the Siegfried line fell from within because the French-British naval blockade caused a German political revolution, the only route to victory might be a direct offensive against the German fortifications.

Hope To Break Morale

Although General Duval indicated the Siegfried line would have to be cracked, the French indicated their tactics were aimed at sapping Germany's civilian morale, while avoiding "needless" sacrifice of their troops.

They said the only type of action now being waged consists of a kind of "guerrilla" warfare, involving skirmishes by patrols constantly seeking to chart enemy positions.

France was aided in this type of action by early winter floods. Heavy rains, which sent the Rhine river out of its banks and washed out bridges east of Saarbrücken, contributed to the natural strength of positions established by the French.

Human Body Shapes Have Much To Do with Life's Span, Doctor Says

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

Providence, R. I., Oct. 23 (AP)—Human body shapes that add an average of about 25 years to life were reported to the National Academy of Sciences today.

All were for men only because the studies have not been made on women, though feminine shapes may have the same effect.

In general it is bad for a man to be far from the average American in weight, chest size or some other dimensions. Those who lean toward the overweight class are taking more chances of premature meetings with the reaper than the men who tend to become skinny.

The study was made by Dr. Raymond Pearl, of Johns Hopkins University, who a little more than a year ago made the report that tobacco smoking always shortens life.

Collaborating with him was Dr. Edwin Moffett of Johns Hopkins.

They reported on 2,332 white men, whose ages at examination were in the late thirties or early forties. Half of them proved to be long-lived and half short-lived.

When examined not one showed the slightest sign of the disease or the "accident" that afterward killed them. The 2,332 died of six different causes, heart disease, kidney, diabetes, cancer, pneumonia and accidents.

The shapes that forecast heart and kidney early deaths were overweight, larger abdominal girths and chest either unusually large or unusually small. The stomach girths, however, were not as significant signs as overweight.

Overweight tended also to be a sign of coming cancer. For this disease underweight was also a bad sign.

For diabetes who died early, Dr. Pearl said that body weight and all girths were larger than in the other men examined. The diabetes tended to come from the heavy, rotund type of individual.

Extra girth around the stomach was not always a bad sign, however. The men with the incipient bay windows tended to have less pneumonia and cancer, and this protuberance, taken by itself, was no indication of susceptibility to diabetes.

The examiners found that a high pulse rate was a forecast of early deaths, including, curiously enough, accidents.

Elevated blood pressures, contrary to what most persons expect, were a sign of long life in the heart cases.

Height, Dr. Pearl said, had no effect at all on length of life. Neither did chest expansion.

But Navy Department Says Havelland Is Not in Custody

Panama, Oct. 23 (AP)—It was reported here tonight, without official confirmation or denial, that the German freighter Havelland had been taken in custody by a United States warship off the Pacific coast of Panama.

The 6,334-ton steamer left San Jose, Costa Rica, Oct. 8, with Panama as her announced destination, although her large cargo of Diesel oil had aroused speculation among shipping circles as to her actual purpose.

Her course through the American neutral safety zone had been watched with interest here.

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—A navy department spokesman said tonight the German freighter Havelland was not in custody of any United States warship. When asked if the freighter was under surveillance, he declined comment.

The issue will next be fought out in the Court of Appeals. Government attorneys said the ultimate decision would "affect the conditions of medical practice throughout the United States" and that they considered the case one of the most important of their anti-trust campaign.

Court Rulings Nov. 6

The Supreme court adjourned until November 6 when it will deliver the first opinions of its current winter term. Among the lower court decisions it agreed today to review was one dismissing a government suit against the Bank of New York and Trust Company for $1,080,299.

The government contended the Soviets had assigned the money to it in connection with U. S. recognition of Russia in 1933.

The justices declined to review the following:

An injunction restraining Stackpole Sons, Inc., and the Telegraph Press of New York from selling Adolf Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf," copyright of which is claimed by Houghton Mifflin Company of Boston.

A decision denying the British-American Tobacco Company, Ltd., $4,331,509 it sought to recover from the New York Federal Reserve Bank for gold bullion taken over by the government.

Whitman's Salary Raised to $10,000

Board of Public Works Acts upon Suggestion of Gov. O'Connor

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 23 (AP)—The state board of public works today increased from $6,000 to $10,000 annually the salary of Ezra B. Whitman, chairman of the State Roads Commission, making him one of the state's highest paid employees.

The board also gave partial approval to Whitman's plan for changes in the commission, and advised the chairman it expected immediate action to gain the release of $3,000,000 in federal funds earmarked for Maryland roads.

The funds have been held up because of the state's failure to comply with technicalities required by the federal government.

The board which met for four hours in the governor's office, approved the salary increase on Governor O'Connor's recommendation.

Backed by Board

It took the position, the Governor said, that "a man with the tremendous responsibility of chairman of the Roads Commission, and with the high professional standing Whitman holds, should be adequately compensated."

When Whitman took the appointment last June, O'Connor said, he said he could not afford to stay at the $6,000 salary.

Whitman's plan for changes in the commission called for an expenditure of $29,741 in excess of the commission's budget.

The excess was pared to $14,508 by William A. Codd, commission auditor and Walter N. Kirkman, board member, and then approved by the public works board.

The reduction was gained by eliminating salary increases voted twenty-eight positions by the last commission, and by overruling Whitman's recommendations that eleven other jobs be placed on a full-time annual salary basis.

Work on Hourly Basis

Holders of the eleven jobs are paid on an hourly basis now, and the board ruled they should not be changed.

"The board made it plain that it wanted action to gain release of the federal funds," the governor said. "They told Whitman that if it is necessary to over-haul the commission to get results, to go ahead."

Whitman was told that all three divisions of the roads commission—the planning and survey, engineering and legal departments—must be speeded up so the federal money could be released, O'Connor reported. Money for some proposed projects has been held up two years, he added.

The roads chairman said he was working out a "comprehensive plan" which would assure release of the federal funds.

Germany's Charge

notice and there appears no doubt that the conclusion will be that she was sunk by a torpedo fired from a submarine; but without any definite word to disclose the nationality of the U-boat.

Anderson's own affidavit indicates that the explosion was in the nature of a torpedo blast rather than the result of a mine or internal bomb. He placed the point of impact somewhere in the after part of the ship, which argues against a mine.

While the Goebbels' charge stirred a ferment of speculation, there were reports of brisk fighting on the Northern flank of the Western front. However, further French retirement from advance positions on German soil made it obvious that the allies were settling down for what they expect will be a winter of minor military action.

Germany Awaits Von Ribbentrop's Speech in Danzig

Foreign Minister Scheduled To Deliver "Important" Address

By MELVIN WHITELEATHER

Berlin Oct. 23 (AP)—Germany's interest centered tonight on a foreign policy speech Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop is to make in Danzig tomorrow before an organization of war veterans.

Officials would give no hint of what the foreign minister would say beyond declaring his speech, scheduled for 8:15 p. m. (2:15 p. m. EST) was important.

Additional evidence that the Nazis attach significance to his words was seen in the announcement that translations would be furnished foreign newspapermen.

Political quarters speculated whether Adolf Hitler, with the military and diplomatic war fronts quiet, had commissioned von Ribbentrop to make another peace gesture or shake a defiant fist at Germany's enemies.

No Hitler Proposals

Authorities repeatedly have said Hitler would make no more peace proposals following rejection by Britain and France of his latest terms announced in a Reichstag speech Oct. 6 after the conquest of Poland.

This would not rule out the possibility, however, that some other high Nazi might inform the world that the door for peace is still open.

Another day of quiet on the Western front was reported in a high command communique which said there was no fighting "excepting artillery and reconnoitering activity."

The communique reported a British plane had flown over the railway station at Konzen, about fifteen miles southeast of Aachen, on Oct. 21 and then disappeared over the Belgian frontier.

A campaign to consolidate the "home front"—where many Germans believe the last war was lost—was launched by the Nazi party as part of the political drive which usually occurs in the winter months.

Originally a twenty per cent capital levy was imposed, but today this was increased by five per cent retroactively.

of the City of Flint. The demand will be addressed to both the German and the Russian governments.

Officials said tractors and leather mentioned as part of the cargo in a dispatch from Moscow were contraband, but that the fruit and grain were not contraband unless it was specifically proved that they were destined for British armed forces.

RUSSIA AGENCY REPORTS SEIZURE

Moscow, Oct. 23 (AP)—Tass, Soviet Russian news agency, reported tonight that a German crew had seized the United States ship City of Flint and brought her into Kola Bay under the Nazi flag as a prize under German contraband regulations.

The Russian port of Murmansk is on Kola Bay.

The news agency said eighteen Nazi crewmen from a German cruiser took charge of the 4,963-ton ship owned by the United States Maritime Commission and arrived in Kola Bay without a Soviet pilot.

Murmansk port authorities for the time being detained the ship and interned the Germans, Tass added.

(The Tass report failed to say what became of the American crew or when or where she was halted.)

(To reach Kola Bay, on which Murmansk is located, it would have been necessary for the ship to skirt more than 300 miles off Norway's northern coast from the Atlantic into the Barents Sea.)

(Many German vessels, including the Bremen, flagship of the German Transatlantic fleet, have been reported in refuge in the northern Russian port.)

GERMAN ADMIRALTY NOT INFORMED

Berlin, Oct. 24 (Tuesday) (AP)—The German admiralty and the propaganda ministry said early today that they had no knowledge of the American freighter City of Flint being seized by a German raider.

"No report of such action has arrived here thus far," the admiralty spokesman said. However, he suggested that inquiries check the admiralty again later in the day.

Germans Increase Their Activities On Western Front

French Communique Reports Contacts with Enemy along Saar River

By TAYLOR HENRY

Paris, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Germans were reported tonight to be increasing pressure on the French advance line after five days of almost dead calm on the Western front.

As the French strengthened their outposts to meet renewed German activity, reinforced patrols of both sides skirmished briskly along the Northern flank where the Nazis have been cautiously feeling their way with units as small as three and five men.

The French evening communique said there was "marked activity" of contact elements west of the Saar river.

Parliament To Meet

As the western front came to life, Premier Daladier announced he had decided to summon parliament to meet the latter part of November to consider the 1940 budget for another year.

The semi-dictatorial powers under which Daladier has been ruling France expire November 30. All decrees enacted by his government must be approved by parliament before that date.

A meeting of parliament will be the first since the war began.

A pessimistic note was struck tonight by Retired General Maurice Duval, writing in the authoritative Journal Des Debats. He summed up the war to date by saying that the French were preoccupied with the problem of cracking the Siegfried line and "simply had to admit our impotence."

The general wrote frankly that "we cannot turn the Siegfried line unless the Germans, taking the initiative, attack through Holland, Belgium or Switzerland and draw us into action there."

General Duval added that unless the Siegfried line fell from within because the French-British naval blockade caused a German political revolution, the only route to victory might be a direct offensive against the German fortifications.

Hope To Break Morale

Although General Duval indicated the Siegfried line would have to be cracked, the French indicated their tactics were aimed at sapping Germany's civilian morale, while avoiding "needless" sacrifice of their troops.

They said the only type of action now being waged consists of a kind of "guerrilla" warfare, involving skirmishes by patrols constantly seeking to chart enemy positions.

France was aided in this type of action by early winter floods. Heavy rains, which sent the Rhine river out of its banks and washed out bridges east of Saarbrücken, contributed to the natural strength of positions established by the French.

Human Body Shapes Have Much To Do with Life's Span, Doctor Says

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Editor

Providence, R. I., Oct. 23 (AP)—Human body shapes that add an average of about 25 years to life were reported to the National Academy of Sciences today.

All were for men only because the studies have not been made on women, though feminine shapes may have the same effect.

In general it is bad for a man to be far from the average American in weight, chest size or some other dimensions. Those who lean toward the overweight class are taking more chances of premature meetings with the reaper than the men who tend to become skinny.

The study was made by Dr. Raymond Pearl, of Johns Hopkins University, who a little more than a year ago made the report that tobacco smoking always shortens life. Collaborating with him was Dr. W. Edwin Moffett of Johns Hopkins.

They reported on 2,332 white men, whose ages at examination were in the late thirties or early forties. Half of them proved to be long-lived and half short-lived.

When examined not one showed the slightest sign of the disease or the "accident" that afterward killed them. The 2,332 died of six different causes, heart disease, kidney, diabetes, cancer, pneumonia and accidents.

The shapes that forecast heart and kidney early deaths were overweight, larger abdominal girths and chest either unusually large or unusually small. The stomach girths, however, were not as significant signs as overweight.

Overweight tended also to be a sign of coming cancer. For this disease underweight was also a bad sign.

For diabetes who died early, Dr. Pearl said that body weight and all girths were larger than in the other men examined. The diabetes tended to come from the heavy, round type of individual.

Extra girth around the stomach was not always a bad sign, however. The men with the incipient bay windows tended to have less pneumonia and cancer, and this protruberance, taken by itself, was no indication of susceptibility to diabetes.

The examiners found that a high pulse rate was a forecast of early deaths, including, curiously enough, accidents.

Elevated blood pressures, contrary to what most persons expect, were a sign of long life in the heart cases.

Height, Dr. Pearl said, had no effect at all on length of life. Neither did chest expansion.

German Freighter Reported Seized By U. S. Warship

But Navy Department Says Havelland Is Not in Custody

Panama, Oct. 23 (AP)—It was reported here tonight, without official confirmation or denial, that the German freighter Havelland had been taken in custody by a United States warship off the Pacific coast of Panama.

The 6,334-ton steamer left San Jose, Costa Rica, Oct. 8, with Panama as her announced destination, although her large cargo of Diesel oil had aroused speculation among shipping circles as to her actual purpose.

Her course through the American neutral safety zone had been watched with interest here.

Not in Custody

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—A navy department spokesman said tonight the German freighter Havelland was not in custody of any United States warship. When asked if the freighter was under surveillance, he declined comment.

Three More Nazi U-Boats Sunk by British Warships

London Air Ministry Describes Successful Attacks

By EDWIN STOUT

London, Oct. 23 (AP)—The British tonight reported the sinking of three German submarines by British warships and bombing planes. These attacks on the Nazi under-sea craft were announced as the government described German air raids on British naval bases and convoys as failures and continued its preparations for a waiting war.

The sinking of one submarine by warships was reported belatedly after the air ministry earlier told of the two successful attacks on U-boats by battleplanes.

The report said the warships were summoned to the aid of a merchant vessel which engaged in a night with the attacking submarine. It said both the freighter and the submarine were hit and that the latter, unable to submerge, was sent to the bottom.

Also announced were the sinking of two British merchantmen, coinciding with the statement by naval authorities that submarine attacks on Allied shipping had again become "considerable," but that losses were small in comparison with those of 1917, when Germany started her unrestricted submarine warfare.

Attacked by Scout Planes
The German submarines were reported attacked by Royal Air Force planes scouting from their home bases, one in the North Sea, the other in the Atlantic. Anti-submarine bombs were the weapons in both cases. The air ministry announcement said both attacks were "believed to have been successful."

Before today's announcement the government had reported that about one-third of sixty German submarines in service at the start of the war had been sunk or damaged.

Pilots of the two R.A.F. planes said they saw air bubbles and oil on the surface after bombing the submarines and expressed confidence they had been sunk.

Of the "revived U-boat intense activity" an authority said that in comparison with the intensive period of submarine warfare in 1917 "the British losses last week amounted to only ten per cent in number and twenty-one per cent in tonnage."

An auxiliary air force squadron, comparable to a national guard squadron in the United States, was given official credit for saving a convoy of merchant ships from mines in the North Sea. The squadron dropped smoke flares warning the ships away.

The two additional British ships announced as sunk were the Whittemantel and the Sea Venture. Fourteen men were reported missing off the Whittemantel. Five men survived the sinking, the cause of which was not disclosed. The sea Venture sank after an explosion. The crew of twenty-five reached shore safely.

On the home front officials and the press devoted increasing attention to the wartime economic setup. The Daily Mail declared the "bureaucrats" in the war economic organization were "the biggest threat to the British people" and added:

"At home we have endured fifty days of muddle on a grand scale. The food control muddle, the petrol muddle, the information muddle, the blackout muddle, the A.R.P. (air raids precautions) muddle are the offspring of plans so confused that the result is chaos."

Matthews Protests Transfer of Office

Baltimore, Oct. 23 (AP)—State Geologist E. B. Matthews said today plans to transfer his office to the University of Maryland at College Park might oust him from a department which he has been connected for forty-one years.

The transfer proposal came from Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the university, who said he had submitted it to the institution's board of regents.

Such a move, Dr. Byrd explained, would bring the geological section into closer touch with the federal bureau of mines laboratory at College Park. No personnel changes were contemplated he added.

Dr. Matthews professor emeritus of geology at the Johns Hopkins University, said he had not been consulted about the transfer and had received no details of it from Byrd or the board of regents.

At the same time, he pointed out he could go to College Park as a state official only and not as a member of the University of Maryland faculty. Should he resume his teaching status, Dr. Matthews explained, he would become ineligible for the annual pension he receives from the Carnegie Foundation.

3 Escape Death From Freezing in New England Storm

Mt. Washington, N. H., Oct. 23 (AP)—With their clothing frozen from their hips down after twenty-four hours exposure to winds of hurricane force and sub-freezing temperature, two Massachusetts men and a girl were found by searchers today on snow-capped Mt. Washington, within a mile of a principal highway.

Tired and hungry, but in good physical condition, the hikers—Miss Anne Pearsall and Edward Coughlin, both of Lowell, Mass., and Robert Bastow, of Billerica, Mass., all about 25-years old—were roped together, the girl in the middle as they trudged toward the Crawford Notch highway.

They were nearly twenty miles from their intended destination, Pinkham Notch.

Swirling snow, whipped by a wind that at times reached ninety miles an hour, had enveloped the northeast's loftiest peak throughout last night and most of today, hampering searchers.

Experienced woodmen described the rescue as "a miracle."

Departing from five companions who descended by an old carriage road yesterday, the three lost their way as snow and clouds engulfed the shorter but more treacherous Tuckerman's Ravine trail. They passed a shelter on the Dry River trail, unnoticed in the storm, and spent the night in the shelter of a boulder.

Bulgaria Ends Political Crisis

Sofia, Oct. 23 (AP)—Bulgaria's five-day political crisis ended tonight with the formation of a new government almost identical to the last, with fifty-year old George Kiosseivanoff again holding the joint role of premier and foreign minister.

Only four new names appear in the new cabinet—the eighth formed by Kiosseivanoff in less than four years—and they are only in minor posts.

There was no change in the important war, finance and agriculture ministries.

Kiosseivanoff and his last cabinet resigned Thursday.

Of outstanding importance was the fact that the premier, a close friend of King Boris, continued as foreign minister, thus, observers said, fully reflecting the views of the monarch and indicating that Bulgaria intends to follow her cautious policy of neutrality.

Such a move, Dr. Byrd explained, would bring the geological section into closer touch with the federal bureau of mines laboratory at College Park. No personnel changes were contemplated he added.

Dr. Matthews professor emeritus of geology at the Johns Hopkins University, said he had not been consulted about the transfer and had received no details of it from Byrd or the board of regents.

At the same time, he pointed out he could go to College Park as a state official only and not as a member of the University of Maryland faculty. Should he resume his teaching status, Dr. Matthews explained, he would become ineligible for the annual pension he receives from the Carnegie Foundation.

3 Escape Death From Freezing in New England Storm

Mt. Washington, N. H. Oct. 23 (AP)—With their clothing frozen from their hips down after twenty-four hours exposure to winds of hurricane force and sub-freezing temperature, two Massachusetts men and a girl were found by searchers today on snow-capped Mt. Washington, within a mile of a principal highway.

Tired and hungry, but in good physical condition, the hikers—Miss Anne Pearsall and Edward Coughlin, both of Lowell, Mass., and Robert Bastow, of Billerica, Mass., all about 25-years old—were roped together, the girl in the middle as they trudged toward the Crawford Notch highway.

They were nearly twenty miles from their intended destination, Pinkham Notch.

Swirling snow, whipped by a wind that at times reached ninety miles an hour, had enveloped the northeast's loftiest peak throughout last night and most of today, hampering searchers.

Experienced woodmen described the rescue as "a miracle."

Departing from five companions who descended by an old carriage road yesterday, the three lost their way as snow and clouds engulfed the shorter but more treacherous Tuckerman's Ravine trail. They passed a shelter on the Dry River trail, unnoticed in the storm, and spent the night in the shelter of a boulder.

Bulgaria Ends Political Crisis

Sofia, Oct. 23 (AP)—Bulgaria's five-day political crisis ended tonight with the formation of a new government almost identical to the last, with fifty-year old George Kiosseivanoff again holding the joint role of premier and foreign minister.

Only four new names appear in the new cabinet—the eighth formed by Kiosseivanoff in less than four years—and they are only in minor posts.

There was no change in the important war, finance and agriculture ministries.

Kiosseivanoff and his last cabinet resigned Thursday.

Of outstanding importance was the fact that the premier, a close friend of King Boris, continued as foreign minister, thus, observers said, fully reflecting the views of the monarch and indicating that Bulgaria intends to follow her cautious policy of neutrality.

Barkley Criticizes Film About Senate

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—Senator Barkley (D-Ky.), the majority leader, told reporters today that a motion picture dealing with the Senate was "silly and stupid."

The picture, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," tells the story of a freshman senator who fought against odds to disclose a plot by which the government would have been swindled. In the picture, "Mr. Smith" barely escaped being ousted from the Senate.

Barkley said the picture "makes the Senate look like a bunch of crooks" and would give a false impression throughout the country.

You can tell a lot about a cigarette by whether it burns fast or slowly. Camel cigarettes are noted for their long burning. In fact, they burned longer, slower than any other brand tested, in recent scientific studies. Van Campen Heilner, the famous American authority on wild game, points out an interesting angle to this. "Camels give more smoking because those choice tobaccos burn so slowly," he says. "And I think the way they burn is a good way to judge the quality of cigarettes too. I can smoke them steadily and they still taste smooth and cool, and my mouth feels fresh—and there's no throat irritation. Camels are mild, flavorful. They give more pleasure per puff—and more puffs per pack." Get extra smoking per pack—topped off with the delicate taste of choice tobaccos. Smoke Camels!

Peculiar Delay

AFTER A LONG TIME, so long, indeed, as to cause wonder about the delay, the federal department of Justice seems to have got around to the alleged violation of United States law by Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States. The cause for the present move can undoubtedly be laid at the door of the Dies committee investigating un-American activities.

It was last September 5 that Browder confessed to the House probing committee that he had traveled abroad in the preceding two years on a false passport. But nothing was done about it until recent additional revelations before the Dies committee began to get sufficiently hot to smoke out the proper officials.

Two points seem to be clear. Earl Browder says he used a false passport. The law says that if you do, you are subject to fine and imprisonment. Section 220 of Title 22 of the United States Code says that "Whoever shall wilfully and knowingly make any false statement in an application for passport with intent to induce or secure the issuance of a passport under the authority of the United States, either for his own use or the use of another, contrary to the rules prescribed pursuant to such laws, or whoever shall wilfully and knowingly use or attempt to use, or furnish to another for use, any passport the issue of which was secured in any way by reason of any false statement, shall be fined not more than $2,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both."

Was Frank Murphy, close friend of President Roosevelt and the administration's attorney general, too busy attacking legitimate business to deal with such an obvious thing as this Browder case during the many weeks that elapsed? Or do such New Dealers as Murphy still think Browder's un-American activities are better for the American system than the efforts of business men to make capitalism work?

Important and Necessary

REPRESENTATIVE JOSEPH W. MARTIN, D-R., of Massachusetts, Republican leader in the House, deserves applause for his action in naming a committee to make an exhaustive study of agricultural problems.

It is an important subject. As Martin said, in announcing appointment of the committee with Clifford R. Hope, of Kansas, as its chairman, the "many conditions involved in the depressed and unhealthy state of American agriculture cannot be remedied by a single formula" as the factors which have operated to reduce it to its present unhappy plight have arisen from causes which extend throughout the entire economic structure of America and the world.

The federal administration's farm policy is, as Martin said, a demonstrated failure and patently for the reason that efforts were made to encompass it within a single formula. For this reason the so-called remedies tried from time to time have proved to be merely temporary expedients of no permanent value. The various factors entering into the whole problem should each be dealt with in a special way. A painstaking investigation of these by the committee should prove of value in tackling the problem ahead.

Further Reminder

STATE GOVERNMENTS, which increased their 1938 tax collections three per cent over 1937, continued a twenty-five year trend toward enlarging their portion of America's tax dollar, an analysis by the Federation of Tax Administrators discloses.

The states' portion of the total $4,811,000,000 tax returns last year was $3,337,000,000, or about twenty-six per cent, while federal taxes amounted to $4,054,000,000 and local taxes to $4,320,000,000.

Along with the states, the federal government has collected a gradually but steadily increasing part of the country's total taxes since 1912, the analysis shows. While local governments in 1912 collected about three-fifths of total taxes today they collect one-third. In the same period, the proportion of state collections rose from 14.5 to twenty-six per cent, and the federal proportion rose from twenty-eight to forty-one per cent.

This is a further reminder of the drift to centralized government that has been going on in this country at the expense of local government. The figures show that the trend has not been confined to the realm of academics.

Beware Wet Leaves

HAZARDOUS ROAD CONDITIONS due to falling leaves are responsible for many accidents in October and early November, the Keystone Automobile Club of Maryland warns in a bulletin urging motorists to take proper precautions in wet weather.

Wet leaves, it is pointed out, make highways extremely treacherous. Motorists should not attempt quick stops on roads covered with soggy foliage, because of the skidding danger.

Another factor to be considered in driving at this time of year is early darkness. October is considered the worst month for early evening accidents, the combination of dusk, darkness and fatigue contributing to the accident toll.

Pedestrians, too, are in a dangerous spot in October, because of lighting conditions. The club bulletin emphasizes that pedestrians should never take it for granted a motorist can see them. Lights from two cars approaching from different directions may "cancel" each other as far as pedestrian visibility is concerned. It is asserted, and the walker who assumes the driver can see him is taking a big chance.

Pedestrians are strongly urged to walk facing traffic on highways, even though the discomfort of looking into headlights is distasteful to many persons. The danger of accident along open roads is greatly minimized when the walker can see whether the car is in position to turn out for him. It is a simple matter to step off the paved edge of the roadway when danger impends, but the walker with his back to traffic has very little chance to escape injury if the motorist cannot see him in time to stop.

Must Keep Feet on Ground

HAROLD G. MOULTON, president of the Brookings Institution and member of the federal War Resources Board, told a group of leading financiers, industrialists and publicists that "economic developments on the North American Continent in coming months may well prove of decisive importance to the whole future of industrial civilization."

A runaway price situation, he said, will bring collapse and depression. In sounding a warning to industrialists who may have been too optimistic over business expansion caused by anticipated war orders he asks "What if the war should end suddenly?" Even if it proved to be of long duration, the question arises as to what would be the ultimate repercussions upon this country. He apparently answered his own question by merely asking if we are not now riding the wind and promoting a business boom with the familiar distortion of prices, wages and other cost factors.

The economic goal of the United States at this time, he said, should be to make full utilization of our economic resources in expanding production without permitting a general inflation of prices and a destruction of equilibrium in the economic system.

Mr. Moulton is an economist of high standing. He headed the group which made an intensive study of NRA and of AAA in its earlier stages.

This group did not hesitate to say that both measures of government interference in our agricultural and industrial life had retarded recovery.

His warnings that we should now keep our feet on the ground come with the prestige of one who speaks with authority.

Hastening the Embargo Bill

ADMINISTRATION FORCES in the Senate have agreed to eliminate the provision of the embargo amendment which permitted ninety days credit for the sale of arms and munitions. Both opponents and supporters of the president's bill to modify the embargo were afraid that the ninety days credit clause might lead us into war and now that Mr. Roosevelt has apparently agreed to its elimination the bill itself should be brought to a vote much earlier than was expected.

If this should be the case, Congress should be allowed to turn its attention to some of the other legislation which requires the action of the law-makers. Not a day should be lost in the amendment of the Wagner act and the overhauling of the National Labor Relations Board. The wages and hours act also needs careful amendment.

And then there is the consideration that Congress should be kept in constant session during this period of emergency in order that important decisions shall be made by the representatives of the people.

Not Very Profitable

IT SEEMS rather trite to observe that crime doesn't pay, as it has been said so many times and in hundreds of ways. But Federal Judge Harry Watkins, of West Virginia, said it in an interesting manner the other day when, in addressing his grand jury in Huntington, he boiled crime's wages down to figures.

Of the 16,500 burglars reported last year in this country, the judge pointed out, each made an average gross gain of only $89. Of the 73,358 burglaries committed in 1938 in the United States, the average gross yield did not exceed $93.52 in both merchandise and money.

Wedge those figures and compare them with the price every criminal eventually pays," Judge Watkins said, "then ask yourself if crime is worth while, even as a last resort."

It doesn't appear to be a very profitable or satisfactory enterprise according to the figures given.

It doesn't seem possible but apparently Louisiana has an inexhaustible supply of public officials to indict.

A Theory about Women

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Twenty-five feet in front of me I see a young woman walk briskly along. Do you see her, too? No, I don't mean the one with the red hat. I mean the one in the yellow dress.

Well, I'll bet you fifty cents that she's pretty. And give you odds. No, I never saw her before. I haven't the remotest idea who she is. But nevertheless I know she's pretty. . . . How do I know?

That's easy. I don't need to be a Sherlock Holmes to know that. I can tell by the way she holds her head. By the line of her shoulders. By her walk. By the spring in it. By that inimitable manner. . . . I tell you it's easy. . . . The pretty girl—I mean the ones who know they are pretty—and what pretty girl isn't aware of that delicious fact?—have a fair arrogance about them that comes in no other way. A sweet independence, a joyous here-I-come that is beyond compare. The spotlight of admiration shines full upon her. The boys like her and the girls envy her, and even when she's a block away you know that a pretty girl who is coming your way.

We'll catch up with the girl in the yellow dress and prove I am right. She'll have to stop at the corner for the red light to change and we'll stare at her there. Well, here we are at the corner. Wait till she turns her head. Don't gawk, you idiot. Be a gentleman for once. Just glance casually at her. There, isn't she pretty? She isn't? Then I'll look. That's right, she isn't. But she's got a twinkle in her eye and a laughing quirk around her mouth and she looks as though she liked people—and I'll bet you a million dollars she's popular with both the boys and the girls. . . . You can always tell whether a girl is pretty popular or in love without even seeing her face. By the tilt of her head and the way she walks and all the sweet arrogance of her. It never fails. Try it yourself some day and see if I'm not right.

Whereas that four bits I owe you? What four bits? The fifty cents I lost on that bet. . . . You're right, I did lose, didn't I? So I did. . . . But I don't care—she was almost pretty, wasn't she?

The Human Side Of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

One would fancy a lean, grim, eagle-beaked man for air minister in wartime, the Lord Kitchener type. But in England it's plump little Sir Kingsley Wood, round as a tennis ball and known as the "Cherub," who marshals the air legions at a moment when it appears that this war may resolve itself into a trial of strength in the air.

Currently, Sir Kingsley outlines in Parliament vast and diligent enterprise in concentrating all the air of the empire, with a round up of planes, materials and pilots in all the dominion. He lacks showmanship, though, and his report was dry and statistical. The much showier Winston Churchill took the play away from him. His listeners indicated that their chairs were pretty hard before he had finished, but they gave him a nice hand, calm in their confidence in the little war minister. Sir Kingsley is a demon for detail, which is what it takes, perhaps more than showmanship, in readying an air fleet in wartime.

Done With a Joke

The rotund Sir Kingsley is barely five feet tall. Winston Churchill has taken an implicit delight in the past in slyly putting him on the spot. When Labor members sought to censure Sir Kingsley in May, 1938, Churchill came through with an assist, in an observation that, in selecting Sir Kingsley for the air ministry they had "put a round peg in a square hole." The joke blew a fuse on the moment of tension, as it frequently does in the British Parliament, and the vote of censure was swept away in a roar of laughter.

Besides, some of the members thought it wasn't sporting for Churchill to bedevil Sir Kingsley that way, and they were for keeping him on the job. By all accounts they are satisfied.

A. P. Herbert, the Parliamentary humorist who spoofed the archaic British divorce laws off the books, has a high score in de-railing ill-feeling by a joke. So it was then in the heightening tension of a debate on Communism and Fascism, he cracked, "A plague on both your blouses." This won't be figured in as a component of the British "way of life" when the war aims are finally stated, but it is illustrative of treasured and unique traditions, definitely at stake in what may be history's most drastic shake-up of all things serious and comic.

A Born Hustler

Sir Kingsley is the British equivalent of the born hustler of the American tradition, never still a minute, busier than a trapdrummer, quick in the head and quick on his feet, for one of his build. Up from obscurity, he was a solicitor before joining the Health Secretariat in 1919. He was advanced by his penchant for getting things done, all sorts of things. He was the best master the Worshipful Guild of Wheelwrights ever had.

For years he has carried on a relentless war against the common cold. If he is as diligent in recruiting and deploying his air force, this fight is in the bag. With amazing energy and persistence, he recruited the nation for a voluntary daily physical drill called the "jerk," which diligently pursued, he insisted would make a hammer-thrower out of the scrawniest little Limehouse cockney. Dental registration, and the furtherance of ample and sound dental service through England, engrossed him for years, and then his life absorption was rent guides. This was followed by a successful campaign for early closing of pubs. And then came his national educational campaign for a study of vitamins, and later model housing and insurance.

Same Old Sparkplug

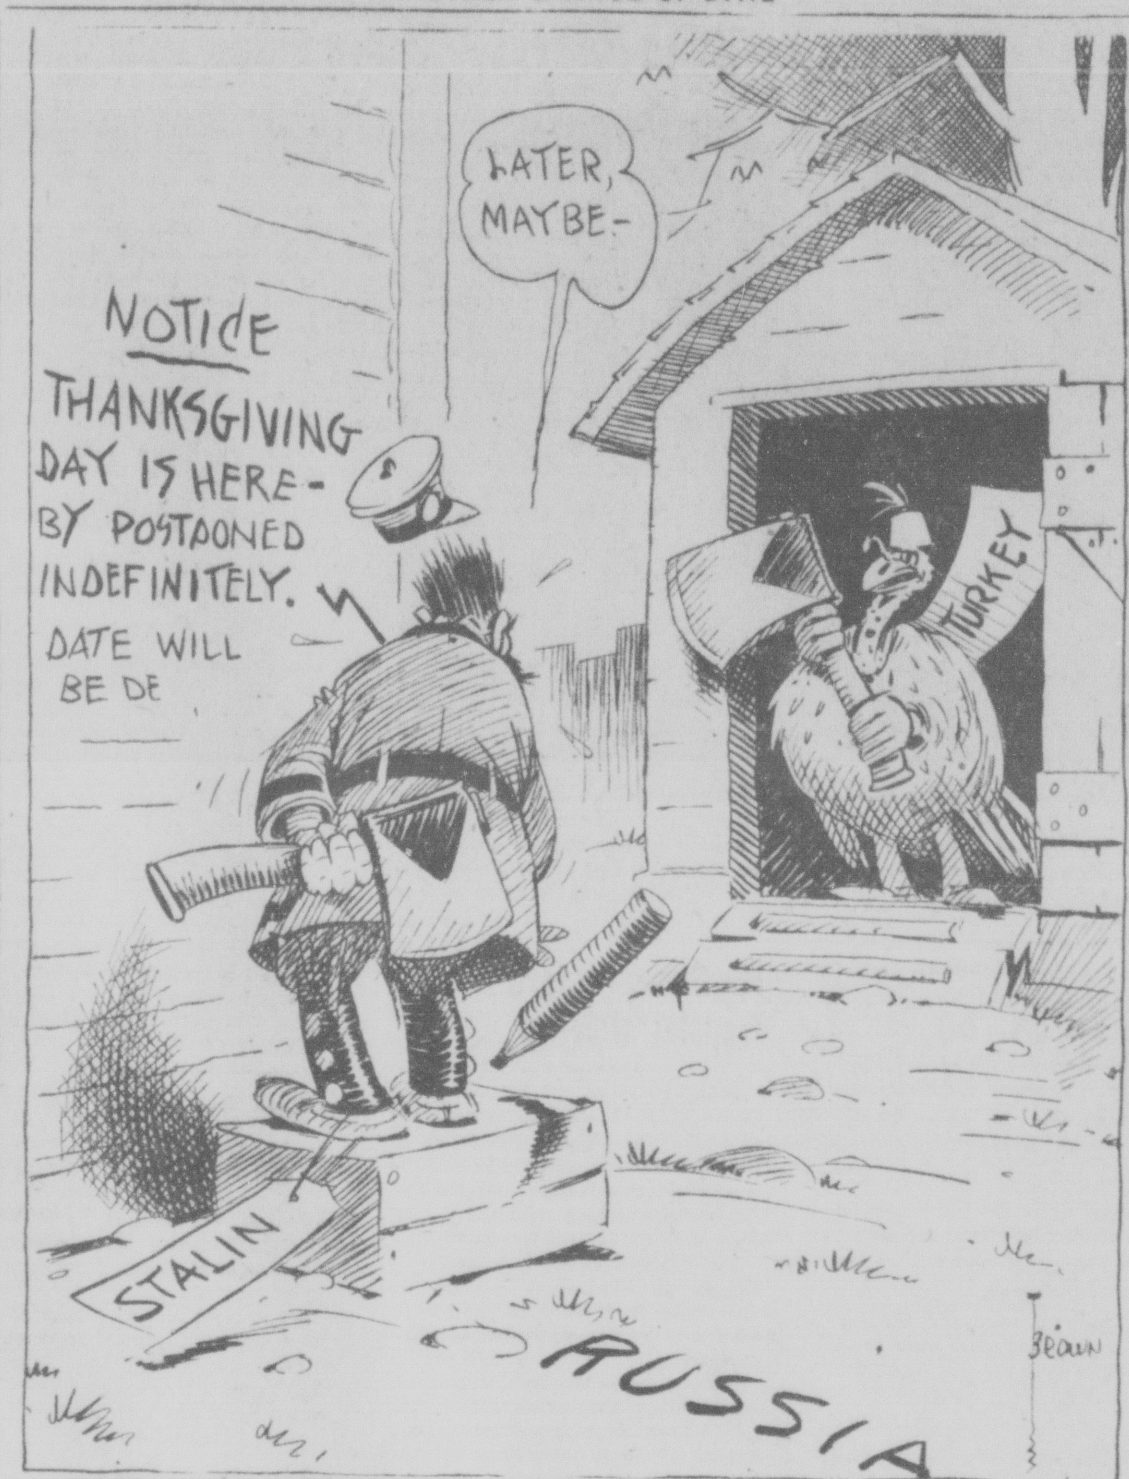

When he became a justice of the peace at Brighton, he was the same old Empire sparkplug. He could think of more things to do than anybody else in British public life and the surprising thing was that he went ahead and did them. So, naturally, they knighted him, and it would be difficult to think of any more important single wartime

ANOTHER CHANGE OF DATE

Reach for More Power and Shunning Of Laws by FDR Causes Uneasiness

By FRANKLYN WALTMAN

Some strange and disturbing things are happening in Washington. Under cover of excitement over the European war and proposed revision of the neutrality act, President Roosevelt appears to be taking liberties with our constitutional system which, certainly in normal times, would be loudly resented.

The most recent of these undertakings was the president's announcement that he had "detached" Colonel Philip Fleming of the Army Engineers to assume the duties of administration of the wage-hour act, Colonel Fleming, it was explained, would take over the duties of Elmer F. Andrews, who resigned in an atmosphere of mystery. In the heels of this development came the news that Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins had taken charge of the Wage and Hour division.

Now what is wrong with this picture? In the first place, Congress set up the Wage and Hour division as an independent agency, subject to the direction of an administrator named by the president with the advice and consent of the Senate. The agency was outside the direct jurisdiction of the secretary of Labor.

Secondly, the Wage and Hour Act specifically provides that "The administrator shall be appointed by the president, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate." But the president has not "appointed" Colonel Fleming as administrator. He has "detached" him to assume the duties of "administrator."

Under military regulation, an army officer, without resigning from that service, cannot be "appointed" to a civil post. The president evades this provision by "detaching" Colonel Fleming to the Wage-Hour post. By this evasion the Senate will be deprived of an opportunity to pass on Colonel Fleming's fitness for the task of administrator. Thus the president flouts another requirement of the law.

The New York Sun asserted that the designation of Colonel Fleming raised the question of "whether or not the appointment did violence to the spirit or the letter of the Wage-Hour act itself." Normally, this newspaper recounted, "it would be necessary for the president to send Colonel Fleming's name up to the Senate for confirmation at the time of appointing him to office, and the colonel would not assume his duties until Senate approval had been forthcoming."

Acted in Military Role
"Instead of following this course," the New York Sun continued, "the president—acting in his capacity as commander-in-chief of the armed forces of the United States—has ordered an army officer to assume all of the functions of the civil officer created in the Wage and Hour act."

From that it appears Mr. Roosevelt has commenced to act in his role as "commander-in-chief" of the army and navy in regard to civil appointments. But this country is not at war. Indeed, aside from all else, this practice of placing army officers in civil posts in peacetime is questionable. This is not Nazi Germany. It is a democracy that has not yet surrendered to militarism of an army caste.

Another recent incident also deserves attention. Several weeks ago Mr. Roosevelt at one of his press conferences brazenly and boldly announced he did not propose to be bound by statutory provisions prohibiting budgetary deficits without specific authorization of law. He said he had ordered the War and Navy departments to ignore statutory provisions against deficits growing out of unauthorized expenditures for army and navy housing, hospitalization and the reconditioning of obsolete vessels.

F.D.R. Arrogates Power of Purse
Mr. Roosevelt's explanation was that Congress had authorized him when necessary to increase the enlisted strength of Army, Navy and Marine Corps and to recondition 100 destroyers. But Congress did not authorize an appropriation for housing, hospitalization and reconditioning vessels in connection with this expansion. So, said Mr. Roosevelt, he would illegally spend the money for these purposes and ask Congress next January to confirm his illegal actions.

No point is raised here against the merit of such expenditures. The point is that Congress is now in session. The point further is that the Congress strictly provides that no money shall be expended without a specific appropriation by Congress. Lodging of the power of the purse in the legislative branch of government is one of the fundamental essentials of democratic, representative government.

Yet in this instance the president contemptuously flouts constitutional provisions in regard to appropriations, just as in the first instance he flouted the requirement for Senate confirmation of an important civil officer. Both actions nullify both the constitution and the representative government. Such actions would be bad enough in war-time. They are intolerable and inexorable in peace-time. Very obviously Mr. Roosevelt is reaching out to center very important powers in his own hands. What, in Heaven's name, would he do if we become involved in war?

On the Record
By Representative John R. Murdock, Democrat, of Arizona
My personal theory favors the free play of private enterprise and individual initiative in American economic life. I believe and hope it is possible to continue our so-called capitalist system and free enterprise with only enough of governmental regulation to safeguard the public interest.

Critics Miss the Lindy Query

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, Oct. 23.—Poor Lindy. They're panning him in London. Our pro-British, pro-war pundits are panning him at home. Dorothy Thompson is writing a series on his Nazism and Walter Lippman is tramading him in column after column—elephantine joits of pontifical ponderosity.

Walter seems to say that the seat of the British empire is coming to Canada, and why should so young and inexperienced a tyro, frolicking in a field of where only the Lord's anointed should speak, be putting tacks on it? I don't understand exactly what Dorothy is driving at except that Hitler is a louse. On that subject, we heard her the first time—years ago and ever since—and we all agree. Mrs. Roosevelt seems to underwrite them.

It is too bad that a public character cannot express a view without being smeared—not for that, but for what somebody else might guess his motive to be. But anybody who gets down into the arena of daily public debate should expect that.

Lindy's friends must regret that he was persuaded to step from his hero's niche to discuss a dangerous and delicate subject for which he is not especially equipped.

Neither Equipped

That he is not especially equipped is no bar. Neither are his critics especially equipped. In the main they are emoting. But they are equipped for a continuing smear—and he isn't. They are skilled in defending themselves—and he isn't. I wish Lindy had stayed on his pedestal.

The First Lady also has a right to say anything she dogone pleases. Her "My Day"—as a diary of the life of a woman in the most interesting position in this country was, I think, one of the best of all columns. She is perfectly justified in changing it into a column of debatable opinion. But, just like Lindy, when she does that, she gets down into the sawdust, sweat and bloody noses of this more or less intellectual shin-kicking. I regret that this most gracious lady couldn't stay in her ivory tower.

Expressed Ineptly

Lindy expressed his views ineptly. There is no ground whatever for the build-up that he threatened Canada or adopted the unsupportable nonsense head in the Senate, that we should take this opportunity of England's agony to filch British possessions in America. Canada will never have anything but friendship to expect from this country. You couldn't get a corporal's guard even of America's professional Irishmen to attack or demand anything of England. We don't breed live like that. The suggestion that Lindy is one is hateful, scurrilous and contemptible.

But there is a puzzling situation here. Canada didn't make it. We made it. We say we must and will defend the western hemisphere against any attack or encroachment from the eastern half of the world—Europe or Asia. O. K. Ninety percent of our people are for that. We can control that so far as our own country is concerned. But suppose, as has now happened, one of our most powerful and good neighbors attacks a country of the Eastern Hemisphere—what do we do when the counter-attack comes?

Not a One-Way Street

The Monroe Doctrine wasn't a one-way street. It merely expressed Jefferson's earlier "maxim"—"never to entangle ourselves in the broils of Europe—never to suffer Europe to intermeddle with cis-Atlantic affairs." How can we do that if our neighbors don't do it? We must either give it up or admit that, if any other American country from Cape Horn to the North Pole declares war, with or without our consent—for or against our interest—we have got to fight it.

That was the question Lindy put. The Lippman-Thompson smear of him hasn't answered it. It is a national question of pretty nearly first magnitude. We had better get the answer quick. We stand today in an absolutely absurd, indefensible and deadly dangerous position.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Peculiar Delay

AFTER A LONG TIME, so long, indeed, as to cause wonder about the delay, the federal department of justice seems to have got around to the alleged violation of United States law by Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States. The cause for the present move can undoubtedly be laid at the door of the Dies committee investigating un-American activities.

It was last September 5 that Browder confessed to the House probing committee that he had traveled abroad in the preceding two years on a false passport. But nothing was done about it until recent additional revelations before the Dies committee began to get sufficiently hot to smoke out the proper officials.

Two points seem to be clear. Earl Browder says he used a false passport. The law says that if you do, you are subject to fine and imprisonment. Section 226 of Title 22 of the United States Code says that "Whoever shall wilfully and knowingly make any false statement in an application for passport with intent to induce or secure the issuance of a passport under the authority of the United States, either for his own use or the use of another, contrary to the laws regulating the issuance of passports or the rules prescribed pursuant to such laws, or whoever shall wilfully and knowingly use or attempt to use, or furnish to another for use, any passport by reason of which was secured in any way by the issue of any false statement, shall be fined not more than $2,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both."

Was Frank Murphy, close friend of President Roosevelt and the administration's attorney general, too busy attacking legitimate business to deal with such an obvious thing as this Browder case during the many weeks that elapsed? Or do such New Dealers as Murphy still think Browder's un-American activities are better for the American system than the efforts of business men to make capitalism work?

Important and Necessary

REPRESENTATIVE JOSEPH W. MARTIN, Jr., of Massachusetts, Republican leader in the House, deserves applause for his action in naming a committee to make an exhaustive study of agricultural problems.

It is an important subject. As Martin said, in announcing appointment of the committee with Clifford R. Hope, of Kansas, as its chairman, the "many conditions involved in the depressed and unhealthy state of American agriculture cannot be remedied by a single formula" as the factors which have operated to reduce it to its present unhappy plight have arisen from causes which extend throughout the entire economic structure of America and the world.

The federal administration's farm policy is, as Martin said, a demonstrated failure and patently for the reason that efforts were made to encompass it within a single formula. For this reason the so-called remedies tried from time to time have proved to be merely temporary expedients of no permanent value. The various factors entering into the whole problem should each be dealt with in a special way. A painstaking investigation of these by the committee should prove of value in tackling the problem ahead.

Further Reminder

STATE GOVERNMENTS, which increased their 1938 tax collections three per cent over 1937, continued a twenty-five-year trend toward enlarging their portion of America's tax dollar, an analysis by the Federation of Tax Administrators discloses.

The states' portion of the total $14,811,000,000 tax revenue last year was $3,837,000,000, or about twenty-six per cent, while federal taxes amounted to $6,054,000,000 and local taxes to $4,920,000,000.

Along with the states, the federal government has collected a gradually but steadily increasing part of the country's total taxes since 1912. The analysis shows. While local governments in 1938 collected about three-fifths of total taxes, today they collect one-third. In the same period, the proportion of state collections rose from 24.5 to twenty-six per cent, and the federal proportion rose from twenty-eight to forty-one per cent.

This is a further reminder of the drift to centralized government that has been going on in this country at the expense of local government. The figures show that the trend has not been confined to the realm of academics.

Beware Wet Leaves

HAZARDOUS ROAD CONDITIONS due to falling leaves are responsible for many accidents on October and early November, the Keystone Automobile Club, Maryland, warns in a bulletin urging motorists to take proper precautions in wet weather.

Wet leaves, it is pointed out, make highways extremely treacherous. Motorists should not attempt quick stops on roads covered with soggy foliage, because of the skidding danger.

Another factor to be considered in driving at this time of year is early darkness. October is considered the worst month for early evening accidents, the combination of dusk, darkness and fatigue contributing to the accident toll.

Pedestrians, too, are in a dangerous "spot" in October, because of lighting conditions. The club bulletin emphasizes that pedestrians should never take it for granted a motorist can see them. Light from two cars approaching from different directions may "cancel" each other so far as pedestrian visibility is concerned. It is asserted, and the walker who assumes the driver can see him is taking a big chance.

Pedestrians are strongly urged to walk facing traffic on highways, even though the discomfort of looking into headlights is distasteful to many persons. The danger of accident along open roads is greatly minimized when the walker can see whether the car is in position to turn out for him. It is a simple matter to step off the paved edge of the roadway when danger impends, but the walker with his back to traffic has very little chance to escape injury if the motorist cannot see him in time to stop.

Must Keep Feet on Ground

HAROLD G. MOULTON, president of the Brookings Institution and member of the federal War Resources Board, told a group of leading financiers, industrialists and publicists that "economic developments on the North American Continent in coming months may well prove of decisive importance to the whole future of industrial civilization."

A runaway price situation, he said, will bring collapse and depression.

In sounding a warning to industrialists who may have been too optimistic over business expansion caused by anticipated war orders he asks "What if the war should end suddenly?" Even if it proved to be of long duration, the question arises as to what would be the ultimate repercussions upon this country. He apparently answered his own question by merely asking if we are not now riding the wind and promoting a business boom with the familiar distortion of prices, wages and other cost factors.

The economic goal of the United States at this time, he said, should be to make full utilization of our economic resources in expanding production without permitting a general inflation of prices and a destruction of equilibrium in the economic system.

Mr. Moulton is an economist of high standing. He headed the group which made an intensive study of NRA and of AAA in its earlier stages.

This group did not hesitate to say that both measures of government interference in our agricultural and industrial life had retarded recovery.

His warnings that we should now keep our feet on the ground come with the prestige of one who speaks with authority.

Hastening the Embargo Bill

ADMINISTRATIVE FORCES in the Senate have agreed to eliminate the provision of the embargo amendment which permitted ninety days credit for the sale of arms and munitions. Both opponents and supporters of the president's bill to modify the embargo were afraid that the ninety days credit clause might lead us into war and now that Mr. Roosevelt has apparently agreed to its elimination the bill itself should be brought to a vote much earlier than was expected.

If this should be the case, Congress should be allowed to turn its attention to some of the other legislation which requires the action of the law-makers. Not a day should be lost in the amendment of the Wagner act and the overhauling of the National Labor Relations Board. The wages and hours act also needs careful amendment.

And then there is the consideration that Congress should be kept in constant session during this period of emergency in order that important decisions shall be made by the representatives of the people.

Not Very Profitable

IT SEEMS rather trite to observe that crime doesn't pay, as it has been said so many times and in hundreds of ways. But Federal Judge Harry Watkins, of West Virginia, said it in an interesting manner the other day when, in addressing his grand jury in Huntington, he boiled crime's wages down to figures.

Of the 16,500 burglaries reported last year in this country, the judge pointed out, each made an average gross gain of only $89. Of the 73,358 burglaries committed in 1938 in the United States, the average gross yield did not exceed $93.52 in both merchandise and money.

"Weigh those figures and compare them with the price every criminal eventually pays," Judge Watkins said, "then ask yourself if crime is worth while even as a last resort."

It doesn't appear to be a very profitable or satisfactory enterprise according to the figures given.

It doesn't seem possible but apparently Louisiana has an inexhaustible supply of public officials to indict.

A Theory about Women

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Twenty-five feet in front of me I see a young woman walk bridle along. Do you see her, too? No, I don't mean the one with the red hat. I mean the one in the yellow dress.

Well, I'll bet you fifty cents that she's pretty. And give you odds. No, I never saw her before. I haven't the remotest idea who she is. . . . But nevertheless I know she's pretty. . . . How do I know?

That's easy. I don't need to be a Sherlock Holmes to know that. I can tell by the way she holds her head. By the line of her shoulders. By her walk. By the spring in it. By that inimitable manner. . . . I tell you it's easy. . . . The pretty girl—I mean the ones who know they are pretty—and what pretty girl isn't aware of that delicious fact?—have a fair arrogance about them that comes in to other way. A sweet independence, a joyous here-I-come that is beyond compare. The spotlight of admiration shines full upon her, the boys like her and the girls envy her, and even when she's a block away you know that a pretty girl who is coming your way.

We'll catch up with the girl in the yellow dress and prove I am right. She'll have to stop at the corner for the red light to change and we'll stare at her then. Well, here we are at the corner. Wait till she turns her head. Don't gawk, you idiot. Be a gentleman for once. Just glance casually at her. . . . There, isn't she pretty? She isn't? Then I'll look. . . . That's right, she isn't. But she's got a twinkle in her eye and a laughing quirk around her mouth and she looks as though she liked people—and I'll bet you a million dollars she's popular with both the boys and the girls. . . . You can always tell even when a girl is pretty, popular or in love without even seeing her face. By the tilt of her head and the way she walks and all the sweet arrogance of her. It never fails. Try it yourself some day and see if I'm not right.

Whereas that four bits I owe you? What four bits? The fifty cents I lost on that bet. . . . You're right. I did lose, didn't I? So I did. . . . But I don't care—she was almost pretty, wasn't she?

The Human Side Of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

One would fancy a lean, grim, eagle-beaked man for air minister in wartime, the Lord Kitchener type. But in England it's plump little Sir Kingsley Wood, round as a tennis ball and known as the "Cherub," who marshals the air legions at a moment when it appears that this war may resolve itself into a trial of strength in the air.

Currently, Sir Kingsley outlines in Parliament vast and diligent enterprise in concentrating all the air of the empire, with a round up of planes, materials and pilots in all the dominion. He lacks showmanship, though, and his report was dry and statistical. The much showier Winston Churchill took the place away from him. His listeners indicated that their chairs were pretty hard before he had finished, but they gave him a nice hand, calm in their confidence in the little war minister. Sir Kingsley is a demon for detail, which is what it takes, perhaps more than showmanship, in reading an air fleet in wartime.

Done With a Joke

The retort Sir Kingsley is barely five feet tall, Winston Churchill has taken an implied delight in the past in slyly putting him on the spot. When Labor members sought to censure Sir Kingsley in May, 1938, Churchill came through with an assist, in an observation that, in selecting Sir Kingsley for the air ministry they had "put a round peg in a square hole." The joke blew a fuse on the moment of tension, as he frequently does in the British Parliament, and the vote of censure was swept away in a roar of laughter.

Besides, some of the members thought it wasn't sporting for Churchill to bedevil Sir Kingsley that way, and they were for keeping him on the job. By all accounts they are satisfied. A. P. Herbert, the Parliamentary humorist who spoofed the archaic British divorce laws of the books, has a high score in de-railling ill-feeling by a joke. So it was then in the heightening tension of a debate on Communism and Fascism, he cracked, "A plague on both your blouses." This won't be figured in as a component of the British "way of life," when the war aims are finally stated, but it is illustrative of treasured and unique traditions, definitely at stake in what may be history's most drastic shake-up of all things serious and comic.

A Born Hustler

Sir Kingsley is the British equivalent of the born hustler of the American tradition, never still a minute, busier than a trap-drummer, quicker in the head and quick on his feet, for one of his build. Up from obscurity, he was a solicitor before joining the Health Secretariat in 1919. He was advanced by his penchant for getting things done, all sorts of things. He was the best master the Worshipful Guild of Wheelwrights ever had. For years he has carried on a relentless war against the common cold. If he is as diligent in recruiting and deploying his air force, this fight is in the bag. With amazing energy and persistence, he recruited the national for a voluntary physical drill called the "jerk," which diligently pursued, he insisted would make a hammer-thrower out of the scrawniest little housewife. Dental registration, and the furtherance of ample and sound dental service through England, engrossed him for years, and then his life absorption was rent guides. This was followed by a successful campaign for early closing of pubs, and then came his national educational campaign for a study of vitamins, and later model housing and insurance.

Same Old Sparkplug

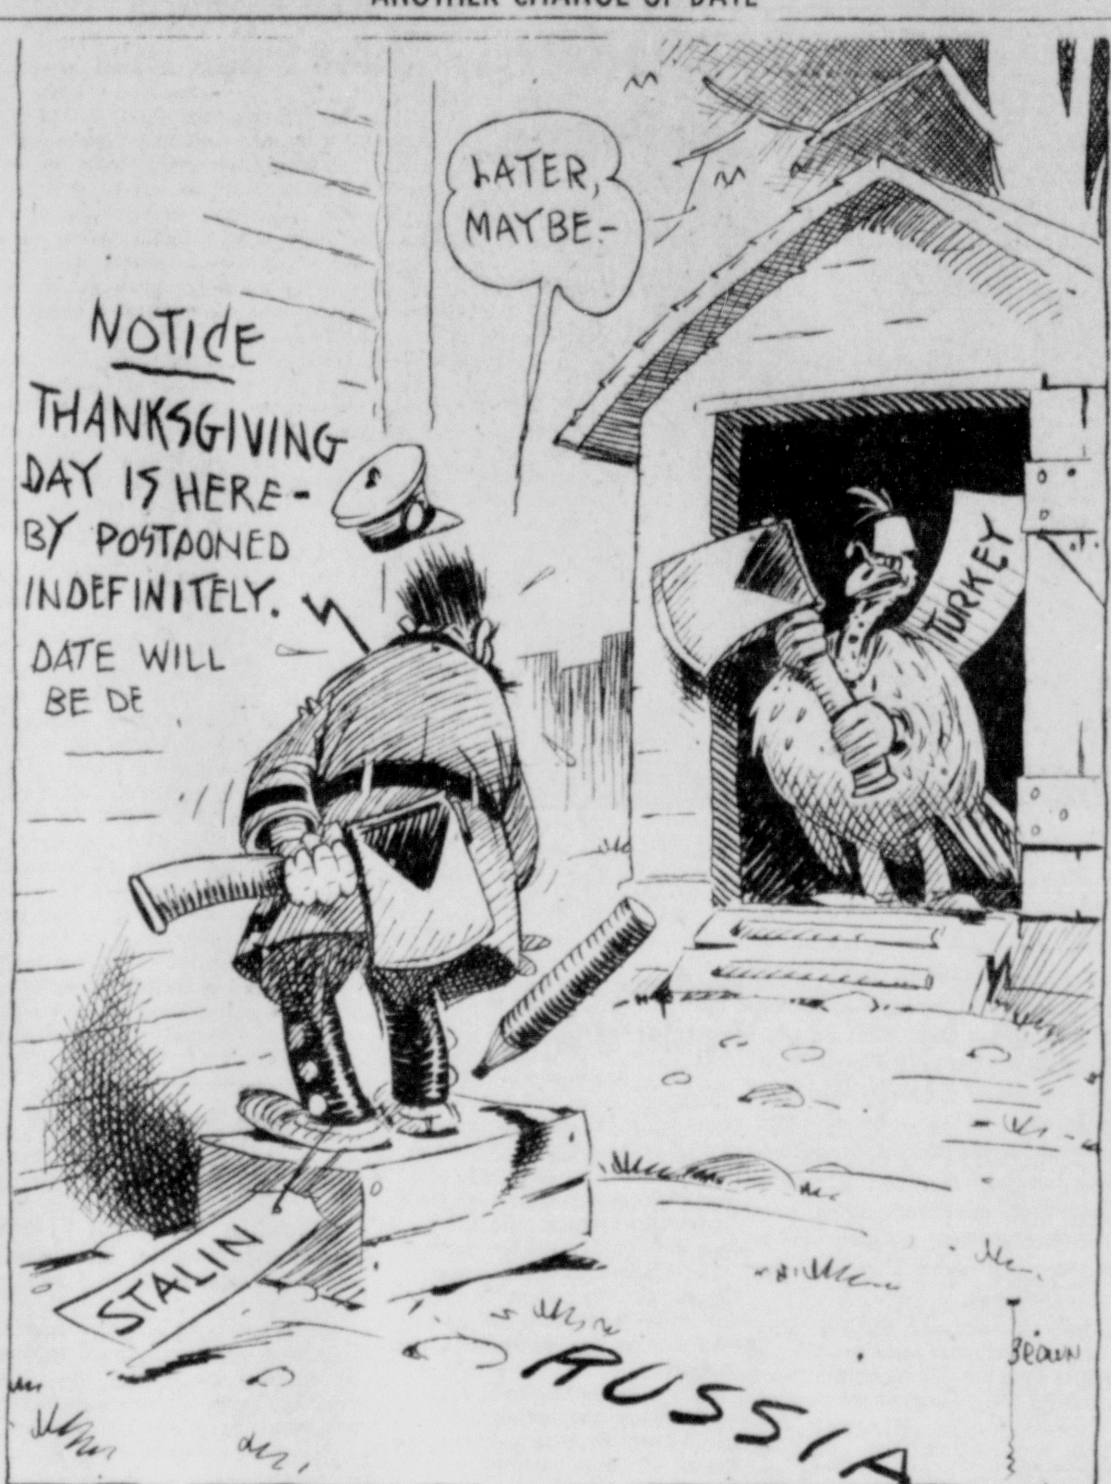

When he became a justice of the peace at Brighton, he was the same old Empire sparkplug. He could think of more things to do than anybody else in British public life and the surprising thing was that he went ahead and did them. So, naturally, they knighted him, and it would be difficult to think of any more important single wartime

Contributor Fails To Grasp Distinction

Is Apparently Unable to Tell Difference Between Local News, News and Propaganda

Editor The Cumberland News: My attention has been drawn to a letter printed in your columns of October 17, 1939 signed by "Grayson L. Lucas, Secretary."

In his letter your correspondent states, "Since the beginning of my term as secretary of the Allegany Trades Council I have found that the Cumberland News has always printed any items that this council wished them to carry in their columns."

I desire to take this opportunity to inform your readers that since I have been president of the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council I have found that the Cumberland News has refused to print items on different occasions.

For example, two weeks ago I gave your reporter a three page typewritten press release, but not one single word of it appeared in your paper. It gave the results of the largest NLRB election ever held in the Chrysler plants, and showed that the CIO won by a eight to one majority over the AFL.

Some months ago our publicity director wrote a letter to your letter columns challenging your statements, made editorially, that "only John L. Lewis and the CIO oppose amendment of the Wagner Act." The letter gave names of A. F. of L. unions and Railroad Brotherhoods who oppose amendment. Not one word of the letter appeared.

You print a letter from Grayson L. Lucas, stating that your paper prints "any item that this Council wished."

May I hope that you will give similar treatment to this letter as that given to Mr. Grayson L. Lucas's contribution?

Respectfully yours,
HARRY E. CASTLE
President, Western Maryland Industrial Union Council,
October 21, 1939

EDITOR'S NOTE—Apparently Mr. Castle cannot distinguish between local news, telegraph news and propaganda, which distinctions newspapers are obliged to observe.

Local news, as such, is always published by this newspaper, depending, of course, upon its actual news value. The telegraph news is supplied this newspaper by the Associated Press, which endeavors to give all sides of a controversy and to be strictly nonpartisan and unbiased. When some one supplies a three-page account, or interpretation, of national telegraph news, it falls into the category of sheer propaganda, and if used would cause unnecessary duplication and waste of space, as well as confusion. The News publishes the full Associated Press telegraph reports coming within the deadline of its publication, and depends upon that for general wire coverage.

As for the Chrysler situation, this newspaper has carried a half column or more about it from day to day for weeks since it came into the news, and frequent references have been made therein to the voting majority of the workers.

Acted in Military Role

"Instead of following this course," the New York Sun continued, "the president—acting in his capacity as commander-in-chief of the armed forces of the United States—has ordered an army officer to assume all of the functions of the civil office created in the Wage and Hour act."

From that it appears Mr. Roosevelt has commenced to act in his role as "commander-in-chief" of the army and navy in regard to civil appointments. But this country is not at war. Indeed, aside from all else, this practice of placing army officers in civil posts in peacetime is questionable. This is not Nazi Germany. It is a democracy that has not yet surrendered to militarism of an army caste.

Another recent incident also deserves attention. Several weeks ago Mr. Roosevelt at one of his press conferences brazenly and boldly announced he did not propose to be bound by statutory provisions prohibiting budgetary deficits without specific authorization of law. He said he had ordered the War and Navy departments to ignore statutory provisions against deficits growing out of unauthorized expenditures for army and navy housing, hospitalization and the reconditioning of obsolete vessels.

F.D.R. Arbitrates Power of Purse

Mr. Roosevelt's explanation was that Congress had authorized him when necessary to increase the Navy and Marine Corps and to recondition 100 destroyers. But Congress did not authorize an appropriation for housing, hospitalization and reconditioning vessels in connection with this expansion. So, said Mr. Roosevelt, he would illegally spend the money for these purposes and ask Congress next January to confirm his illegal actions.

No point is raised here against the merit of such expenditures. The point is that Congress is now in session. The point further is that the Congress strictly provides that no money shall be expended without a specific appropriation by Congress. Lodging of the power of the purse in the legislative branch of government is one of the fundamental essentials of democratic representative government.

Yet in this instance the president contemptuously flouts constitutional provisions in regard to appropriations, just as in the first instance he flouted the requirement for Senate confirmation of an important civil officer. Both actions nullify both the constitution and the representative government. Such actions would be bad enough in war-time. They are intolerable and inexcusable in peace-time. Very obviously Mr. Roosevelt is reaching out to center very important powers in his own hands. What, in Heaven's name, would he do if we become involved in war?

On the Record

My personal theory favors the free play of private enterprise and individual initiative in American economic life. I believe and hope it is possible to continue our so-called capitalist system and free enterprise with only enough of governmental regulation to safeguard the public interest.

Critics Miss the Lindy Query

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, Oct. 23.—Poor Lindy. They're panning him in London. Our pro-British, pro-war pundits are panning him at home. Dorothy Thompson is writing a series on his Naziness and Walter Lippman is tramping him in column after column—elephantine jolts of pontifical ponderosity.

Walter seems to say that the seat of the British empire is coming to Canada—and why should so young and inexperienced a tyro, frolicking in a field of where only the Lord's anointed should speak, be putting tacks on it? I don't understand exactly what Dorothy is driving at except that Hitler is a louse. On that subject, we heard her the first time—years ago and ever since—and we all agree. Mrs. Roosevelt seems to underline them.

It is too bad that a public character cannot express a view without being smeared—not for that, but for what somebody else might guess his motive to be. But anybody who gets down into the arena of daily public debate should expect that.

Lindy's friends must regret that he was persuaded to step from his hero's niche to discuss a dangerous and delicate subject for which he is not especially equipped.

Neither Equipped

That he is not especially equipped is no bar. Neither are his critics, especially equipped. In the main they are emoting. But they are equipped for a continuing smear—and he isn't. They are skilled in defending themselves—and he isn't. I wish Lindy had stayed on his pedestal.

The First Lady also has a right to say anything she dogone pleases. Her "My Day"—as a diary of the life of a woman in the most interesting position in this country was, I think, one of the best of all columns. She is perfectly justified in changing it into a column of debatable opinion. But just like Lindy, when she does that, she gets down into the sawdust, sweat and bloody nois of this more or less intellectual shin-kicking. I regret that this most gracious lady couldn't stay in her ivory tower.

Expressed Ineptly

Lindy expressed his views ineptly. There is no ground whatever for the build-up that he threatened Canada or adopted the unthreatened nonsense heard in the Senate, that we should take this opportunity of England's agony to flick British possessions in America. Canada will never have anything but friendship to expect from this country. You couldn't get a corporal's guard even of America's professional Irishmen to attack or demand anything of England's when she is fighting for her life. We don't breed like that. The suggestion that Lindy is one is hateful, scurrilous and contemptible.

But there is a puzzling situation here. Canada didn't make it. We made it. We say we must and will defend the western hemisphere against any attack or encroachment from the eastern half of the world—Europe or Asia. O. K. Ninety per cent of our people are for that. We can control that so far as our own country is concerned. But suppose, as has now happened, one of our most powerful and good neighbors attacks—a country of the Eastern Hemisphere—what do we do when the counter-attack comes?

Not a One-Way Street

The Monroe Doctrine wasn't a one-way street. It merely expressed Jefferson's earlier "maxim"—"never to entangle ourselves in the broils of Europe—never to suffer Europe to intermeddle with cis-Atlantic affairs." How can we do that if our neighbors don't do it? We must either give it up or admit that, if any other American country from Cape Horn to the North Pole declares war, with or without our consent—for or against our interest—we have got to fight it.

That was the question Lindy put. The Lippman-Thompson smear is a national question of pretty nearly first magnitude. We had better get the answer quick. We stand today in an absolutely absurd, indefensible and deadly dangerous position—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Gas heat costs less than you think. With other methods of heating there are many costs besides the actual fuel cost. Cleaning bills, furnace repair bills, service bills, and other similar costs must be added to your fuel cost. With automatic gas heat, however, there is only one bill to pay. And...in addition to automatic heat, you have clean, healthful, uniform heat that is convenient, dependable, economical and ideal!

Asthma Is Due Partly to Nerves, Doctor Reports

Water Treatment Is Said To Be Valuable for Patients

By LOUIS CLERHOUT, M.D.

Is asthma due to nerves?

Partly. Asthma is caused by spasm of the bronchial muscles and these are controlled by nerves of the vegetative nervous system. In the old days the treatment was to use a pipe to the bottom of the asthmatic's feet. The spasms of the feet, including the toes, were supposed to shake the asthmatic out of his condition.

I remember a young man who was brought to the city for consultation of a severe case of asthma. As he was sitting in the train in the station waiting for a street car, he saw from the window a racket being whirled along the station platform. He thought it was for him and it frightened him so that he ran to the station. It does not do him any good. It is not the racket but the noise. Asthma is real and cannot usually be cured by recourse to psychic treatment.

Do you recognize the virtues of hydrotherapy, and can it be given at home?

Hydrotherapy, or treatment by water, is one of the finest methods of treatment in the modern physician's armamentarium. Certainly I recognize it. The modern North American home is splendidly adapted to different forms of hydrotherapy. In Boston, in Colonial days, it was a prison offense to take a bath without a doctor's prescription. But all that is changed. Some methods of treatment by water that can be used in the modern home are:

a. The cold pack. A sheet wrung out of cold water is spread out on the bed over two blankets. The patient lies down on it, and the sheet is snugly wrapped around the body from neck to feet, then the blankets wrapped over it. Good for a cold, a fever, arthritis, sleeplessness, kidney disease, a heart tonic, scarlet fever, skin diseases, itching.

The Compress
b. The compress. Throat compress—A strip of linen, three inches wide, is wrung out of cold water and laid over the throat, being brought up to the ears and held in place by a handkerchief that goes over the head and around the throat to the other of the neck. Good for laryngitis, tonsillitis and any form of sore throat. One of the most common principles of treatment is to use a pipe to the bottom of the asthmatic's feet.

c. The douche. If you have a shower bath, rapidly alternate hot and cold water. This gives a massage of the circulation. It is called the Scotch douche. Putting this in a bathing suit in the bath tub and have the hose turned on you. Rubbings: heart disease, high blood pressure, neurasthenia, fatigue.

d. The effusion. Sitting in the bath tub have a pitcher of ice water poured over the body from a height of 10 feet.

e. Stages. Put clothes in the bathroom. Change the abdomen first with baseline to prevent straining. Then apply flannel drape wrung out of the hottest water that can be endured. Good for indigestion, any abdominal pain, gallstone colic, pelvic inflammation in women.

The showerwater is a perennial favorite—as popular winter as summer. This dress pattern style by Marian Martin, Pattern 9220, makes a practical house-dress in a light, pressed fabric, with short sleeves. Then, in a work with long sleeves, you have a perfect style for business, shopping, club meetings. There's magic standard in every simple line, from the easy fullness of the skirt to the darts at the shoulders which release softness through the bodice. A highlight of this style in the wide scalloped collar. It may be self-fabric or in dazzling contrast with cuffs to match and both edged prettily with lace.

Pattern 9220 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48. Size 36 requires 4½ yards 35 inch fabric; 4½yd. contrast.

Too Many Visits To the School Not Wise Thing

Parents Should Refrain from Being a Pest to Teacher

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D.

I wrote recently of the satisfaction parents can gain by paying a visit to the schools of their children. But this practice has its faults.

During the single school term almost every teacher in the elementary grades is visited repeatedly by some over-anxious mother. This mother may spend hours and hours one or several days a week in the classroom, and hours more talking with the teacher about her child.

As a rule, this mother supposes that her child's failure to get on as she wishes is caused by the teacher. Rarely does this mother go to school to study the child in order to understand how she might change herself in relation to him. If the mother did, and the teacher sensed that she did, the teacher would feel comfortable when the mother came.

to school; she even might welcome her frequent visits.

In Teacher's Place

Put yourself in the place of the teacher. Suppose you had a pupil's mother who would come to your class repeatedly and sit there, supposedly to find something to condemn you for, and who would expect to have you give her a lot of your time after school. Wouldn't you grow impatient and vexed at her? Wouldn't you count her selfish and inconsiderate of the other children? Suppose every mother did as she did and demanded as much of your time and attention?

Don't Be a Pest?

While we parents ought to go occasionally to visit the classrooms of our own children, especially in the elementary grades, we certainly should not make pests of ourselves.

We should know that if we are seen very often in our child's classroom, or talking to the teacher, the other children are likely to think we are trying to win some special favor for our child, or that there is something very queer about him. As a result, his classmates will be inclined to treat him as queer. Besides, it is sometimes difficult for any teacher to be agreeable with the child whose parent is a chronic pest. The child is the loser when we parents err so seriously.

Sometimes these pests are voracious readers of books on rearing of children and frequent visitors to the child expert. Usually they are over-conscious, fretting and wearing themselves out over their children. One must feel sorry for them, for that she did, the teacher would feel comfortable when the mother came.

read this article, I earnestly entreat her to change her ways: go to the school far less often and make up her mind to ingratiate herself with the teacher for her child's sake. To this end, I beg of her to think of ways whereby she might regain poise, acquire more serenity and a gift of seeing things objectively and in true perspective. Perhaps she should go away from home for a month or two, so as to get a complete rest and let the child gain a little in self-reliance.

Let me add that we parents who have been teachers need especially to be on guard against making of ourselves pests to the teacher. Also, teachers ought to realize that they are often touchy toward the ex-teacher, and to resolve not to let their human frailties get the better of them.

Garrett County Hunters Urged To Be Careful

Appeal Is Made by Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden

Oakland, Oct. 23.—An appeal is being made here by E. Lee LeCompte, State Game warden, to hunters throughout the area, to be careful where they shoot, as there are several CCC camps located in Garrett county and the young men of these camps are out in the woods much of the time. Hunters are being asked not to shoot toward the CCC camps or in the vicinity where the men are working, and are being especially warned to look before shooting. Superintendent of all CCC camps have received word to post warning signs about one-half mile in all directions surrounding said camps and where men are working.

Co-operation is also asked to prevent fire from destroying the forest areas, as fires will destroy wildlife and covers and food on which the wildlife must depend.

The upland game season opens here November 1 when rabbits, pheasants, quail, ruffed grouse, wild turkey and woodcock and squirrels may be hunted. Over 500 licenses have been issued thus far from the office of the clerk of the Circuit

A DIFFERENT GAME

DUPLICATE may be about the same game as rubber contract most of the time, but there are some differences. Experts handle quite differently at the two games. With rubbers the chief objective usually is to find the safest game contract, whereas in the tournament form a certain amount of straining is justified to find a spot which may produce a slightly better score and thus more match points. If things work out well.

Workmen To Observe Wedding Anniversary

Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Workmen, Mannington, W. Va., former residents of Oakland, are soon to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, which took place in Wayne, W. Va., November 9, 1889.

For the accommodation of their children, relatives and friends in the southern part of West Virginia and other distant points, the celebration will take place Saturday, November 4, in Mannington.

Dr. Workman was former pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church, in Oakland, for five years. He is now pastor at Mannington.

Dr. Workman taught in the schools of West Virginia for seven years before entering the ministry in 1893 in the West Virginia conference of the Methodist church. During the past forty-six years he has filled various places including superintendent of the Buckhannon district for eight years, two pastorate in Wheeling, one in Fairmont, and one in Charleston.

Their surviving children include Mrs. Grover C. Stemple, Oakland; Paul Workman, Clendenin, W. Va.; Mrs. Thomas E. Holderby, Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Frank Campbell, Weirton, W. Va.; Mrs. W. C. Manser, Buckhannon, W. Va. and Mrs. Workman have eight grandsons, one granddaughter, and one great grandson. The entire family expects to be present on November 4.

Fleming Becomes Head of Federal Wage-Hour Agency

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—Col. Philip Fleming, fifty-two-year old engineer, took over administration of the wage-hour law today, the eve of a statutory change in the law's standards.

Beginning tomorrow, the minimum wage rate under the law becomes thirty cents instead of twenty cents an hour, and the maximum work week, unless time and a half overtime is paid, becomes forty-two instead of forty-four hours.

Officials estimated that the changes would mean pay increases for 690,000 workers and a shortening of the work-week, or overtime benefits, for 2,380,000.

Fleming, at his first press conference, declared he had only one policy: "fair dealing" with industry and labor.

"I am not a crack-downer," he asserted. "I think you can achieve your ends in other ways. There comes a time when you might have to crack down, but you can sit down and talk to people across the table to achieve your ends without resorting to drastic means."

Fleming, who had experience with labor and industry through executive work on PWA's $3,300,000 construction program and later on the Passamaquoddy tidal power project, will be the head of the wage-hour administration, but not in title. He was selected by President Roosevelt to succeed Administrator Elmer F. Andrews, who resigned, but because federal statutes prohibit army officers on active duty from taking an executive or appointive position in the government, Fleming will not hold the title of wage-hour administrator unless Congress makes special provision for his case.

In the meantime, the title of acting administrator will be held by Harold D. Jacobs, who was deputy administrator under Andrews.

able sources that the government would give a ten-day "festival of German art," including concerts of Bach, Beethoven, Schubert and other German composers. The press carefully emphasized the "free" nature of yesterday's broadcast in the Polish Ukraine and the Russian border to determine whether the territory should join the USSR. Newspapers said among those voting were the Count and Countess Pototsky, widely known Polish noble family in Lwow, and his nuns.

Gov. Long announced he was removing Ellison and O'Connor because he had discovered they were "acting illegally." Ellison resigned yesterday to run for attorney general against City Attorney Francis Burns of New Orleans, and for that post on the administrative ticket which Long heads.

Brig. Gen. Louis P. Guerre, commander of the state patrol, directed six troopers' noonday seizure of Ellison's office in the latter's absence and the attorney general had not been reached tonight for comment.

Other troopers took over O'Connor's office in New Orleans and New Orleans police were "protecting" the office of District Attorney Charles A. Byrne there.

Later today the force at Ellison's office was increased to eight men and four troopers came to the executive mansion as a special guard, indicating Long feared a possible counter-coup.

Last week grand jurors charged Byrne was not vigorous enough in investigating reports of political corruption in New Orleans and Ellison named O'Connor to take over the district attorney's duties. Today, after O'Connor himself was ousted, Byrne got his office back along with a guard of four policemen.

Ellison, once private secretary to indicted former Governor Richard W. Leche, went into office under Leche last spring but Long said today he never had been properly appointed. Ellison had served four months under Long, who stepped up from the lieutenant governorship when Leche resigned after a series of scandals began breaking in official circles.

Four physicians and internes worked for more than two hours in an attempt to restore life in the six tiny unchristened bodies.

County Coroner James Flynn, Jr., said the deaths were due to "asphyxiation by steam."

Miss Sarah Van Gelder, hospital superintendent, said the steam exhausted the supply of oxygen in the room between 1:30 a. m., when the nurse in charge made a routine check of the nursery temperature, and 2 a. m., when she returned to take the babies to their mothers for feeding.

"I don't know how it happened," said Miss Van Gelder.

The mothers, unaware of the mishap, went back to sleep when the children were not brought to them and were not awakened until 4 a. m., Miss Van Gelder said, adding:

Mothers Show Bravery
"They took the news very sensibly and bravely. We did not have any trouble with them."

Sidney Riddlestorf, president of the hospital board of governors, was stunned by the deaths.

"If it had occurred anywhere else in the hospital," he said, "adult patients would have notified their nurses that something was wrong. The babies could not cry out."

The dead infants, two boys and two girls, were the five-day-old son of Sergeant and Mrs. John Riggs of Raritan arsenal; the nine-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Janowski, of Woodbridge; the 10-day-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ruzsala, of Perth Amboy, and the 40-day-old daughter of an unnamed mother.

The sons of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Abary, of Carteret, and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hatarick, of Perth Amboy were revived.

Hospital, county and local police authorities began an investigation to determine the cause of the accident.

shook him, threatened him with his fist and drew back his arm.

The witness stated he did not see the blow delivered but he was struck in the front of his head and his cap knocked off. He added that Petenbrink stood between the motorcycle and the side car near the handle bars, until he was led away by several fellow pickets.

Couldn't Identify Other Pickets
On cross-examination, Cosgrove declared he was unable to identify any of the other pickets who were present and failed to identify five witnesses Defense Attorney Ryan had stand up.

Four Celanese patrolmen took the stand to substantially corroborate Cosgrove's story and unanimously and positively identified Petenbrink as the assailant.

The patrolmen who witnessed the incident from inside the plant gates were Charles M. Glover, Albert J. Mortzfeldt, Ellis Glover and Fay Keyser.

After the testimony of the patrolmen, the state rested its case and Petenbrink took the stand as the first defense witness.

Was Playing Set-Back
He was playing set-back in the picket tent when Cosgrove arrived, he said, admitting that he told Cosgrove he had to see the picket captain about delivering papers.

He denied striking him, however, stating that he was never closer than five feet to Cosgrove.

On cross-examination, the defendant said in reply to a question by the state's attorney that Lawrence Skidmore was the man who struck Cosgrove, but he was not certain of it.

Pressed for a definite answer, the defendant finally asserted he did not remember what man struck Cosgrove.

After discussion of whether or not he was suspended from the union for striking Cosgrove (which Petenbrink denied), he concluded his testimony with the statement:

"I cannot say definitely who struck Cosgrove."

was turned and he couldn't see his face.

The final defense witness was James A. Dundon, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, who testified that Petenbrink's reputation for peace and good order was "good."

He said he had made an investigation of Petenbrink about three years ago.

On Guard Against Spies
Dundon explained that Petenbrink was becoming active in the union, and that it was the union's policy to look into the background of such men in order "to eliminate labor spies" or other persons "put into the union for the purpose of disrupting it."

The attorneys submitted the case to the jury at 2:45 p. m. without arguing it.

Japanese Newspaper Criticizes Americans

Tokyo, Oct. 23 (AP)—The political commentator of the newspaper Yomiuri, reflecting general pessimism over Japanese-American relations since Ambassador Joseph C. Grew's outspoken speech on the subject, today declared Americans were an "arrogant, self-centered, dogmatic and unreflecting lot."

This comment followed a statement by the foreign office spokesman that a series of conferences were planned with the United States ambassador to discuss mutual problems but that the "burden of finding an arrangement rests not entirely on Japan's shoulders."

The press and public hailed this rejoinder to Grew's speech last Thursday as a warning that Japan refuses to be stampeded away from her avowed aims of establishing a new order in East Asia and would oppose force with force.

Other defense witnesses who said either that the defendant didn't strike or couldn't have struck the delivery boy were John Kimble, Harry Youngblood, Harry Sherry, John Robinson, and Robert Izzett.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 23 (AP)—Robert McDaniels, 25, of Muncie, and Kelvin F. Baxter, 23, of Richmond, landed their light monoplane at 6:38 p. m. (C. S. T.) tonight after remaining aloft for 535 hours and 45 minutes in an assault on the world's endurance flying record.

The endurance fliers had piloted their plane in great circles over municipal airport since 10:53 a. m. (C. S. T.), October 1, in their second attempt to break the 343 hours record established by Hunter and Humphrey Moody at Springfield, Ill., this summer.

The light craft developed motor trouble shortly after noon today, after the fliers had encountered refueling difficulty Sunday because of a high wind.

First Lady Buys Winter Wardrobe

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—America's first lady, who is taller than most women, went 100 per cent for the new wasp waist today.

She picked herself an entire winter wardrobe of eight hour-glass dresses.

At the same time Mrs. Roosevelt gave a boost to her husband's early Thanksgiving recommendation, starting her Christmas shopping a month earlier than last year. In proposing Thanksgiving a week earlier this year, the president had reckoned on only a 7-day headstart for Christmas business.

"This early visit," his wife said, as she made a rapid-fire purchasing raid on a midtown department store, "coincides with the suggestion for an early Thanksgiving."

In just under one hour and fifteen minutes, Mrs. Roosevelt bought her wardrobe and presents for at least fifteen persons, including her newest grandchild, John Roosevelt Boettiger of Seattle, Wash.

Stylists who helped her pick her thin-waisted dresses said Mrs. Roosevelt's height was no barrier to her enjoyment of the latest fashion—the tall, short and medium-sized ladies can have it, they said, and only the fat ones are out of luck.

Mrs. Roosevelt also bowed to a war-time vogue by picking a military cut black dress with officers' braid and red vest.

At a luncheon following shopping tour, Mrs. Roosevelt was awarded the Parents magazine's annual medal for "outstanding service to children."

MRS. SMITH'S FEET HURT!

Mrs. Smith's feet feel as though they had been put through a wringer.

Mrs. Smith ran all over town looking for bargains, comparing prices, looking for "specials today only."

That's why her feet hurt.

If Mrs. Smith were as smart as you, she would have read the advertisements carefully before going shopping. Then she would have saved a lot of steps. And money. Maybe she would even feel like going to the dance tonight with Mr. Smith.

Let's all hope that Mrs. Smith reads the advertisements hereafter. Then she'll know where to go for the best values!

Fleming Becomes Head of Federal Wage-Hour Agency

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—Col. Philip Fleming, fifty-two-year old army engineer, took over administration of the wage-hour law today, the eve of a statutory change in the law's standards.

Beginning tomorrow, the minimum wage rate under the law becomes thirty cents instead of twenty cents an hour, and the maximum work week, unless time and half overtime is paid, becomes forty-two instead of forty-four hours.

Officials estimated that the changes would mean pay increases for 690,000 workers and a shortening of the work-week, and overtime profits, for 2,380,000.

Fleming, at his first press conference, declared he had only one aim: "fair dealing" with industry and labor.

"I am not a crack-downer," he asserted. "I think you can achieve your ends in other ways. There is a time when you might have to crack down, but you can sit down and talk to people across the table and achieve your ends without resort to drastic means."

Fleming, who had experience with labor and industry through executive work on PWA's $3,300,000 construction program and later on the Passamaquoddy tide-gating project, will be the head of the wage-hour administration, but not in title. He was selected by President Roosevelt to succeed Administrator Elmer F. Andrews, who resigned, but because federal statutes prohibit army officers on active duty from taking any government, Fleming will not hold the title of wage-hour administrator unless Congress makes special provision for his case.

In the meantime, the title of acting administrator will be held by Harold D. Jacobs, who was deputy administrator under Andrews.

Brig. Gen. Louis F. Guerre, commandant of the state patrol, directed six troopers' noonday seizure of Ellison's office in the latter's absence and the attorney general had not been reached tonight for comment.

Other troopers took over O'Connor's office in New Orleans and New Orleans police were "protecting" the office of District Attorney Charles A. Byrne there.

Later today the force at Ellison's office was increased to eight men and four troopers came to the executive mansion as a special guard, indicating Long feared a possible counter-coup.

Last week grand jurors charged Byrne was not vigorous enough in investigating reports of political corruption in New Orleans and Ellison named O'Connor to take over the district attorney's duties. Today, after O'Connor himself was ousted, Byrne got his office back along with a guard of four policemen.

Ellison, once private secretary to indicted former Governor Richard W. Leche, went into office under Leche last spring but Long said today he never had been properly appointed. Ellison had served four months under Long, who stepped up from the lieutenant governorship when Leche resigned after a series of scandals began breaking in official circles.

Skidmore, taking the stand later, said on direct examination that he didn't see anybody strike Cosgrove and that he was certain that Petenbrink did not strike him.

On cross-examination, Harris asked Skidmore over defense objections whether he had struck Cosgrove as Petenbrink had indicated.

Skidmore answered "No" before the court sustained the defense objection.

Greater Armistice Day Asked by Legion Head

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—A growing feeling of futility over the observance of Armistice Day this year was strongly assailed by National Commander Raymond J. Kelly of the American Legion who said those who served in the World war "feel more deeply" toward the 21st anniversary than any since 1918. "I earnestly urge that the communities in which our 11,560 posts are located join in the effort to make this Armistice Day one of solemn dedication to peace," Kelly said in a broadcast. He said the Legion had noted a growing opinion that "it is a paradox of futility to celebrate an anniversary of a day that closed the war—a war which was to have ended all wars, but failed of its purpose."

But, he added: "The American Legion will ever honor the day which brought peace to the world through their efforts, whatever the aftermath."

'Tulips of Death' May Turn War Tide

Mines in North Sea, Big Factor In '18, Are Sown Anew

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer and
Veteran Military Observer

Washington—To mermaids in the North Sea they would like giant tulip buds—a vast bed of them—swaying on long, slender stems.

To the British admiralty those metal globes, each containing some 300 pounds of TNT, are a big part of the answer to the problem of licking the German submarine.

Nazi naval leaders count on their own mine fields in the Baltic to help keep British warships at their distance.

If World war history is repeated, this ancient weapon certainly will be an important asset to Britain and France in a protracted struggle.

70,000 Over 230 Miles
The British admiralty staff contended in 1918 that surrender of the German fleet and the Allies' victory was brought about primarily by failure of the submarine campaign, and that failure was recognized as soon as the North Sea mine barrage was found to be effective.

The extent of the present British mine fields has not been revealed. But the British command has not forgotten 1917 when United States boats and their own ships planted 70,000 mines to establish a 230-mile barricade, stretching from Scotland to Norway.

The toll taken by mines cannot be fully determined but the Germans later admitted the loss of 23 undersea boats in the area and said that the barrier of "death tulips" had their submarine crews jittery.

Figuring the mines would be near the surface, some subs tried to dive under the barricade, but several of the diving craft failed to come up again.

Down 240 Feet
Mines designed to disable surface vessels are planted 20 feet or so below water level. Those intended to smash submarines during the World war were laid as far as 240 feet below the surface.

Converted merchant boats, ferries and tugs are typical mine-laying vessels. And mine-laying is hazardous business. The worst dangers are fire, and enemy torpedoes or shells. One cargo of TNT exploding in the harbor devastated Halifax in World war days. Squadrons of mine layers carry ten such cargoes.

A mine consists of an explosive-packed metal case about three feet in diameter, and an anchor. In the form of an iron box about two feet square. They are connected by a wire mooring cable. The mine case contains a firing mechanism along with the explosive.

Attached to the firing mechanism is an antenna wire, the length of which is kept a military secret. If a vessel strikes the antenna of the mine case, the charge lets go.

Who Got What
A big battleship can be damaged severely by a mine although a dreadnought's heavily sheathed hull and several separate watertight compartments usually will keep it from sinking. Striking a mine, however, is likely to be fatal to a submarine. Its hull is more vulnerable and it's difficult to shut off flooded compartments beneath the surface.

Mines carry the same sinister threat of concealment as do submarines. During warfare their toll often goes unheralded. Armchair strategists, however, might find it worth while to recall this aphorism of World war naval experts: "The submarines got the headlines but the 'undersea tulips' got the submarines."

3,000,000 Children Have Defective Hearing

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—A nation-wide study has shown that 3,000,000 of the 30,000,000 school children in the United States are victims of defective hearing.

The American Society for the Hard of Hearing, reporting on the survey today, said that the majority of children and their parents did not realize their hearing was impaired.

Scientist Believes There's Life on Mars

Pasadena, Calif., Oct. 23 (AP)—Dr. Theodore Dunham, Jr., a foremost student of the planets, believes present knowledge does not justify a claim that no life exists on Mars. Other scientists have contended there is little or no oxygen on Mars and therefore no life, at least like that found on the earth, would be possible.

"In spite of spectroscopic evidence against the presence of oxygen," says the Mount Wilson astronomer in the current Astronomical Society of the Pacific publication, "it is more than likely that it has existed in the past, and later combined with ferrous iron to form ferric compounds with a reddish color similar to that of the desert areas on the planet at the present time."

"It is almost certain, moreover, that the white polar caps are composed of ice or snow, since the temperature is too high to permit carbon dioxide to remain very long in the solid state."

"It would therefore be unwise to say there may not be enough of both water vapor and oxygen to support life in some form which may have become gradually adapted to the rigorous conditions existing on Mars."

Dr. Dunham declares it is "more than likely" that the planets were once a part of the sun and were torn away at a cosmic encounter with a passing star.

'Tulips of Death' May Turn War Tide

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer and
Veteran Military Observer

Washington—To mermals in the North Sea they would like giant tulip buds—a vast bed of them—swaying on long, slender stems. To the British admiralty those metal globes, each containing some 300 pounds of TNT, are a big part of the answer to the problem of licking the German submarine.

Nazi naval leaders count on their own mine fields in the Baltic to help keep British warships at their distance.

If World War history is repeated, this ancient weapon certainly will be an important asset to Britain and France in a protracted struggle 70,000 Over 230 Miles

The British admiralty staff contended in 1918 that surrender of the German fleet and the Allies' victory was brought about primarily by failure of the submarine campaign, and that failure was recognized as soon as the North Sea mine barrage was found to be effective.

The extent of the present British mine fields has not been revealed. But the British command has not forgotten 1917 when United States boats and their own ships planted 70,000 mines to establish a 230-mile barricade, stretching from Scotland to Norway.

The toll taken by mines cannot be fully determined but the Germans later admitted the loss of 23 undersea boats in the area and said that the barrier of "death tulips" had their submarine crews jittery.

Figuring the mines would be near the surface, some subs tried to dive under the barricade, but several of the diving craft failed to come up again.

Down 240 Feet—Mines designed to disable surface vessels are planted 20 feet or so below water level. Those intended to smash submarines during the World War were laid as far as 240 feet below the surface. Converted merchant boats, ferries and tugs are typical mine-laying vessels. the plane failed at the same time and, although the retractable landing gear had dropped only part way into position necessary for a landing, he brought the plane down on the golf course.

Northrup's successful emergency landing preserved the line's record of no fatal accidents.

The five passengers were taken to Norfolk by taxi and continued their flight to Washington in another ship.

Writers Rank Tennessee Atop Grid Heap

Vols Take First Place with Notre Dame in Second Game in Second

Walter H. Rife, Jr., of the Associated Press, has named the Tennessee Volunteers as "one of the most perfect football machines I ever have seen," today rode high, wide and handsome into first place in the Associated Press national ranking poll. A week ago, in the first poll, the Vols were ranked second on fifteen points, and third on eight more.

That gave the Vols, unbeaten in fifteen straight games, a total of 27 points out of a possible 1,800 in the history of the poll. It also placed them up from fifth place at Notre Dame, Oklahoma and Alabama while, at the same time, it dropped the Panthers from the lead into eighteenth place.

Notre Dame Second
Rutherford told today's session of the Metropolitan Football Writers Association that he didn't think there was a team in the country that even could score on Tennessee. He alone beat them. If there is any team that could, the experts feel it would be Notre Dame, for they kept the Irish, winners of four major games this season, in second place with 841 points.

All of the twenty-five first-place teams that didn't go to Tennessee were distributed among the other teams in the top ten. Notre Dame, twelve; Michigan, up from sixth place to third, got eight; Ohio State, moved from tenth to fourth, got seven; Texas A. and M., from ninth to fifth, six; Oklahoma, dropped from third to sixth, two; Cornell, from twelfth to seventh, one; and Kansas, down from fourth to ninth, one.

Southern California won tenth place and Nebraska tenth without a first-place vote.

The standing of the teams (points earned on basis of 10-9-8-7-6, etc., first-place votes in parentheses):

First Ten	POINTS
Tennessee (23)	1,077
Notre Dame (12)	841
Oklahoma (8)	725
Michigan (12)	725
Texas A. and M. (9)	712
Ohio State (7)	695
Alabama (2)	681
Illinois (1)	638
Southern California (1)	621
Nebraska (1)	621

From the PRESS BOX Red Grange Still Ranked As Greatest Ball-Carrier

By JOHN LARDNER
(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)
New York, Oct. 23.—When they refer to young Tommy Harmon, of Michigan, as the best back since Red Grange, that's all right. Maybe it's so, maybe not. But when they say "including Grange"—there, my friends, they go a little too far, and we old Grange-fanciers begin to mutter in our beer.

Halfbacks like the redheaded iceman of Wheaton, Ill., come along very rarely. In fact, they come along only once. I don't deny that Harmon may be a more substantial all-around hand than Light-Horse Jackson. After all, he kicks, passes, tackles, and the rest of it, while Grange was only just fair in these departments, never great. But to carry the ball? Move that Harmon to one side, pal, I'm looking behind him.

A great deal of ballyhoo was dealt out, in Grange's time at Illinois, to his blocker, Earl Britton. Britton used to shake their heads knowingly and say, "everybody gives the credit to Grange. They forget about Britton." The fact was, everybody gave so much credit to Britton that they almost forgot about Grange.

Discrepancy in the Legend
Mr. Britton was the most widely publicized "forgotten man" I ever knew of. No other blocker got that sort of press. Mr. Britton, a good fellow as well as a good football player, once pointed out a slight discrepancy in the legend.

"Grange was not so easy to block for," he said. "How are you gonna block for a fella if you can't keep up with him?"

Britton did throw valuable blocks in Grange's path. The runner never lived—and that goes for Bronko Nagurski—who could break his own interference. But Mr. Grange came pretty close to it. On any team, with any blockers, the iceman would have been football's greatest ball-carrier.

No man ever had a better instinct for moving the ball through congested, broken, or open territory. He didn't have to think out his feints, his dodging, his change of pace, his hip-shifts. The right move came to him at the right time. He was born for his work, as Charles Spencer Chaplin was born for the silent screen and Ty Cobb for the ball field.

Grange's most famous day came in 1924 when he ran wild against a big Michigan team for touchdown after touchdown in the first quarter. But a better day, in many ways, was the one he had a year later, in the sticky loam of Franklin Field, in Philadelphia, when the elements and the ground-keeper conspired to shackle his flying heels.

Epitaph: Grange was a senior then, the most notorious football player in the game's history. Easterners had never seen him in action before the Illinois-Pennsylvania game in 1925. They bumbled into Philadelphia by the trainload, and everything seemed to be building toward one of those epic anti-climaxes. You know how often the man of reputation falls down when the show is built around him. Besides, rain had lashed Philadelphia for two solid days, and the field was what we word-painters describe as a quagmire on Saturday morning.

Meaning no harm, but shrewdly suspecting that Saturday's late sun and stiff wind might dry out the field, Pennsylvania's board of strategy buried the gridiron under two coats of hay to preserve that gumbo texture. When they removed the vegetation shortly before the opening whistle, the strip was souper than Jim Dandy's track the day he beat Gallant Fox.

Dukes' Victory Parade at Pitt Ends in Melee

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—Amid flying fists and fire hoses, Duquesne University's Dukes carried a boisterous football victory celebration onto the campus of the University of Pittsburgh's vanquished Panthers today.

Harried police eventually broke up the demonstration, but not before eyes were blackened and some noses punched as students of the two Pittsburgh universities mixed it up around the base of Pitt's towering cathedral of learning.

The Dukes, triumph over Pitt 21-13 in a major football upset Saturday, began their celebration downtown and then headed for the Oakland section and the Pitt campus.

They carried banners and placards reading "Dukes 21, Pussies 13," "Dukes Skinned the Cats," and a casket labelled "Pitt," and decorated with this verse:

"Here he stumbled, here he fell;
Here lies Pitt, dead as hell."
When fire was touched to the casket, the fire hoses were dragged out and the melee started. Co-eds mingled with the men students, scampers to safety as scraps broke out while 20 mounted, foot and motorcycle patrolmen tried vainly to preserve order.

State Rifle Clubs Names John Golden as Official

The Maryland State Rifle and Pistol Association met at the Frederick Armory, Frederick, Maryland, Saturday evening. Twenty-one Maryland Clubs were represented. Harry Morgan of the 4H Rifle Club was elected president.

John Golden of Company G, was elected first vice-president to take charge of the thirty-calibre shooting. Charles Lipscomb, Sparrows Point Police Department, was elected second vice-president to take charge of the pistol shooting. E. B. Tiller, D. C. Rifle Club, third vice-president to take charge of the small bore and junior activities. Robert T. Penn of the Free State Rifle Club, was elected secretary and treasurer.

Directors that were elected are as follows: T. R. Dorsey, Izack Walton Rifle Club, Baltimore, Md.; T. E. Reuppert, "Tin-Deco Rifle Club, Baltimore, Md.; G. Macgowan, Maryland Rifle Club, Baltimore, Md.; Morton Redding, Free State Rifle Club, Baltimore, Md.; Harry Nogie, Frederick Rifle Club, Frederick, Md.; Robert Niles, D. C. An indoor match was planned for April to be held at the Hagerstown Armory, between the three Rifle Leagues in Maryland, Allegany, Frederick and Baltimore Rifle Leagues.

Each league will select twenty men to represent it at this match. This will be the outstanding match of the indoor season, as the best riflemen from Maryland will defend their titles. The match will be fired in four positions.

Ohio State's New Player System Is Paying Dividends

By FRITZ HOWELL
Columbus, O., Oct. 23 (AP)—Ohio State University's gridder banished dissension, the coaching staff tossed a couple of sophomores into starting tackle berths and shuffled its strategy—and now the Bucks are riding high.

When unbeaten-untied Cornell invades Columbia Saturday, it will meet a team that little resembles the 1938 Buckeye squad.

The personnel is practically the same as last year's club which won only four of eight contests, but a new "one for all, and all for one" spirit has helped the current combine defeat Missouri, Northwestern and Minnesota.

Ohio didn't "give the game back to the boys." The boys took it back. Steve Andrack, captain and center on the grid team, and Jimmy Hull, who led a Buckeye basketball team with glaring weaknesses to a Big Ten title last season, are the guiding lights.

Andrack, following Hull's success with the same tactics, called his squad together at the start of the season and the boys voted themselves the Big Ten grid crown. They also decided to iron out all player disputes before the squad, with the coaches barred, and to "police" the training of each other.

Waves Off Subs
On the field, Andrack is the boss. Five times he has motioned back to the bench substitutes sent into fray by coach Francis A. Schmidt. And Schmidt likes it.

"He knows conditions out there on the field better than I do," Ernie Godfrey, line coach, summed it up.

In Scott, Strausbaugh, Langhurst and Zadowny we have a great and versatile backfield, probably one of the best all-around combinations in the country. Sarkkinen is an outstanding end, and our sophomore tackles have come through. But I believe the team's fine spirit is the big factor in our three victories. That 'one for all' element is the thing that's been giving us the best blocking we've had in years."

The "College Try"
The famed razzle-dazzle of Coach Schmidt has been side-tracked, too, against Missouri the boys mixed up passes and plunges. Not a pass was completed as Northwestern was swept aside, but three aerials went for touchdowns against Minnesota. That gives Cornell a three-way guess.

The new "college try" at Ohio is paying dividends at the gate. Missouri drew 58,165 fans here, and Northwestern followed with 55,622. At Minnesota the gate was 53,000, boosting the forty-three-game attendance under Schmidt to 1,966,527 for an average of 48,058, despite several games at Chicago, Indiana and Illinois where customers ranged from 5,000 to 15,000.

Isolator Works Well for Special Race at Pimlico

Baltimore, Oct. 23 (AP)—Equine stars of Pimlico's Special Nov. 1 for the title "horse of the year" began gathering at Old Hilltop today and one kicked up his heels for the railbirds with a fast workout.

Belair Stud's Isolator, with Jockey Jimmy Stout aboard, tried out the mile and one-eighth distance over which the Pimlico Special will be run and was clocked in 35.6, 47.4, 1:06.0, 1:13.4, 1:40.6 and a flat 1:56 for the route.

Stout, who will ride Isolator in the big race opening Pimlico's fall season, reported the rangy son of Blandford-Priscilla Carter ran well, seemed in good shape, and liked the distance and the track.

Tom Smith, trainer of Kayak II, announced his horse would be named here Wednesday morning when W. L. Brann's champion, Chalcedon, the pre-race favorite, also is due to check in.

Cravat, the fourth contender in the invitation "race of champions" already is on the grounds.

The "Old Professor" Holds Weekly Class

Calls on Coaches To Explain Just How It Happened

Winners Were "Lucky" and Losers Praise Foes Who Beat Them

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Oct. 23. (AP)—The old professor hurried to the door to greet two tardy arrivals for his Monday morning class of football coaches.

Old Professor—Right this way, gentlemen, I have reserved front row seats for you. Class, we are honored today by the presence of two esteemed citizens who got their ruddy cheeks from blowing up the first football. Let me introduce Mr. Stagg and Mr. Warner. Would you say a few words about your team's 13-3 victory over College of Pacific last week, Mr. Warner?

Pop Warner, San Jose State—Well, professor, Pacific is the fastest team I've seen in years. Mr. Stagg's team really is a credit to coast football—an excellently coached outfit.

Alonso Stagg, College of Pacific—That fullback Leroy Zimmerman has been a thorn in our side for three years now. San Jose did far better against us than California.

Old Professor—Thank you gentlemen. Mr. Neyland, you seem quite pleased with yourself.

Bob Neyland, Tennessee—I'm very happy that we beat Alabama, professor, but I don't think the score indicates the difference in the teams. It should have been about 7 to 9.

Frank Thomas, Alabama—Butler was just one of the too many guns Tennessee had for us. At that, I thought some of my boys played good defensive ball.

Old Professor—Mr. Bierman, I heard you had a crew of men out bright and early this morning sandpapering your goal posts. Just what is the idea?

Bernie Bierman, Minnesota—Well, professor, if we left the last coat of paint off the cross bar, Mernick's field goal would have been good and tied up the game. Ohio State is good, but not the team Purdue is. Its backs are better than the line.

Francis Schmidt, Ohio State—That Minnesota is a great team, and will be plenty tough from now on but every time I see a game something like that Langstun business happens—a guy scoots 80 yards for a touchdown and there's some official back there waving a flag. It takes all the fun out of life.

Old Professor—Not all the fun, Mr. Schmidt. You know, didn't you? Mr. Dawson, you look like you expected someone to sneak up behind you.

Red Dawson, Tulane—Who wouldn't, after last Saturday. We got a 14-point lead in the second half after playing sorry football in the first, and then North Carolina came from behind to tie us.

Ray Wolf, North Carolina—That 25-point Tulane line is composed of All-Americans, and Kellogg and Hays are among the best backs I've seen. I'm proud of the comeback my boys made.

Old Professor—Mr. Waldorf, what's the matter? Did you just discover something?

Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern—Yes, professor, I've discovered it feels pretty good to score again. Our team is coming along. We got the breaks against Wisconsin.

Harry Stuhldreher, Wisconsin—Yes, the Wildcats capitalized on their breaks, and won. They looked good all around.

Old Professor—An Mr. Kirwan, what are you doing with that rabbit's foot?

Ab Kirwan, Kentucky—We need luck. We were lucky to beat a vastly improved Georgia team.

Wally Butts, Georgia—I guess the best team won, but we gave 'em a battle.

Old Professor—Mr. Jennings, is that you raising your hand?

Morley Jennings, Baylor—Yes, I just wanted to say that we were outplayed by Nebraska, as the score indicates. We did gain some valuable experience, though.

Biff Jones, Nebraska—Our pass defense operated in great shape and our line had a good day.

Old Professor—In other words, Mr. Jones, everything was fine, Mr. Norton, will you please stop rubbing your head.

Homer Norton, Texas A&M—I want to save my hair. I'll never grow any more. Gime it to T. C. U.—they're plenty tough. It is nice to win once in 20 years in Fort Worth.

Dutch Meyer, T. C. U.—Professor, the Aggies, one of the finest ball clubs T. C. U. has played in several years, simply gave us a country looking.

Old Professor—Mr. Layden, I see you're up to your old tricks.

Elmer Layden, Notre Dame—Navy had a great team, a much better team than the statistics would indicate.

Swede Larsen, Navy—I salute Elmer Layden and a great Notre Dame team. I also salute this Navy team. It's the greatest bunch of boys I ever coached.

Old Professor—A very fine gesture, Mr. Larsen. And speaking of gestures, the wailing room attendant is signalling that the crying towels have arrived. Good day gentlemen.

SPORT RITICISMS

by WILLIAM RITT

New York, Oct. 23.—Football, amateur and pro, is in one of its biggest—if not the biggest—year.

Packed stadia almost everywhere greet the collegians these October Saturdays, and on Sunday their graduated, salaried brethren also are playing to solid houses.

Most interesting in this upsurge of attendance is how well the professional football league is doing. Average attendance at pro games, it is estimated, has almost doubled in five years—an excellent increase in business.

For years, pro football labored under the multitude of handicaps. The football-going public had a tendency to regard the pro games as "not meaning anything." But that attitude has vanished.

Today, pro football draws its following from two increasing fields—the ranks of the true students of the game who appreciate the fine standard of play in the pro sport, and from that large group who are rabidly patriotic about their local sports teams.

Baseball Has Bumper Rookie Crop in 1939

Just a few years ago there was much wailing and gnashing of teeth by baseball calamity howlers over the dearth of good young material coming up from the minors.

It seems—said the weepers and molar grinders—that small boys didn't play baseball anymore. So, when they grew up to be as tall as Daddy they didn't know the difference between a fielder's choice and the bull pen.

Golf, some claimed, wooed young America away. Spring football practice had also got in some licks at the grand old game, others argued. And we almost believed them.

This season, however, major league baseball came back with as fine a crop of rookies as we've ever seen.

Topped by the Yankees' Charley Keller, the major league freshman of 1939 were a highly promising crew. To name a few: Ted Williams of the Red Sox, Glenn Russell of the Cubs, Buddy Rosar of the Yankees, Junior Thompson of the Reds, Atley Donald of the Yankees, Jim Tabor of the Red Sox, Eddie Miller of the Reds, Pete Coscarat of the Dodgers, Barney McCoskey of the Tigers and Bob Bowman of the Cardinals.

With new men of that caliber replacing the fading veterans, it seems baseball is in no immediate danger of extinction.

American League Retains All Its Managers

It is interesting to note that all eight American league clubs have decided to string along in 1940 with the men in charge of their destinies this year.

This indicates that the club owners have come to the same decision as did the fans and sports writers long ago—it wasn't any American league manager's fault that his team made no better showing in the race so completely dominated by the Yankees. The fault—or the credit—must go to the Yanks, themselves. They were just too good to be true.

Last of the 1939 A. L. pilots to be signed was Bucky Harris, Bucks' team fell back a couple of notches this year and there were a lot of fans who were afraid he wouldn't be given another chance. But Harris will be running that Senator team again next April, which, incidentally, will mark the beginning of his 17th year as an American league manager.

Only Connie Mack tops his mark.

"Bill" Niland Will Stage Amateur Show Here Nov. 3

Ferdie Franchi and John Booth To Meet in Return Go

The Shamrock Athletic Club will stage its next boxing card at the Queen City Hotel Ballroom, on Friday evening November 3, at 8:30 p. m.

Eight or more bouts will make up the program, featuring the return of the program, featuring the return of Dan Booth argument. Booth scored a sensational knockout over the veteran Franchi on the Shamrock Club's last card. Booth appeared headed for a sure defeat, until the end of the second round when he uncorked a terrific right hand punch and sent Franchi into the land of dreams for the first time in almost a hundred fights.

A number of local fight fans who witnessed the card that night have expressed a willingness to see these belligerents meet again, and it was with this in mind that Bill Niland matchmaker for the Shamrock Club completed arrangements for the return engagement.

Niland stated last night that he has a large eligibility list for this card, some of the boys' slated to see action on this card are "Bill" Corbin, Delton Parker, "Chink" Davis, John Booth, "Don" Coughenour, Gene Kiddy, "Red" Riley, "Joe" Zelinski, Fred Hoxey, Bill Heyer, "Pete" Smith, "Joe" Niland, "Fats" Ogle, and "Tony" Lisanti.

Hoxey and Heyer are newcomers to amateur boxing, and will be making their first starts on the November 3 card.

Judge Landis Rules Player Free Agent

Chicago, Oct. 23. (AP)—Billy Burns, youthful player with an Alexandria (La.) team, was declared a free agent by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, today.

Landis ruled that Burns was signed by a scout for the Detroit Tigers and that an official of the Detroit club then notified the Alexandria team of the contract and instructed the club to send the player a $150 bonus for signing. The player's transfer from Detroit to Alexandria, Landis ruled, was by a process mislabeled "recommendation," which violated the player's rights.

Brothers Under the Pigskin

Tacoma, Wash. (AP)—Pacific Lutheran College's 1939 football team has a triple-family backfield.

Three sets of brothers see action. Bob and Marv Tommervik are both fullbacks. Marv Hershman plays fullback while his brother, Sterling, is a blocking halfback. Blair Taylor works at quarterback. He's understood by his brother, Murray.

Really a Rookie

Cincinnati, (AP)—Nino Bongiovanni had only seen two professional ball games before he played in one himself with Seattle of the Pacific Coast League in 1933.

St. John's College Class Cuts Banned

Dean Buchanan Announces Strict Set of Attendance Rules

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 23. (AP)—Class "cuts" at St. John's College which two years ago introduced an educational experiment dubbed the "100 classics program," are outlawed today by a college edict providing expulsion for one unexcused absence.

Dean Scott Buchanan, who warned students at a convocation that "cuts" from eight classes or college meetings would warrant dismissal, said the rule was decided upon after several meetings of faculty and student leaders.

It was the first step, Dean Buchanan said, in formulating a set of attendance rules which would prove most advantageous to students as well as the St. John's educational policy.

One immediate reaction from undergraduates was expressed by the St. John's Collegian, the student newspaper.

In its lead editorial, intitled by N. A. Garis, class of '41, the paper noted the new regulation represented the "best efforts of a committee of six students in conference with Dean Buchanan," but added: "It is difficult to grasp . . . any justification for a penalty of such magnitude."

The penalty appeared to be "arbitrarily unjust," the editorial added. Dean Buchanan told students the full attendance rule was prompted by the fact the new education program, which involves a study by each student of 100 selected classics, was developed on the assumption each undergraduate was an integral part of the college's whole educational structure.

Each class period has an important bearing on the course of study as a whole, he explained.

Students pointed out that policies prevailing at other colleges and universities usually permitted from one to five unexcused class "cuts" each semester.

Wood Will Be Out Until Princeton Game

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 23. (AP)—Dr. C. R. (Rusty) Ball, team physician, put a crimp in Navy football hopes tonight when he announced Emmett (Punkin) Wood, injured powerhouse halfback, would be in drydock at least until the Princeton game Nov. 25.

Wood, whose knee was injured in the Dartmouth game, will be "promoted" to crutches tomorrow, Coach Swede Larson said, but he cannot possibly get in shape to play before the Tiger tussle.

Wood was the most powerful runner on a squad weak in its ground attack, and also handled the kicking and passing.

Larson said the squad was considerably "banged up" after the 14-7 Notre Dame defeat, but none of the bumps serious.

Regulars who played at Cleveland were excused from contact work today, but will be in the thick of it when Larson preps his offensive for the game with Clemson Saturday. Navy coaches figure the Clemson game as one of the toughest on schedule.

Eckhart Tosser Cops Creek Loop Slugging Crown

Lou Connor Tops List with .532 Average--Three Hurlers Stand Out

Lou Connor of Eckhart's Will's Creek Valley Baseball League championship nine dominated the individual slugging list for the 1939 season, according to records compiled and announced by Secretary Howard Northcraft.

Connor led the loop in batting with .532 and copped several other records. He was at bat 62 times, collected 33 hits, and scored 29 runs. His number of hits and runs topped the circuit. The Eckhart slugger also led in stolen bases with nine.

Another Eckhart topper, Andy Steele, was runnerup in batting with .517. Charles Walters of Mt. Savage and Richard Hopkins, a teammate, followed with .436 and .421 marks. Veri Robinson of Salisbury was fifth with .385, Ray Anderson of Mt. Savage sixth with .353, Dick Arvin of Salisbury and Bill Winebrenner and Albert Rice of Mt. Savage tied for seventh with .332 and Elmer Loar tenth with .331.

Three Hurlers Stand Out

Andy Steele poled the most doubles, eight, while Ed Gaughan of Eckhart led in triples with three. The home run king was Homer Sarver of the Cumberland Merchants with four while Howard Northcraft of Cumberland had the most sacrifices, seven. Hopkins and George Beal of Savage and Gaughan of Eckhart were each issued nine walks.

In fielding, Connor turned in a mark of .894. Andy Steele's percentage was .955, Walters' .982, Hopkins' .969, Anderson's .892, Winebrenner's .789, Rice's .909 and Loar's .977. John Chaney of the Merchants had the most putouts, 143, while Anderson of Mt. Savage led in assists with 58.

Outstanding pitchers were James Porter and Bernard Baker of Mt. Savage and Claude Steele of Eckhart. Porter won four straight, Baker copped eight of ten, and Steele took six of seven. The records of other hurlers who won at least one game follow:

Baker Strikeout King
Arthur Arnone, Eckhart, 4 and 1; Leroy Hotchkiss, Salisbury, 4 and 1; Charles Aldridge, Mt. Savage, and William Filsinger, Eckhart, 2 and 1; John Cassen, Wellersburg, 4 and 4; Earl Trent, Salisbury, and Curt Lewis, Cumberland, 3 and 3; Bill Stevenson, Wellersburg, 3 and 4; and Marvin Bell and John Stutcher, Cumberland, 1 and 2.

Baker had the most strikeouts, 97, while Cassen gave the most bases on balls, 23. Baker hit the most batsmen, ten. Individual batting records follow:

Gonzaga May Give Up Football Next Season

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 23. (AP)—Claude McGrath, athletic director at Gonzaga University, said today football might be abandoned at the institution next year because of financial losses.

McGrath said "the school's athletic board doesn't see how it will be possible to continue football at Gonzaga next year with gate receipts, general expenditures and overhead as they are."

The board met last Saturday. Gonzaga's eight game schedule this year involves more than 10,000 miles of travel with only two games in Spokane.

Forest Fire Situation in Southern West Virginia Is Acute

32 New Fires Are Reported By Officials

Largest Blaze Is in McDowell County near Landgraff

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—The forest fire situation in Southern West Virginia became acute again today with the outbreak of thirty-two new fires, one of them burning over a 500-acre area.

State Forester D. B. Griffin reported a big blaze near Landgraff, McDowell county, had alarmed residents of the coal mining camp until workers were able to check its movement toward the town.

The biggest fire was between Berwind and the Virginia border in McDowell county.

"We have five or six fires in the McDowell territory which we cannot extinguish until the wind dies down or a heavy rain comes," Griffin said.

"We hope a night of work will bring them under control, however."

The weatherman revised his forecast and predicted another day of "fair" weather, meaning no relief for weary fire crews.

Between 800 and 900 men were on the fire lines.

Rains in the Northern and Central mountain sections gave the crews at least a forty-eight-hour respite, Griffin said, and equipment which can be spared is being sent into the Southern section.

Director H. W. Shawhan of the Conservation Commission, worried about conditions, said no "immediate action with regard to the suspension of hunting season was considered."

All rangers have been instructed to investigate the sources of fires closely, Shawhan said.

Twenty of today's fires were in the Rangers' Pocahontas district, comprised of McDowell, Mercer, Wyoming, Mingo and Logan counties. Twelve were in the Kanawha district, most of them ranging from one to twenty acres, with two between forty and fifty acres.

State Tries Man To Be Sure He Is Freed Of a Murder Charge

Williamson, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—The state went through the formality of a trial today to make sure Leonard Poffenbarger would be acquitted of a murder charge.

After three witnesses testified that Poffenbarger killed Thomas (Logan) Collins in defense of his home, Assistant Prosecutor O. C. Van Camp addressed the court.

"The state cannot and should not make a case against this defendant and I ask a directed verdict of not guilty."

Judge Charles W. Ferguson without comment, ordered that a formal verdict be drawn up and the jury signed without leaving the box.

Collins was shot last May 21 at Debarbon.

State Trooper Elmer Cubine, Deputy Sheriff Therman Farmer and Anderson Lawson all testified the two men quarreled after Poffenbarger attempted to rescue his son, whom Collins threatened to throw into the creek.

Collins knocked Poffenbarger down, they said, and after Poffenbarger retreated to his house, attacked Mr. Poffenbarger.

He then tried to break into the Poffenbarger home, they related, but gunfire met him when he tried to crash through a window.

Bishop Leonard Holds Services at Old Rehoboth Church

Union, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—From the same pine-knot table where devout Methodists were served sacramental crumbs and wine 150 years ago, Bishop Adna Wright Leonard administered the ancient rite today in old Rehoboth church.

The Pittsburgh churchman preceded the ceremony with a sermon in the one-room log structure built in 1784 by the Society of Methodist churches.

Edward Keenan, of Monroe county, deeded the meeting house and its five-acre tract to the society, and Bishop Francis Asbury dedicated it in the name of Methodism in 1786.

Old Rehoboth friends consider their church the oldest West of the Allegheny mountains. It was restored as nearly as possible to its original state in 1927.

Bishop Leonard took occasion to preach here on a visit to the Lewisburg district.

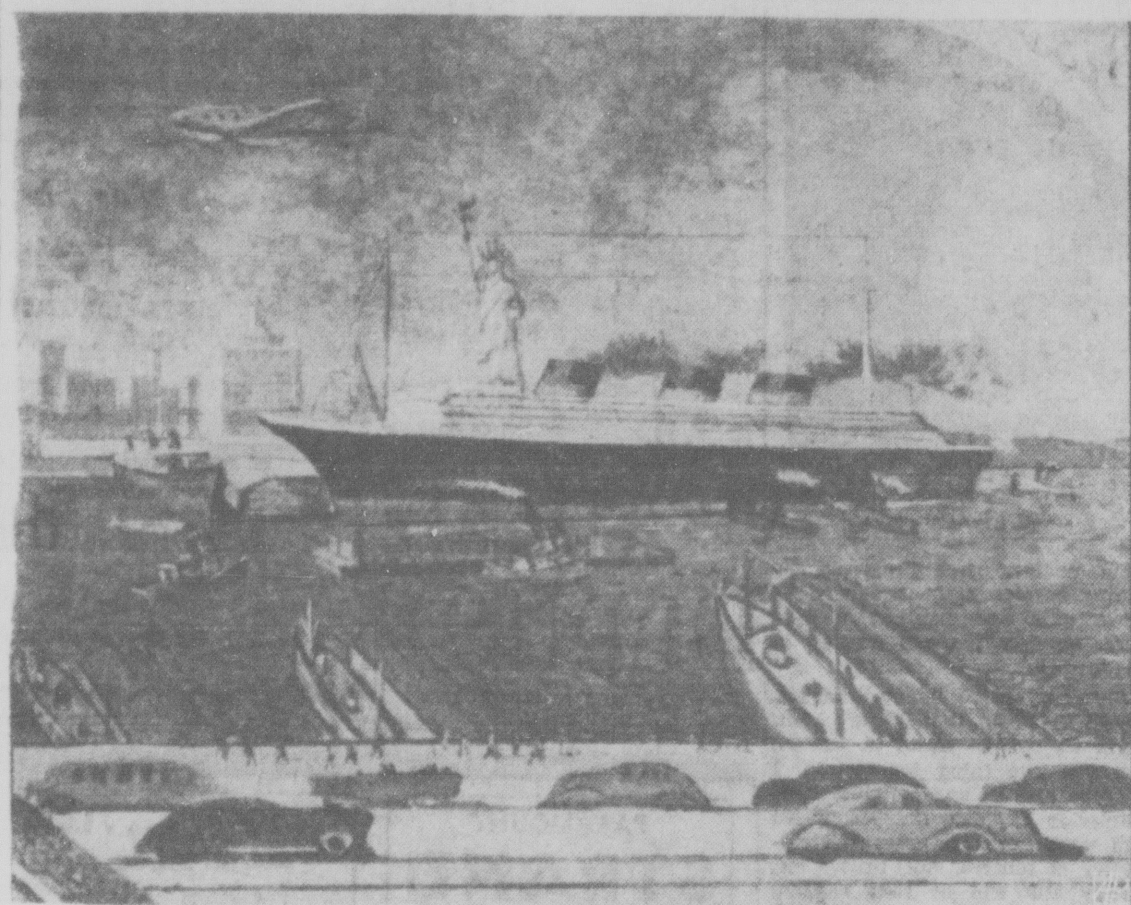

Four Plead Guilty

Wheeling, Oct. 23 (AP)—Constable William Cochran of Parkersburg and three other defendants pleaded guilty today to charges of attempting to defraud the federal government.

Federal Judge William E. Baker deferred sentencing of Cochran, Okey James Blair, Albert Leon French and Charles Britton of Marietta, O., the four also were indicted for transportation of untaxed liquor.

They were accused of "planting" illicit liquor in the automobile of a man whom Cochran later arrested.

This Postoffice Mural Caused a War (of Words)

When patrons of the Towson postoffice saw this mural painted by Nicolai Cikovsky, Washington artist, they complained bitterly. Why? Because the wind is blowing smoke from the liner and the tugs in different directions. The artist changed it.

Boy Is Rescued By Mrs. Propst

Ralph Shobe, Six, Fell into Headwaters of Dam near Petersburg

Petersburg, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—Ralph Shobe, six, son of Mrs. Veima Shobe, Royal Glenn, W. Va., while playing near the Royal Glenn power station about four miles west of Petersburg yesterday fell into the head waters of the dam and was found by Mrs. J. L. Propst, and raked out of channel by a large rake used at the dam to remove leaves. Ralph was able to hold on to the rake with one hand while he was raised five feet before he could be reached by anyone. The child has an infected knee and it is thought that he lost his balance and fell into the chilly waters. He suffered a slight cold and snook.

PTA To Meet

The first regular meeting of the Petersburg Parent Teachers' association will be held Tuesday evening in the grade school auditorium. Parents will be allowed to visit the various rooms and discuss problems with the teachers before the program, which is scheduled for 7:45 o'clock.

At the last regular meeting Mrs. J. L. Boor was elected president; Mrs. Milla Bergdoll, vice president; Mrs. B. F. Mitchell, secretary; Mrs. E. O. Feaster, treasurer.

Brief Mention

Facilities for cleaning seed have finally been installed here after eight years of effort in the Farm Bureau warehouse by the Cooperative Farm Services of the West Virginia Farm Bureau, and will be available and ready for operation for all farmers in the South Branch Valley today. It will be used particularly for clover and alfalfa seed.

Mrs. Homer Lynch while skating at the Skating Ring in South Petersburg, fell and broke her arm Saturday and it was necessary to take her to Keyser, W. Va., for an x-ray.

The new bridge and approach and Y leading across Seneca at Mouth of Seneca, W. Va., is almost completed and will be ready for use within the next thirty days.

Mrs. Ella Offett, Grantsville, W. Va., spent the week end here visiting friends.

The Rev. W. J. Wright, pastor of the United Brethren church, Harrisonburg, Virginia, preached in the United Brethren church here yesterday afternoon.

Glen Ruddle, merchant of River-ton, W. Va., who has been in bad health and who about two years ago moved to a farm he purchased near River-ton, has been advised to give up all work and he will rent his farm and move to River-ton and operate his store.

George Hoti has returned from Huntington, W. Va., where he attended Grand Lodge of the Odd Fellows and a Masonic Lodge meeting.

1,773 Increase in School Enrollment

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—West Virginia public school enrollment, with figures available from all but ten counties, showed a net gain of 1,773 for the first month, as compared with the same month last year.

State Superintendent W. W. Trent reported today that elementary school attendance decreased from 252,031 to 246,978, while high schools registered a gain from 103,201 to 110,027.

Counties recording the biggest decrease in elementary enrollment were Harrison, 1,545; Kanawha, 1,070; McDowell, 510; Fayette, 363; and Cabell, 212.

"A decrease in elementary and an increase in high schools may mean one of two things," Trent comment. "There are this year more junior high schools, or more children are remaining in high school than formerly."

Counties which have not yet reported are Calhoun, Hancock, Lewis, Logan, Monongalia, Ohio, Pocahontas, Raleigh, Ritchie and Webster.

Floyd Bittinger Injured in Mine

Lonaconing, Oct. 23 — Floyd Bittinger, 47, Swanton, was injured this morning about 7 o'clock, at the Miller Coal Company mine, near Barton.

It is understood the injured man was in the act of starting a fire in the forge at the mine when an explosion occurred. It is felt that the explosion was caused by several dynamite caps exploding in the fire pit. It is unknown how they were placed there.

He was taken to the Reeve's Clinic, Westernport, in a private automobile, where Dr. Raymond Reeves treated him for injuries to the arms, chest, leg, and about the face and eyes. He was taken to his home after receiving treatment.

Students Active

Students of the Jackson street school have been extremely active in the past several days in preparation for their coming event of the year.

The activity is caused by the Halloween carnival being conducted Thursday, Oct. 26, at the school. Funds derived from this enterprise will enable the students to get needed athletic equipment and other necessities, and they are doing a fine job of pushing the affair.

The annual carnival usually brings several hundred persons to the school, where entertainment is supplied for all. Principal Jones expects this to be a banner carnival year.

Fairmont Clerk Goes on Trial

Fairmont, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—The state picked out one charge involving $60 today on which to try Mrs. Gladys Lipinski, thirty-three-year-old cashier who was indicted for the embezzlement of $30,000.

A long-time employee of a department store (Golden's), Mrs. Lipinski was cited by the grand jury in more than a score of indictments.

Three members of the jury panel called were dismissed by Judge Charles E. Miller after they declared they had formed a prior opinion of the case.

Julius Golden, co-owner of the store, was the first witness called by the prosecution. He testified about the specific charge on which Mrs. Lipinski is on trial.

On July 12, said the witness, Mrs. Lipinski was given $374.58 to deposit for the store. The next day, he went on, she deposited only $314.58 in the company's account and doctored her own records to cover the difference.

Clower Trial Opens at Keyser

Testimony Will Be Resumed Today When Court Reconvenes

Keyser, W. Va., Oct. 23.—Jury trials began in Mineral county circuit court here this morning with the opening of the case of the State vs. Ira "Dutch" Clower, of near Romney.

Clower was indicted at the April term of court on a charge of statutory rape, involving a young Romney girl. The Van Myra camp meeting grounds near Burlington, was named as the scene of the alleged attack last January.

Attorneys H. G. Shores and Herndon R. Athey represent the defendant, and State's Attorney Vernon E. Rankin is prosecuting the case.

About 5 o'clock this afternoon Judge Robert McV. Drane adjourned court until tomorrow, when testimony will be resumed.

Whiteman-Kimmel

Miss Sallie Ruth Kimmel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Kimmel, Keyser, and Wyatt Wayne Whiteman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Whiteman, McCoolle, were married Saturday in Winchester by the Rev. Swann, pastor of the Methodist church there.

Miss Edith Martin, Westernport, was an attendant at the ceremony. Mr. Whiteman is employed at the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company's plant in Luke.

Brief Mention

F. E. Warner was called to Morrison, Ill., to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Mary A. Warner, 79 Stamford, Conn., who died Saturday from injuries received earlier in the week in an automobile accident at Vandallia, O.

The elderly lady, in company with Mrs. F. E. Warner, was enroute to California.

Burial will be in Morrison, where Mrs. Warner's husband and other family members are buried.

Mr. and Mrs. William Patton, Jr., Lonaconing, announce the birth yesterday of a son at Potomac Valley hospital.

Mrs. William Hiett returned to Richmond today after spending a week at the home here of her father and sister, R. S. Pownall and Miss Helen Pownall.

Council Proceedings

The Mayor and City Commissioners of Frostburg at a special meeting tonight agreed by unanimous vote to furnish water to the Grahamtown Water Company for thirty days, in order to relieve the shortage of water in that section.

Enoch B. Prichard, president of the Grahamtown Company agreed to be responsible for all water passing through a master meter for the Grahamtown Water Company. The meter to be installed by the city at the expense of the company.

The city commissioners acted favorably on the application after Mayor Owen Gunnett stated that he had been informed by officials of the Frostburg Water Company which had been furnishing Grahamtown with water, but whose source of supply at present is almost exhausted, that they would likely have sufficient water in thirty days by increasing their storage facilities on Big Savage Mountain.

It was also argued by a large delegation of Welsh Hill residents who attended the meeting that in the event the city supplied the Grahamtown Water Company, the Frostburg Water Company would be able to supply water to the Welsh Hill and Wright Crossing consumers who have been out of water for several weeks.

The city council also passed a motion instructing the city attorney to confer with the Public Service Commission to ascertain if the city under existing laws has the right to sell city water to an outside corporation.

The action tonight regardless of whether it is legal or not was taken to relieve a serious emergency. Many people it was reported were unable to get water for domestic purposes and in many cases to supply their heating systems.

A group of Welsh Hill residents who are in the corporate limits made applications for direct connection with the city water main, stating they wanted to get off the lines of the Frostburg Water Company. Their applications were turned over to Water Commissioner William Lemmert with instructions to act.

Forest Fire Situation in Southern West Virginia Is Acute

32 New Fires Are Reported By Officials

Largest Blaze Is in McDowell County near Landgraff

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—The forest fire situation in Southern West Virginia became acute again today with the outbreak of thirty-two new fires, one of them burning over a 500-acre area.

State Forester D. B. Griffin reported a big blaze near Landgraff, McDowell county, had alarmed residents of the coal mining camp until workers were able to check its movement toward the town.

The biggest fire was between Berwind and the Virginia border in McDowell county.

"We have five or six fires in the McDowell territory which we cannot extinguish until the wind dies down or a heavy rain comes," Griffin said.

"We hope a night of work will bring them under control, however."

The weatherman revised his forecast and predicted another day of "fair" weather, meaning no relief for weary fire crews.

Between 800 and 900 men were on the fire lines.

Rains in the Northern and Central mountain sections gave the crews at least a forty-eight-hour respite, Griffin said, and equipment which can be spared is being sent into the Southern section.

Director H. W. Shawhan of the Conservation Commission, worried about conditions, said no "immediate action with regard to the suspension of hunting season was considered."

All rangers have been instructed to investigate the sources of fires closely, Shawhan said.

Twenty of today's fires were in the Ranges' Pocahontas district, comprised of McDowell, Mercer, Wyoming, Mingo and Logan counties. Twelve were in the Kanawha district, most of them ranging from one to twenty acres, with two between forty and fifty acres.

State Tries Man To Be Sure He Is Freed Of a Murder Charge

Williamson, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—The state went through the formality of a trial today to make sure Leonard Poffenbarger would be acquitted of a murder charge.

After three witnesses testified that Poffenbarger killed Thomas (Logan) Collins in defense of his home, Assistant Prosecutor O. C. Van Camp addressed the court.

"The state cannot and should not make a case against this defendant and I ask a directed verdict of not guilty."

Judge Charles W. Ferguson without comment, ordered that a formal verdict be drawn up and the jury signed without leaving the box.

Collins was shot last May 21 at Delbarton.

State Trooper Elmer Cubine, Deputy Sheriff Therman Farmer and Anderson Lawson all testified the two men quarreled after Poffenbarger attempted to rescue his son, whom Collins threatened to throw into the creek.

Collins knocked Poffenbarger down, they said, and after Poffenbarger retreated to his house, attacked Mrs. Poffenbarger.

He then tried to break into the Poffenbarger home, they related, but gunfire met him when he tried to crash through a window.

Bishop Leonard Holds Services at Old Rehoboth Church

Union, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—From the same pine-knot table where devout Methodists were served sacramental crumbs and wine 150 years ago, Bishop Adna Wright Leonard administered the ancient rite today in old Rehoboth church.

The Pittsburgh churchman presided over the ceremony with a sermon in the one-room log structure built in 1784 by the Society of Methodist churches.

Edward Keenan, of Monroe county, deeded the meeting house and its five-acre tract to the society, and Bishop Francis Asbury dedicated it in the name of Methodism in 1786.

Old Rehoboth friends consider their church the oldest West of the Allegheny mountains. It was restored as nearly as possible to its original state in 1927.

Bishop Leonard took occasion to preach here on a visit to the Lewisburg district.

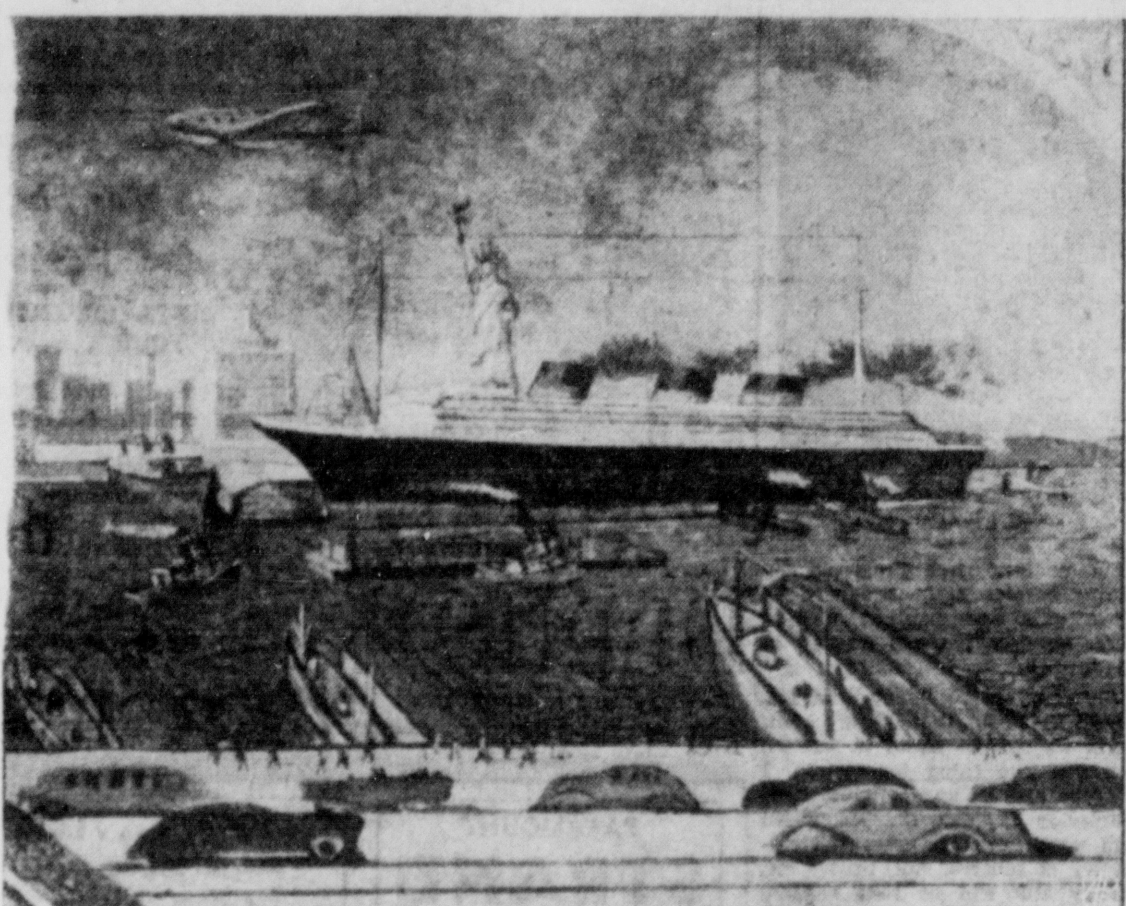

Four Plead Guilty

Wheeling, Oct. 23 (AP)—Constable William Cochran of Parkersburg and three other defendants pleaded guilty today to charges of attempting to defraud the federal government.

Federal Judge William E. Baker deferred sentencing of Cochran, Okey James Blair, Albert Leon French and Charles Britton of Marietta, O., the four also were indicted for transportation of untaxed liquor.

They were accused of "planting" illicit liquor in the automobile of a man whom Cochran later arrested.

Two Children Escape When Home Burns

Parkersburg, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—Mrs. Annie Buck's five-year-old grandson and a neighbor child escaped when her home was destroyed by fire while Mrs. Buck was downtown shopping.

Three members of the jury panel called were dismissed by Judge Charles E. Miller after they declared they had formed a prior opinion of the case.

Julius Golden, co-owner of the store, was the first witness called by the prosecution. He testified about the specific charge on which Mrs. Lipinski is on trial.

On July 12, said the witness, Mrs. Lipinski was given $374.58 to deposit for the store. The next day, he went on, she deposited only $314.58 in the company's account and doctored her own records to cover the difference.

1,773 Increase in School Enrollment

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—West Virginia public school enrollment, with figures available from all but ten counties, showed a net gain of 1,773 for the first month, as compared with the same month last year.

State Superintendent W. W. Trent reported today that elementary school attendance decreased from 252,031 to 246,978, while high schools registered a gain from 163,201 to 119,027.

Counties recording the biggest decrease in elementary enrollment were Harrison, 1,345; Kanawha, 1,070; McDowell, 510; Fayette, 363; and Cabell, 218.

"A decrease in elementary and an increase in high schools may mean one of two things," Trent commented. "There are this year more junior high schools, or more children are remaining in high school than formerly."

Counties which have not yet reported are Calhoun, Hancock, Lewis, Logan, Monongalia, Ohio, Pocahontas, Raleigh, Ritchie and Webster.

Floyd Bittinger Injured in Mine

Lonaconing, Oct. 23 — Floyd Bittinger, 47, Swanton, was injured this morning about 7 o'clock at the Miller Coal Company mine, near Barton.

It is understood the injured man was in the act of starting a fire in the forge at the mine when an explosion occurred. It is felt that the explosion was caused by several dynamite caps exploding in the fire pit. It is unknown how they were placed there.

He was taken to the Reeve's Clinic, Westernport, in a private automobile, where Dr. Raymond Reeves treated him for injuries to the arms, chest, leg, and about the face and eyes. He was taken to his home after receiving treatment.

Students Active

Students of the Jackson street school have been extremely active in the past several days in preparation for their coming event of the year.

The activity is caused by the Halloween carnival being conducted Thursday, Oct. 26, at the school. Funds derived from this enterprise will enable the students to get needed athletic equipment and other necessities, and they are doing a fine job of pushing the affair.

The annual carnival usually brings several hundred persons to the school, where entertainment is supplied for all. Principal Jones expects this to be a banner carnival year.

Reford Aldridge and Mrs. Edith Wade and selections by the Grace Methodist Episcopal church male quartet, consisting of Jesse Snyder, Walter L. Plummer, William Plummer and R. A. Price, accompanied by Mrs. Walter D. Plummer.

Bazaar Committee To Meet Thursday

The community bazaar committee, planning a week of social activities at St. Michael's hall under sponsorship of the American Legion, will meet Thursday evening, Oct. 23, at Legion hall, Mechanic street, to hear reports from the various fraternal and civic organizations who have volunteered in the movement which was started to raise funds for a portable x-ray machine for the Miners' Hospital.

It has already been decided to grant the American Legion the privilege of operating a fancy table and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a dart ball game on the stage of St. Michael's hall. The Women of the Moose have volunteered to aid in the ticket sale and to hold a card party November 8 and turn the receipts over to the bazaar committee. James Dundon of the C. I. O. general staff has offered the use of the C. I. O.'s new sound truck to advertise the bazaar and also volunteered to furnish a floor show Thursday evening, Nov. 16.

New members added to the committee last week were George Walker and Roy Boettner for the Jr. O. U. A. M. Council, No. 11; Benjamin Plier for Klondike local, No. 2113, United Mine Workers; Joseph Kooser, Clarence Powers and Walter Powell for the Arion Band; Sally Pressman, Lillian Erick and Mrs. Porter for the Textile Union and Mary Powell and Polly Alexander as additional representatives for the local garment workers.

Council Proceedings

The Mayor and City Commissioners of Frostburg at a special meeting tonight agreed by unanimous vote to furnish water to the Grantsville Water Company for thirty days, in order to relieve the shortage of water in that section.

Enoch B. Prichard, president of the Grantsville Water Company, agreed to be responsible for all water passing through a master meter for the Grantsville Water Company. The meter to be installed by the city at the expense of the company.

The city commissioners acted favorably on the application after Mayor Owen Gunnett stated that he had been informed by officials of the Frostburg Water Company which had been furnishing Grantsville with water, but whose source of supply at present is almost exhausted, that they would likely have sufficient water in thirty days by increasing their storage facilities on Big Savage Mountain.

It was also agreed by a large delegation of Welsh Hill residents who attended the meeting that in the event the city supplied the Grantsville Water Company, the Frostburg Water Company would be able to supply water to the Welsh Hill and Wright Crossing consumers who have been out of water for several weeks.

The city council also passed a motion instructing the city attorney to confer with the Public Service Commission to ascertain if the city under existing laws has the right to sell city water to an outside corporation.

The action tonight regardless of whether it is legal or not was taken to relieve a serious emergency. Many people it was reported were unable to get water for domestic purposes and in many cases to supply their heating systems.

A group of Welsh Hill residents who are in the corporate limits made applications for direct connection with the city water main, stating they wanted to get off the lines of the Frostburg Water Company. Their applications were turned over to Water Commissioner William Leimert with instructions to act.

SIGRID GURIE . . . her arms and elbows get share of beauty care.

By HELEN FOLLETT

MIND YOUR ELBOWS. Elbows get terribly out of hand. The skin there is coarse, goes grey, if the arms are thin, elbows are an eyesore.

Scrub them well with a heavy brush and strong soap suds. Rinse away the lather, lay on a heavy wash cloth that has been dipped in hot water to soften dead skin scales. Dry, massage with cocoa butter.

Oil the palms of the hands. Palm the arm hinge with 'round and round movements. Rest the elbow on the fingers and rotate the thumb. Do that for at least five minutes. The flesh will be soft, the surface smooth.

Pat in borated talcum to form a paste. Let it remain on over night. In the morning friction with eau de Cologne, use more powder. Elegant.

Broadway. Mr. Parks came here about a year ago from Frederick.

Diehl Will Speak

Professor Ivan C. Diehl, world traveler and head of the geography department at the State Teachers' College, Frostburg, will be the guest speaker at the annual banquet of the Woman's Community Club to be held in the dining room of the Gunter Hotel this evening at 6 o'clock.

Professor Diehl spent part of the summers of 1936 and 1937 in Old Mexico. Upon completing his professional duties at the University of Maryland this past summer, he again returned to Mexico for travel and study. Heretofore, his travels were confined to the northern plateau section of Mexico. His most recent travels carried him across the Gulf Coastal Plain, the Sierra Madre Oriental, the Central Plateau, and the Sierra Madre Occidental. His several thousand miles of travel took him into quaint regions where the natives are still living as they have for countless ages as well as into those parts of the republic which are modern and up-to-date in every respect.

Professor Diehl will choose for this topic, "So You're Going to Mexico." Following the address members of the club, their guests and friends will have an opportunity to raise questions for discussion.

Mrs. Mabel Kemp Dursf will be the guest soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Lillian Speir Stewart. The following chairmen will outline their activities for the year. Miss Ina K. Spitznagel, book department; Miss Kathleen Wolfe, adult education; Mrs. Ada Dillon, welfare; and Mrs. William Jenkins, membership.

Mrs. Taylor Dies

Mrs. Walton E. Taylor, mother of Mrs. John L. Dunkle, this city, died Sunday evening at her home in Baltimore. She was well known here, having resided for several years with Mr. and Mrs. Dunkle at their home on Broadway.

Besides Mrs. Dunkle, she is survived by two sons, Charles E. Taylor, Cumberland, and John K. Taylor, Baltimore.

Storer-Marlin

George Alfred Storer, Frostburg.

Pa., and Miss Elizabeth May Martin, also of Frostburg, Pa., were married Saturday night at the parsonage of the Welsh Baptist Memorial church by the Rev. W. D. Reese, pastor. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cashdollar, Pittsburgh, were the attendants.

Frostburg Briefs

The Ladies Aid Society of the Welsh Baptist Memorial church will hold a masked Halloween party Tuesday evening, 8 o'clock, in the social hall of the church.

The Young People's choir of Zion Evangelical and Reformed church will meet for rehearsal Thursday evening, 7 o'clock. Following the rehearsal there will be a business meeting and a social hour featuring a scavenger hunt.

The Young Men's Republican club will hold a special meeting Wednesday evening, Oct. 25, commencing promptly at 8 o'clock.

Farrady Post, No. 24, American Legion, will hold a special meeting at Firemen's hall, Mt. Savage, Wednesday evening, Oct. 25, at 8 o'clock. Frostburg members of the post will meet at Legion hall, Mechanic street, 7 o'clock, and leave for Mt. Savage in motor cars. The program will include addresses by local Legionnaires and refreshments. The purpose of the meeting is to begin the 1940 membership campaign.

COLDS

For relieving discomforts of chest colds and night coughs, rub VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action relieves congestion of upper air passages—eases soreness of chest and back muscles—helps the youngster relax into healing sleep.

For coughing and irritated throat caused by colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue to relieve the irritation. Then massage VapoRub on throat and chest.

For "sniffles" and misery of head colds, melt VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steaming vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air passages, makes breathing easier. Also massage VapoRub on throat and chest. Millions of families use these three time-tested treatments.

Upon completing his professional duties at the University of Maryland this past summer, he again returned to Mexico for travel and study. Heretofore, his travels were confined to the northern plateau section of Mexico. His most recent travels carried him across the Gulf Coastal Plain, the Sierra Madre Oriental, the Central Plateau, and the Sierra Madre Occidental. His several thousand miles of travel took him into quiet regions where the natives are still living as they have for countless ages as well as into those parts of the republic which are modern and up-to-date in every respect.

Professor Diehl will choose for this topic, "So You're Going to Mexico." Following the address members of the club, their guests and friends will have an opportunity to raise questions for discussion.

Mrs. Mabel Kemp Dursi will be the guest soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Lillian Speir Stewart. The following chairmen will outline their activities for the year: Miss Ina K. Spiznas, book department; Miss Kathleen Wolfe, adult education; Mrs. Ada Dillon, welfare; and Mrs. William Jenkins, membership.

Mrs. Taylor Dies

Mrs. Walton E. Taylor, mother of Mrs. John L. Dunkle, this city, died Sunday evening at her home in Baltimore. She was well known here, having resided for several years with Mr. and Mrs. Dunkle at their home on Broadway.

Besides Mrs. Dunkle, she is survived by two sons, Charles E. Taylor, Cumberland, and John K. Taylor, Baltimore.

Storer-Martin

George Alfred Storer, Frostburg,

Pa., and Miss Elizabeth May Martin, also of Frostburg, Pa., were married Saturday night at the parsonage of the Welsh Baptist Memorial church by the Rev. W. D. Reese, pastor. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cashdollar, Pittsburgh, were the attendants.

Frostburg Briefs

The Ladies Aid Society of the Welsh Baptist Memorial church will hold a masked Halloween party Tuesday evening, 8 o'clock, in the social hall of the church.

The Young People's choir of Zion Evangelical and Reformed church will meet for rehearsal Thursday evening, 7 o'clock. Following the rehearsal there will be a business meeting and a social hour featuring a scavenger hunt.

The Young Men's Republican club will hold a special meeting Wednesday evening, Oct. 25, commencing promptly at 8 o'clock.

Parade Post, No. 24, American Legion, will hold a special meeting at Firemen's hall, Mt. Savage, Wednesday evening, Oct. 25, at 8 o'clock. Frostburg members of the post will meet at Legion hall, Mechanic street, 7 o'clock, and leave for Mt. Savage in motor cars. The program will include addresses by local Legionnaires and refreshments. The purpose of the meeting is to begin the 1940 membership campaign.

and Mrs. Guy S. Stanton for a short time at their farm near here. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller entertained the following guests at a dinner party yesterday: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Himler, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Himler, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. John Cochrane, Mather, Pa.; George Miller, Accident, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Giotfelty, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Younk, Grantsville.

Miss Beatrice Hughes, Pittsburgh, arrived last night and will make her home here for the present, with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Patton. Miss Hughes has been employed as bookkeeper at the office of the Ruttkay-Henry Lumber Co.

Mrs. Harvey Parsons has returned to her home at Baltimore after a weeks visit here with her sisters, Mrs. C. C. Beachy, Mrs. J. Urban Stanton, and Mrs. Ollie E. Leochel. Mrs. G. A. Lininger, Waterloo, Ia., who is visiting relatives here, Mrs. J. Urban Stanton, Mrs. Ollie E.

Loechel, and Simon Yoder spent Sunday in Pinto visiting Mr. and Mrs. Norman Yoder and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barton.

The committee in charge of the dedication of the new Sunday school room which is being added to the Reformed church have named Tuesday, Nov. 21, as the date for the formal dedication services.

An eight pound daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harper Keuy Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Kelly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarence Miller. They have named the baby Patricia Elizabeth. This is their third child and second daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. James McDermott, Jack McLaughlin, Ann Smouse and Homer Smouse, Jr., all of Duquesne, Pa., who were here for a short visit with Mrs. Henrietta Smouse and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. McKenzie, have returned to their home.

Miss Ethel Broadwater will serve as hostess to the ladies of the Methodist Ladies Aid Society Thursday evening at her home. The Society will have its Halloween party at this time.

Rita Bloucher, Cumberland, and Mary Margaret Blocher, Crellin, were here for the weekend to visit their father, V. Llewellyn Blocher, Little Crossings.

Raymond Smith left this morning for Everett, Pa., after spending several days here with his wife and daughter.

The local 4-H group under the direction of Mrs. Daniel W. Hersanberger and Mrs. Harvey Gortner will meet Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvan Dursi, when their daughter, Betty Jo will serve as hostess. They will continue their sewing project, working on aprons at this meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Miller, Postoria, O., arrived yesterday and will spend this week here visiting Mrs. Miller's sisters, Mrs. Ida Hersanberger and Mrs. C. A. Bender and other relatives. They were guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. T.

Olin Broadwater last night and Mr. Hersanberger and Mrs. Bender accompanied them to Madley, Pa. today for a brief visit with the brother, D. W. Yutzey.

We realize that in the stress of grief, many people earnestly desire peace and seclusion. To meet this need, we have arranged our chapel so that services may be attended by the family separately from other mourners. Such consideration for our clients is a distinguishing feature of services provided by this concern.

COLDS

For relieving discomforts of chest colds and night coughs, rub VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action relieves congestion of upper air passages—eases soreness of chest and back muscles—helps the youngster relax into healing sleep.

For coughing and irritated throat caused by colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue to relieve the irritation. Then massage VapoRub on throat and chest.

For "sniffles" and misery of head colds, melt VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steamy vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air passages, makes breathing easier. Also massage VapoRub on throat and chest. Millions of families use these three time-tested treatments.

Picket Guilty, Jury Decides; Sentence Today

Petenbrink Wins Right To Appeal, Then Loses Case

Although he had entered a plea of guilty to an assault charge in Trial Magistrate's court, a Celanese union picket yesterday won the right to appeal the case—and then was pronounced guilty by a Circuit court jury.

The jury deliberated exactly an hour before convicting Vincent Petenbrink, twenty-nine-year-old Corriganville man, of assaulting John Cosgrove, twenty-year-old delivery service employee, as he sought to deliver a copy of The Evening Times to the strike-bound Celanese plant Aug. 11.

Associate Judge William E. Huster had left his office when the jury returned its verdict to Clerk Robert Jackson at 3:40 p. m., and Petenbrink was jailed overnight, pending passing of sentence today.

Heated Legal Battle

Petenbrink won the right to appeal the case only after a lengthy and heated legal battle in the course of which State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris and Trial Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr. reversed their usual roles and took the stand as witnesses.

When the case was called yesterday morning, State's Attorney Harris moved that the appeal be quashed on the ground that the original plea of guilty had invalidated Petenbrink's right to have the judgment reviewed.

Defense Attorney Edward J. Ryan objected to the granting of the state's motion, declaring that Petenbrink had pleaded guilty when he was innocent with the idea of escaping with only a light fine.

Lengthy Testimony Taken

Ryan indicated that his client had been so advised by the state's attorney in an interview just before the hearing in Trial Magistrate's court.

Before ruling on his motion, Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan and Associate Judge William A. Huster ordered testimony taken concerning the entire circumstances surrounding the lower court trial.

Wanted It Over With

The defendant was the first to take the stand. He stated that he had pleaded guilty because he wanted "to have it over with" and that union authorities and State's Attorney Harris had advised him that he would get off with a light fine.

Instead, Magistrate Bruce had sentenced him to thirty days in the county jail. Unwilling to "take the rap for somebody else," he appealed the case after he had been denied a new trial in the lower court.

Harris Puts Self on Stand

After Magistrate Bruce told of the hearing before him, Harris said: "I want to be sworn."

Then, taking the stand, he vigorously denied Petenbrink's charges concerning their conversation before the trial.

(A full account of the testimony on this point is carried elsewhere on this page.)

Magistrate Bruce told of Petenbrink's entering a guilty plea and of his imposing a 30-day jail sentence.

Asked by Ryan if the state's attorney said anything about the penalty one way or the other, Bruce replied:

"Oh, my, no."

Petenbrink 'Shocked'

The magistrate went on to explain how after sentence was imposed, Petenbrink "waited a while and looked at me for a few minutes and seemed a little shocked at it and then said, 'I am not taking the rap for somebody else.'"

He added that Petenbrink told him he had pleaded guilty "with the understanding he was only to get a fine."

On cross-examination by the state's attorney, Bruce stated that he and Harris "never talked about this case prior to the hearing," nor did they afterwards.

Case Ordered To Jury

The magistrate explained that he was willing to grant Petenbrink a new trial and had entertained a motion to strike the verdict, but that after hearing Harris argue the legality of such action, he had refused to strike the judgment.

After deliberating briefly with Associate Judge William A. Huster, Judge Sloan refused to grant the motion to quash the appeal and ruled that the case should be reviewed by a jury.

Judge Sloan emphasized, however, that the jury trial was not granted because of the irregularities alleged by Petenbrink concerning his plea of guilty.

Unfamiliar with Gravity of Case

Rather, Judge Sloan declared, it was because Petenbrink had not sought legal counsel in the matter, substituting, instead, somewhat reprehensible trading back and forth in an effort to make "deals" in the impending trial.

The jurist noted, too, that Petenbrink was plainly unfamiliar with the gravity of the offense with which he was charged.

The jury trial finally got underway, and conflicting versions of the incident were presented by the state and the defense.

Newsboy Ignored Shouts

The prosecuting witness, John Cosgrove, of 607 Sylvan avenue, told of arriving at the Celanese plant at about 4 p. m. Aug. 11 and starting to throw an Evening Times over the fence for Works Manager Charles D. Walton.

Although Petenbrink shouted at him not to throw it, he did anyway, Cosgrove said, and Petenbrink ran across the road, grabbed him,

Testimony on 'Parley'

Petenbrink:

Defendant Petenbrink testified as follows about the conference he had with State's Attorney Harris in the latter's office just before he pleaded guilty in Trial Magistrate's court.

Q. (By Mr. Ryan)—Now, after you were arrested, before you had a hearing on this charge, did you have an understanding with anyone concerning the charge against you?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you talk with anyone about it?

A. Talked with the authorities of the union and also the state.

Q. What did the authorities of the state say about it? Who did you talk to?

A. Mr. Harris.

Q. How long after you—how long after the warrant was issued did you talk to the state's attorney, and why?

A. Well, the warrant was issued on Saturday morning, and I was arrested on the warrant and—Then Monday morning, before the trial came up at 10:30 I went to the union hall and talked to the fellows there, and I wasn't satisfied with the talk and I went to see Mr. Harris and I explained the whole business to him.

Q. Had you known him before that?

A. Yes.

Q. Very Long?

A. Since he started to run for office.

Q. You knew him then?

A. Yes. I went there and asked him—told him I was advised to go to Peoples court and plead guilty on the charge of hitting Cosgrove, and I told him I didn't want to go over and plead guilty because I didn't hit him.

Mr. Harris, the state's attorney, said, "It is my job to find you guilty and I am going to find you guilty because I have four Celanese policemen to testify against you."

I didn't have any witnesses then. I didn't know.

And I said, "Mr. Harris, I don't want to—I don't want you or any other fellows I know—all these big shots are friends of mine—and I don't want to have them think I was that low to hit a man that small."

He called the Peoples Court and asked if the sheriff was there, and the sheriff was there, and the sheriff said he didn't have any witnesses there. I was in the sheriff's office on Saturday afternoon.

Q. Now, before you left there, was there anything said that if you would plead guilty, what the penalty would be?

A. That was after I told him about the sheriff getting witnesses. I said the sheriff had enough trouble on account of the fair and all and I might as well plead guilty, and he said, "That is a good idea," and patted me on the back.

Q. With what understanding?

A. That it would be a small fine and be all over and kept out of the papers and forgotten about.

Q. Now, then, did the state's attorney indicate to you what the sentence would be—or what the fine would be, or how much it would be?

A. No.

Q. What was said about that?

A. He said it would be a small fine and forget about it.

Q. Was anything said about how the fine was to be paid?

A. He said the union would pay the fine. I told him that was the idea, to plead guilty and the union would pay the fine.

Q. (By Mr. Harris)—Now Petenbrink, I agree with most of the things you have said. You did come to my office and you asked me—asked my advice as to whether you should plead guilty or not guilty, and you had been in my office once before only on a matter you wanted me to represent you on, and I told you I couldn't represent you. I told you if you were guilty, the best thing to do would be to plead guilty, and you then made some statements which indicated that you would not plead guilty, and I notified the sheriff—called him and asked him if our witnesses were in court. I told him to get them, and I think I gave him the names of the witnesses—I am not sure of that. And at that point, you interrupted me, did you not, and said rather than have the sheriff go out there, you would enter a plea of guilty.

Q. And that is what I told you, yes.

A. That and you said you go over to court, and I said I would be over shortly.

A. Yes.

Q. And you went over. Oh, when you started out the door, you said, "What do you think the sentence will be?" and I said, "I don't pass on the sentences."

A. That is wrong.

Q. Didn't I say that?

A. No.

Q. (By Mr. Ryan)—Mr. Petenbrink, you had had some associations of a friendly nature with Mr.

Harris:

State's Attorney Harris, put on the witness stand, testified as follows concerning his conference with defendant Petenbrink before the picket pleaded guilty in Trial Magistrate's court.

"I have forgotten the exact date, but on August 11 or 12, Vincent Luther Ira Petenbrink came to my office and it was some time in the morning, and I don't remember all of the details, but I remember the essential parts of the conversation."

"He came to me—to my office only once some months before and asked me to represent him in getting a beer license, and I told him I couldn't represent him on that."

"The only other time I ever saw him was in my office in August. He indicated that a warrant had been issued for him and wanted to see me about whether he should plead guilty or not."

"I said, 'If you are guilty.—No, before that, I told him I was on the other side. He said he wanted my advice. I said, 'If you are guilty and want to enter a plea of guilty, you can do so.' I then said, 'If you are not, don't plead guilty.' And I didn't pat him on the back either."

"There was some conversation—I have forgotten the details of that—and the next thing he indicated he was not going to plead guilty."

"I issued summonses for the state's witnesses and sent the sheriff out. I called the sheriff's office to see if he had gotten the witnesses, and I got the sheriff on the phone and was having some conversation with him."

"He interrupted me. Petenbrink did, at the point and said, 'Don't bother; I will plead guilty,' and I said, 'All right, that will simplify matters.'"

"He then got up and walked out and came back and said, 'What do you think my sentence will be?' and I said, 'I don't pass on the sentences.'"

Q. (By Mr. Ryan)—Did you ask him if he had counsel?

A. I don't believe I did.

Q. Had you talked to the union headquarters about this case?

A. We were looking for the man that had hit Cosgrove, and I called up the union and asked for the name of the man. I think I had his last name and didn't have his first name, and I got it from them.

Q. When you called up about the name, didn't you talk to someone about what the penalty would be?

A. No.

Q. Didn't you tell the person you were talking to at the union headquarters that it would be a matter of a fine only?

A. The only conversation I had with them at all was that I had Petenbrink's last name and asked what his first name was, and they were good enough to give me that information.

Q. They told you who the man was that was to plead guilty, didn't they?

A. They didn't tell me anything like that at all.

Q. Didn't they tell you who the man was that hit the boy?

A. I think I had the last name, and wanted to know his first name.

Q. You knew Petenbrink well before this, didn't you?

A. To my knowledge, I had only seen him once before. I may have seen him many times.

Q. Did he take you around up at the Square Circle and introduce you to a lot of people up there before the election at Corriganville?

Motorist Forfeits, Penalty Is $10

One motorist forfeited bond and another was fined yesterday in Police court on charges of careless driving.

Ray Bruck, of Hyndman, Pa., forfeited $10 bond when he failed to appear before Magistrate Frank A. Perdue for trial.

Samuel Lepic, of RFD 1, Frostburg, was fined $5 for speeding on Greene street late Sunday night.

Both drivers were apprehended by Officers Thomas T. Griffin and James E. Kelley.

Police Radio Call Leads to Arrest Of 'Hit-Skipper'

An Akron, Ohio, motorist was taken from city jail yesterday morning to Berkeley Springs, W. Va., to face a charge of failing to stop after an accident.

The driver, Marvin M. Westfall, was arrested Sunday night in downtown Cumberland by Officers P. C. Jenkins and H. P. Kennard.

Police said Westfall allegedly struck another machine operated by a woman and that he allegedly pushed her from the running board of his car when she attempted to get his name after the accident.

The woman involved in the accident reported the incident to West Virginia police after Westfall drove his car away. She managed to take down his license number.

Westfall was nabbed here after West Virginia authorities requested Maryland police stations to broadcast a "pick up" on a car bearing Akron tags.

State Trooper Charles F. Heintz of the West Virginia police, came here for Westfall.

Big Time in Ridgeley Saturday, With Ball Game and Festival

Saturday is the big day across the Potomac in Ridgeley.

To begin with, Ridgeley high's undefeated football team will play host to Moorefield.

And after the game, the Halloween Festival being sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Associations of the graded and high schools will get underway.

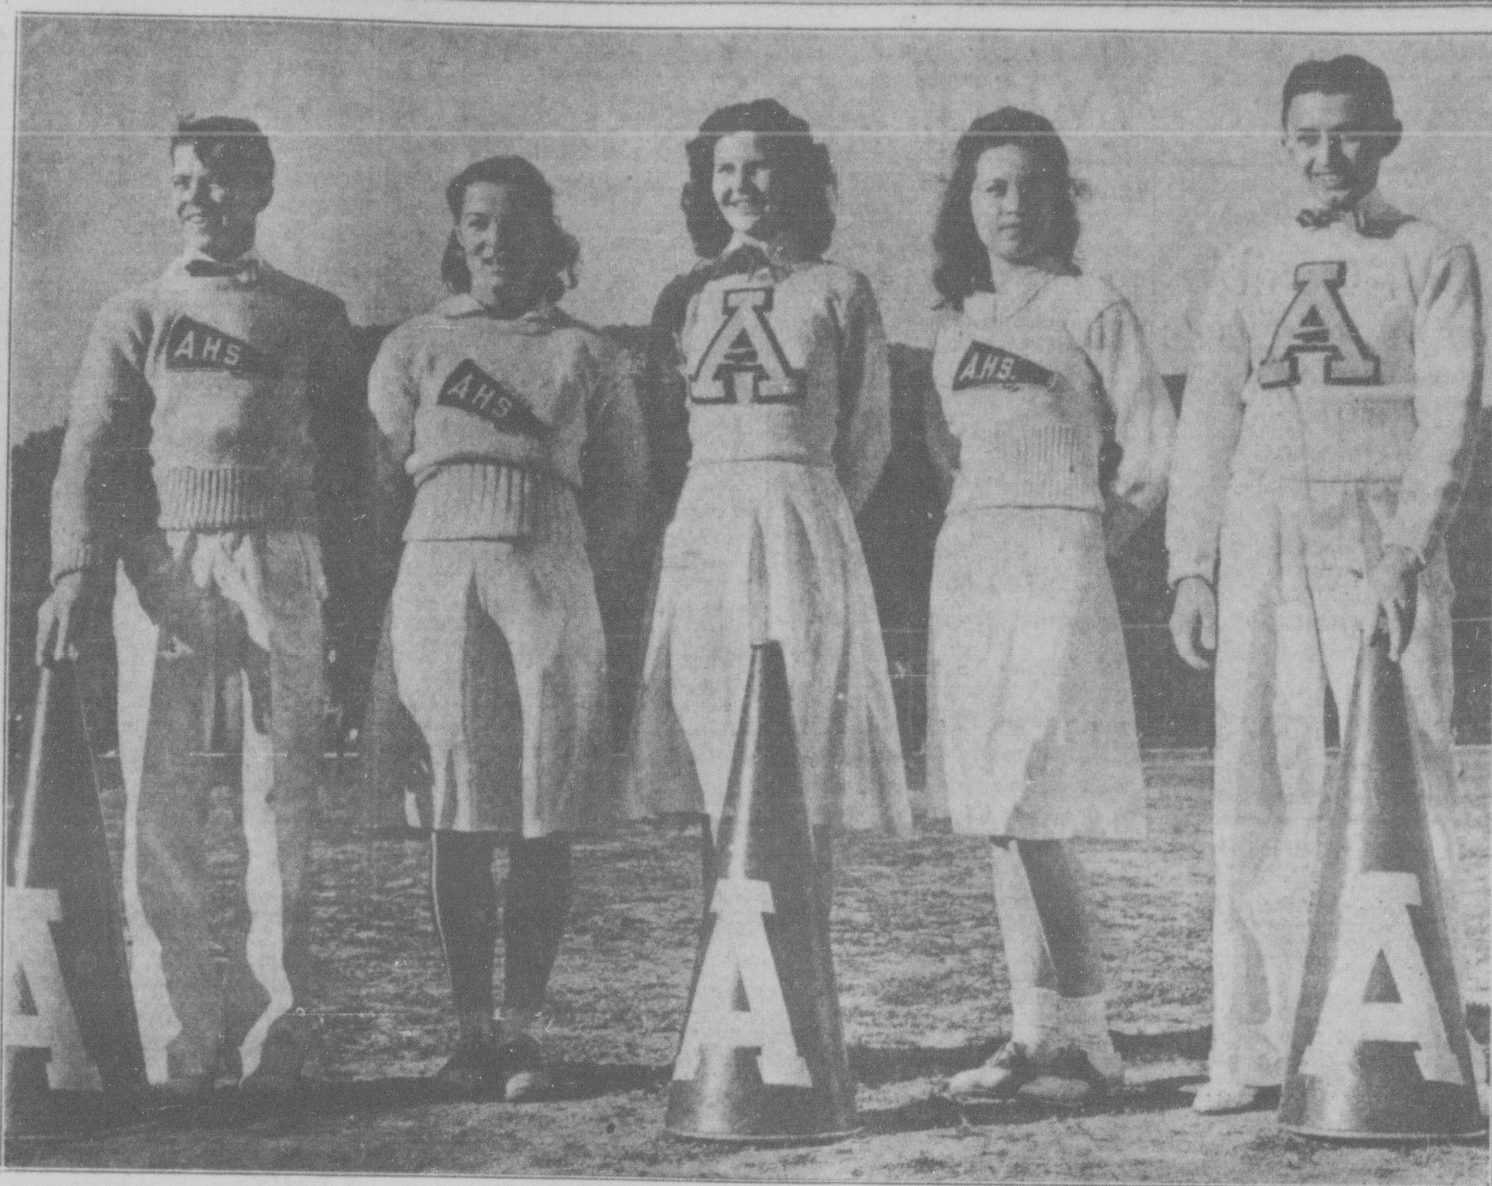

Since the Ridgeley Lions club and the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club are cooperating with the Parent-Teacher Association, the festival will be made a real community celebration.

The festival opens with a parade at 4:30 p. m. Fifteen dollar prizes will be awarded for the largest and best drilled visiting group of men in line, for the best drum corps, the best band, and the best float.

Dollar prizes will be given for the funniest costume, the most original costume, the most artistic costume, and the best characterization costume.

After the parade, from 5:30 to 7:30, there will be a Catch-the-Greased-Pig race, a rabbit race, and a conch race.

The festival then goes on and on, lasting until midnight and including games, dancing, and a beauty contest.

Fort Hill Plans Gay Halloween Party Thursday

Annual Community Festival Promises Plenty of Fun

Halloween fun and witchery will be crowded into Fort Hill's big gymnasium Thursday night for the annual festival sponsored by the Band Parents.

This traditional celebration, which has come to be a big community party for high school youngsters and the grown-ups, too, will open with a concert by the band at 7:30. It was announced yesterday by Victor H. Baumann, band director.

There will be dancing from 8:30 until 11. Costume prizes will be awarded, fortunes will be told, and all sorts of booths will be in operation.

Moreover, busy housewives already have their best recipes out preparing to bake the masterpieces which will be awarded the lucky persons who stop on the right spot during the "cake walk."

The gymnasium will be decorated in keeping with the festivity and spookiness of the occasion.

A large turnout is expected, since the festival is one of the big events of the school year and because the proceeds are all for the benefit of the band.

Parents of band members are selling tickets.

Police Radio Call Leads to Arrest Of 'Hit-Skipper'

An Akron, Ohio, motorist was taken from city jail yesterday morning to Berkeley Springs, W. Va., to face a charge of failing to stop after an accident.

The driver, Marvin M. Westfall, was arrested Sunday night in downtown Cumberland by Officers P. C. Jenkins and H. P. Kennard.

Police said Westfall allegedly struck another machine operated by a woman and that he allegedly pushed her from the running board of his car when she attempted to get his name after the accident.

The woman involved in the accident reported the incident to West Virginia police after Westfall drove his car away. She managed to take down his license number.

Westfall was nabbed here after West Virginia authorities requested Maryland police stations to broadcast a "pick up" on a car bearing Akron tags.

State Trooper Charles F. Heintz of the West Virginia police, came here for Westfall.

Friendly Wrestling Ends in Hospital

A twenty-one-year-old WPA worker who was injured Sunday in a friendly wrestling match was admitted to Allegany hospital yesterday.

Lester Deneen, of Amaranth, Pa., suffered a fractured left shoulder Sunday when he slipped and fell during the bout.

Deaths

Mrs. George Yeager

A requiem high mass for Mrs. Catherine A. Yeager, 62, wife of George Yeager, 74 Greene street, who died Friday at Allegany hospital, was conducted yesterday morning at St. Peter and Paul's Catholic church. Rev. Father Boniface, O. M. Cap., pastor, was celebrant.

Interment will be in the St. Bernard's Cemetery, Akron, Ohio.

Auto Crash Causes Blackout on U. S. 40

A lot of folks between Green Ridge and Polish mountain didn't hear Charlie McCarthy Sunday night.

Every light in that sector went on the blink around 8 p. m. Sunday when a speeding car crashed into a light pole guide wire on the Baltimore Pike about twenty-one miles east of Cumberland.

When the guide wire was ripped off the pole sagged and the power lines snapped under the tension.

With their lights out and radios dead, residents started calling up the light company.

State Police headquarters was eventually informed and Officer George J. Miller was sent to investigate. The car that caused the mischief was gone when Officer Miller arrived on the scene.

Officers were still looking for the car late last night.

Council Orders Firetrap Fixed

Building To Be Razed Unless Repaired

Mayor Harry Irvine and the members of city council indicated yesterday that two crumbling Cumberland buildings must either be repaired or torn down.

Council allotted Louis P. Saterakos four weeks to make repairs costing between $700 and $800 on a residence owned by him at 259 North Centre street. In the event the repairs are not made the building must come down, council decreed.

Mayor Irvine drew the attention of council to the Blaul building on North Mechanic street.

"It's falling down," the mayor commented.

Inspection Ordered

City Engineer Ralph R. Rizer was ordered to inspect the building and report back to council next week.

The city engineer was sent to inspect the Saterakos-owned dwelling before council to protest Fire Chief Reid C. Hoenicka's order that it be demolished.

Chief Hoenicka characterized the structure as a "firetrap."

In a letter to the mayor and council, John E. Ackerman, 611 Henderson avenue, objected to a proposal to build a fence around a junk yard on Henderson street.

Ackerman stated that the proposal had been advanced by the C&P Railroad. He opposed it on the grounds that the fence would obstruct the view of those crossing the railroad.

Council took no action on the communication. Mayor Irvine stated that no other information concerning the proposal had been received at City Hall.

Alley Question Up

David T. Sharp, who last week asked the council to close an alley in the vicinity of his Lexington avenue home, was informed by City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett that it can be done by condemnation or by securing a release from the owner of the adjoining property.

Sharp stated he wished to utilize the alley to build a greenhouse.

Glisan's Garage yesterday was granted a permit to install a gasoline tank providing the tank is located on garage property and not under the sidewalk. The Howell Coal Co. was given permission to install a tank in the rear of 315 North Centre street.

LIVED IN WOODS—Arrested at their campfire near Eckhart, this vagabond couple pose in the sheriff's office before going their separate ways to serve sentences in the House of Correction. The man is Wilbur Plummer, 27, the girl Elizabeth Harris, 19.—News Staff Photo.

Vagabond Couple Living in Woods Didn't have Cash Enough To Wed

A man and a girl arrested by State police for living like wild animals in the woods near Eckhart announced in jail last night that they wanted to get married when they get out of the House of Correction.

That time will be nine months hence for the man, Wilbur Plummer, 27, and seven months hence for the girl, 19-year-old Elizabeth Harris, according to sentences meted out in juvenile court yesterday.

"Sure, I'd like to get married when I get out," said gaunt and greying Plummer. "I'd have got married long before this if I'd had any money. I used to be on WPA, but I got fired."

"It was love at first sight," said T. A. Short captured the couple Sunday while they were boiling coffee over a campfire in the woods on the mountain near Eckhart.

They had with them nothing but a sack containing spare clothes, coffee and some bread.

Sheriff Called

Sheriff Lucian C. Radcliffe said his office got the first complaint on the couple about Sept. 1, but that Plummer had eluded them.

Deputies Henry McKee and John Patton reported finding the girl at her father's home some weeks ago. They warned her she would go to the "Cul" if she didn't stay away from Plummer.

"Now she tells us she met him in the woods again the very next day," Deputy McKee said yesterday.

Camp in Car

State police were called in on the case Sunday by a complaining citizen who said the couple had spent Saturday night in a junked car near Eckhart.

State police found the car deserted, but they noticed smoke further up the mountain and surprised the pair around their campfire.

The girl was charged with contributing to the delinquency of her two-year-old son, whom she had allegedly carried with her on some of her wanderings. The baby was at his grandfather's home at the time of the arrest, however.

Plummer was charged with contributing to the delinquency of his 19-year-old companion.

State police said the couple had lived in various shacks, without furniture. They slept on the bare ground. They begged for their meagre supplies, hence the complaints that have been coming in about them.

"Sure, I'd like to get married when I get out," said gaunt and greying Plummer. "I'd have got married long before this if I'd had any money. I used to be on WPA, but I got fired."

Picket Guilty, Jury Decides; Sentence Today

Petenbrink Wins Right To Appeal, Then Loses Case

Although he had entered a plea of guilty to an assault charge in Trial Magistrate's court, a Celanese union picket yesterday won the right to appeal the case—and then was pronounced guilty by a Circuit court jury.

The jury deliberated exactly an hour before convicting Vincent Luther Petenbrink, twenty-nine-year-old Corriangville man, of assaulting John Cosgrove, twenty-year-old delivery service employee, as he sought to deliver a copy of The Evening Times to the strike-bound Celanese plant Aug. 11.

Associate Judge William E. Huster left his office when the jury returned its verdict to Clerk Robert Jackson at 2:40 p. m., and Petenbrink was jailed overnight, pending passing of sentence today.

Heated Legal Battle

Petenbrink won the right to appeal the case only after a lengthy and heated legal battle in the course of which State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris and Trial Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce Jr. reversed their usual roles and took the stand as witnesses.

When the case was called yesterday morning, State's Attorney Harris moved that the appeal be quashed on the ground that the original plea of guilty had invalidated Petenbrink's right to have the judgment reviewed.

Defense Attorney Edward J. Ryan objected to the granting of the state's motion, declaring that Petenbrink had pleaded guilty when he was innocent with the idea of escaping with only a light fine.

Lengthy Testimony Taken

Ryan indicated that his client had been so advised by the state's attorney in an interview just before the hearing in Trial Magistrate's court.

Before ruling on his motion, Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan and Associate Judge William A. Huster ordered testimony taken concerning the entire circumstances surrounding the lower court trial.

Wanted It Over With

The defendant was the first to take the stand. He stated that he had pleaded guilty because he wanted "to have it over with" and that union authorities and State's Attorney Harris had advised him he would get off with a light fine.

Instead, Magistrate Bruce had sentenced him to thirty days in the county jail. "Unwilling to 'take the rap for somebody else,'" he appealed the case after he had been denied a new trial in the lower court.

Harris Puts Self on Stand

After Magistrate Bruce told of the hearing before him, Harris said: "I want to be sworn."

Then, taking the stand, he vigorously denied Petenbrink's charges concerning their conversation before the trial.

(A full account of the testimony on this point is carried elsewhere on this page.)

Magistrate Bruce told of Petenbrink's entering a guilty plea and of his imposing a 30-day jail sentence.

Asked by Ryan if the state's attorney said anything about the penalty one way or the other, Bruce replied:

Petenbrink "Shocked"

The magistrate went on to explain how after sentence was imposed, Petenbrink "waited a while and looked at me for a few minutes and seemed a little shocked at it and then said, 'I am not taking the rap for somebody else.'"

He added that Petenbrink told him he had pleaded guilty "with the understanding he was only to get a fine."

On cross-examination by the state's attorney, Bruce stated that he and Harris "never talked about this case prior to the hearing," nor did they afterwards.

Case Ordered To Jury

The magistrate explained that he was willing to grant Petenbrink a new trial and had entertained a motion to strike the verdict, but that after hearing Harris argue the legality of such action, he had refused to strike the judgment.

After deliberating briefly with Associate Judge William A. Huster, Judge Sloan refused to grant the motion to quash the appeal and ruled that the case should be reviewed by a jury.

Judge Sloan emphasized, however, that the jury trial was not granted because of the irregularities alleged by Petenbrink concerning his plea of guilty.

Unfamiliar with Gravity of Case. Rather, Judge Sloan declared, it was because Petenbrink had not sought legal counsel in the matter, substituting, instead, somewhat reprehensible trading back and forth in an effort to make "deals" in the impending trial.

The jurist noted, too, that Petenbrink was plainly unfamiliar with the gravity of the offense with which he was charged.

The jury trial finally got underway, and conflicting versions of the incident were presented by the state and the defense.

Newsboy Ignored Shouts

The prosecuting witness, John Cosgrove, of 607 Sylvan avenue, told of arriving at the Celanese plant at about 4 p. m., Aug. 11 and starting to throw an Evening Times over the fence for Works Manager Charles D. Walton.

Although Petenbrink shouted at him not to throw it, he did anyway, Cosgrove said, and Petenbrink ran across the road, grabbed him,

Testimony on 'Parley'

Petenbrink:

Defendant Petenbrink testified as follows about the conference he had with State's Attorney Harris in the latter's office just before he pleaded guilty in Trial Magistrate's court:

Q. (By Mr. Ryan)—Now, after you were arrested, before you had a hearing on this charge, did you have an understanding with anyone concerning the charge against you?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you talk with anyone about it?

A. Talked with the authorities of the union and also the state.

Q. What did the authorities of the state say about it? Who did you talk to?

A. Mr. Harris.

Q. How long after you—how long after the warrant was issued did you talk to the state's attorney, and why?

A. Well, the warrant was issued on Saturday morning, and I was arrested on the warrant and—Then Monday morning, before the trial came up at 10:30 I went to the union hall and talked to the fellows there, and I wasn't satisfied with the talk and I went to see Mr. Harris and I explained the whole business to him.

Q. Had you known him before that?

A. Yes.

Q. Very Long?

A. Since he started to run for office.

Q. You knew him then?

A. Yes. I went there and asked him—told him I was advised to go to Peoples court and plead guilty on the charge of hitting Cosgrove, and I told him I didn't want to go over and plead guilty because I didn't hit him.

Mr. Harris, the state's attorney, said, "It is my job to find you guilty and I am going to find you guilty because I have four Celanese policemen to testify against you."

I didn't have any witnesses then. I didn't know.

And I said, "Mr. Harris, I don't want to—I don't want you or any other fellows I know—all these big shots are friends of mine—and I don't want to have them think I was that low to hit a man that small."

He called the Peoples Court and asked if the sheriff was there, and the sheriff was there, and the sheriff said he didn't have any witnesses there. I was in the sheriff's office on Saturday afternoon.

Q. Now, before you left there, was there anything said that if you would plead guilty, what the penalty would be?

A. That was after I told him about the sheriff getting witnesses. I said the sheriff had enough trouble on account of the fair and all, and I might as well plead guilty, and he said, "That is a good idea," and patting me on the back.

Q. With that understanding?

A. That it would be a small fine and be all over and kept out of the papers and forgotten about.

Q. Now, then, did the state's attorney indicate to you what the sentence would be—or what the fine would be, or how much it would be?

A. No.

Q. What was said about that?

A. He said it would be a small fine and forget about it.

Q. Was anything said about how the fine was to be paid?

A. He said the union would pay the fine. I told him that was the idea, to plead guilty and the union would pay the fine.

Q. (By Mr. Harris)—Now Petenbrink, I agree with most of the things you have said. You did come to my office and you asked me—asked my advice as to whether you should plead guilty or not guilty, and you had been in my office once before only on a matter you wanted me to represent you on, and I told you if you were guilty, the best thing to do would be to plead guilty, and you then made some statements which indicated that you would not plead guilty, and I notified the sheriff—called him and asked him if our witnesses were in court. I told him to get them, and I think I gave him the names of the witnesses—I am not sure of that. And at that point, you said rather than have the sheriff go out there, you would enter a plea of guilty.

Q. And that is what I told you, yes.

A. That and you said you go over to court, and I said I would be over shortly.

A. Yes.

Q. And you went over. Oh, when you started out the door, you said, "What do you think the sentence will be?" and I said, "I don't pass on the sentences."

A. That is wrong.

Q. Didn't I say that?

A. No.

Q. (By Mr. Ryan)—Mr. Petenbrink, you had had some associations of a friendly nature with Mr.

Harris:

State's Attorney Harris, put on the witness stand, testified as follows concerning his conference with defendant Petenbrink before the picket pleaded guilty in Trial Magistrate's court.

"I have forgotten the exact date, but on August 11 or 12, Vincent Luther Ira Petenbrink came to my office and it was some time in the morning, and I don't remember all of the details, but I remember the essential parts of the conversation."

"He came to me—to my office only once some months before and asked me to represent him in getting a beer license, and I told him I couldn't represent him on that."

"The only other time I ever saw him was in my office in August. He indicated that a warrant had been issued for him and wanted to see me about whether he should plead guilty or not."

"I said, 'If you are guilty—No, before that, I told him I was on the other side. He said he wanted my advice. I said, 'If you are guilty and want to enter a plea of guilty, you can do so.' I then said, 'If you are not, don't plead guilty.' And I didn't pat him on the back either."

"There was some conversation—I have forgotten the details of that—and the next thing he indicated he was not going to plead guilty."

"I issued summonses for the state's witnesses and sent the sheriff out. I called the sheriff's office to see if he had gotten the witnesses, and I got the sheriff on the phone and was having some conversation with him."

"He interrupted me, Petenbrink did, at the point and said, 'Don't bother; I will plead guilty,' and I said, 'All right, that will simplify matters.'"

"He then got up and walked out and came back and said, 'What do you think my sentence will be?' and I said, 'I don't pass on the sentences.'"

Q. (By Mr. Ryan)—Did you ask him if he had counsel?

A. I don't believe I did.

Q. Had you talked to the union headquarters about this case?

A. We were looking for the man that had hit Cosgrove, and I called up the union and asked for the name of the man. I think I had his last name and didn't have his first name, and I got it from them.

Q. When you called up about the name, didn't you talk to someone about what the penalty would be?

A. No.

Q. Didn't you tell the person you were talking to at the union headquarters that it would be a matter of a fine only?

A. The only conversation I had with them at all was that I had Petenbrink's last name and asked what his first name was, and they were good enough to give me that information.

Q. They told you who the man was that was to plead guilty, didn't they?

A. They didn't tell me anything like that at all.

Q. Didn't they tell you who the man was that hit the boy?

A. I think I had the last name, and wanted to know his first name.

Q. You knew Petenbrink well before this, didn't you?

A. To my knowledge, I had only seen him once before. I may have seen him many times.

Q. Did he take you around up at the Square Circle and introduce you to a lot of people up there before the election at Corriangville?

Big Time in Ridgeley Saturday, With Ball Game and Festival

Saturday is the big day across the Potomac in Ridgeley.

To begin with, Ridgeley high's undefeated football team will play host to Moorefield.

And after the game, the Halloween Festival being sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Associations of the graded and high schools will get underway.

Since the Ridgeley Lions club and the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club are cooperating with the Parent-Teacher Association, the festival will be made a real community celebration.

The festival opens with a parade at 4:30 p. m. Fifteen dollar prizes will be awarded for the largest and best drilled visiting group of men in line, for the best drum corps, the best band, and the best float.

Dollar prizes will be given for the funniest costume, the most original costume, the most artistic costume, and the best characterization costume.

After the parade, from 5:30 to 7:30, there will be a Catch-the-Greased-Pig race, a rabbit race, and a coon chase.

The festival then goes on and on, lasting until midnight and including games, dancing, and a beauty contest.

Parents Inspect Newest School At Dedication

Much Enthusiasm Is Demonstrated At Ceremonies

School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp knew all the answers last night when School Board President William A. Gunter stepped into the role of "Professor Quiz" at the dedication of the new $135,000 West Side School.

The membership of the West Side Parent-Teacher Association was out in full force for the event. Parents thoroughly inspected the beautiful new school, and later filled the roomy new auditorium for the business meeting and dedication service.

Superintendent Kopp Praised

Prior to the somewhat novel quiz, Mr. Gunter paid a glowing tribute to Superintendent Kopp "as the man who kept this thing going when others fell by the wayside."

"He finished it," Mr. Gunter declared, which statement drew a volley of applause from the large audience.

"And now, professor, I'm going to ask you some questions," Mr. Gunter stated good-humoredly, turning to Superintendent Kopp.

Costs Explained

"How much did this lot cost," the board president inquired first.

"The lot cost $32,000," Mr. Kopp replied. "However, the lot of Greene street was traded in for $15,000. Thus the actual cost was $17,000."

"How much did the school cost," Mr. Gunter inquired next.

"The school cost $135,000, of which fifty-five per cent will be paid by the county," Mr. Kopp answered promptly. "The remaining forty-five per cent was supplied by a PWA grant."

About the Schools

Mr. Gunter's questions and Mr. Kopp's answers then brought out the following information:

1—That the new school can accommodate 480 pupils, with provisions made to accommodate more if necessary.

2—That there are now 16,000 school children in the county with the average per pupil cost being $57.50 compared to an average $101 throughout the United States.

3—That school bus transportation in Allegany county costs $75,000 for the 188 days in the school year.

4—That there are 490 teachers in the county, including 75 married female teachers, with the ratio being two to one in favor of the women.

5—That it costs between $900,000 and $940,000 to operate county schools each year, that the state
